SEE EQUAL FOR OIL SCANDAL IN POSTAL LEASES

Hear Ugly Rumors in Capital.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—Scandal rivaling anything in the Teapot Dome expose and involving in addition to many millions of dollars grafted from the government, the life savings of thousands of innocent investors throughout the country, is promised in the forthcoming special senate committee investigation of postoffice substation leases.

Ugly rumors afloat in Washington for months have bandied the names of high postoffice and other government officials as parties to the conspiracy, and it was openly hinted on the senate floor last week that exposure was blocked two years ago by the death under strangely suspicious circumstances of an investigator just as he was about to reveal the whole scheme.

Expect Long Investigation.

Blaine, virtually certain to be appointed chairman of the committee, announced today that preliminary inquiries are already under way, but added six weeks to two months will be required to follow a maze of leads before the committee settles down to public hearings here and in the many cities where it is expected the trail must be traced.

As a result of the fight waged by Representative Maas and Senators Blaine and Nye, which brought the lease scandal into the open, the postoffice appropriation bill passed by the senate a few days ago included a provision prohibiting further payments of any kind in connection with the St. Paul commercial substation leased to the government by Jacob Kulp & Co. of Chicago.

Although the original negotiations were conducted by former Postmaster General Burleson in the latter days of the Wilson administration, the lease on the St. Paul building, erected by Loeb & Cowing, Chicago contractors, was actually signed by Postmaster General Will Hays, who succeeded Burleson in the Harding régime. The lease provided for rental of $120,775 a year.

Hold Chicago Leases.

Kulp & Co., who, it is asserted, have more than 25 similar leases covering postoffice facilities in various cities, including the Quincy street substation and station D at 512 South Western avenue in Chicago, took over the St. Paul building from Loeb & Cowing, and although the actual value of the building, including the site, was appraised for taxation purposes at only $155,000, proceeded to issue $1,150,000 bonds.

Both Senators Nye and Blaine charged that originally it was represented to purchasers of the bonds that Kulp & Co. held a 20 year noncancelable lease from the government when, as a matter of fact, the lease contained the usual 90 day cancellation clause. At this point in the transaction it is charged the late secretary of war, James W. Good, then an attorney practicing in Chicago, was retained by Kulp & Co.

He succeeded in persuading the postoffice department to accept a reduction of $775 a year in the rental in return for a new 20 year noncancelable lease. Good, according to evidence read into the Congressional Record by Blaine, received a $10,000 fee for his services in this particular case.

Says Values Are Inflated.

"The St. Paul situation stinks to high heaven and it is merely typical of the rotten and unconscionable practice which has prevailed for years," asserted Senator Nye in the senate, pointing out that by inflating the value of the St. Paul building Kulp & Co. instead of receiving a rental equal to the usual 10 per cent to cover 6 per cent on the investment in addition to the cost of maintenance actually received 30 per cent on the real value of the property.

Nye revealed that the late A. S. Fisher, credited with unearthing most of the evidence which resulted in the Teapot Dome expose, was working on the substation lease scandal at the same time he was digging away at the oil scandals.

"Fisher probably knew more of this lease scandal, which rivals anything he ever found in Teapot Dome, than any other person," declared Nye. "But Fisher died very suddenly and some people still insist under very suspicious circumstances, one morning in July two years ago."

KEEPS 14,000 FT. UP IN RECORD HOP; WIFE AIDS

Anne His Navigator and Co-Pilot.

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Tearing along at an average speed of 180 miles an hour, Col. Charles Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh today pushed a Lockheed Sirius plane from Los Angeles, Cal., to Roosevelt field, New York, in 14 hours, 45 minutes and 32 seconds.

They landed at 11:11 o'clock tonight, clipping three hours, 14 minutes and 49 seconds from the record set last July by Captain Frank M. Hawks in another Lockheed monoplane. Hawks' record was 17 hours, 38 minutes, 50 seconds. The distance covered was approximately 2,700 miles.

The Lindberghs' flight was unique in that it was pursued at altitudes ranging from 14,000 to 15,500 feet, never lower. It was a test of the theory that express and passenger plane service can be greatly speeded if the planes fly in the higher reaches where the air is thinner and the resistance correspondingly less than at lower altitudes.

Anne Is His Navigator.

It was a complete triumph in every way, and Mrs. Lindbergh shared the honors with her husband, because she did not ride merely as a passenger, but acted as navigator as well, guiding her husband in the trackless lane by "shooting the stars" with an aviation sextant. This aid was invaluable, since the plane all through the flight was far too high for ordinary ground observations.

Lindbergh was high in his praise of his wife, who, he said, not only did the navigating, but kept the charts and even took the controls at times.

The only time the ship was observed in its rocketlike dash from coast to coast was at 10:40 p. m., when the thunder of its Wasp motor was heard over Allentown, Pa. By that time the ship was being brought down to normal flying altitudes, since the goal was near.

Five thousand men and women waited in the light drenched field near Garden City all through the evening for the chance of seeing Col. Lindbergh set a new record. They showed their appreciation by cheering wildly and honking their auto horns as the pilot set the bullet shaped, low winged ship on the field in a neat three point landing.

After the landing Lindbergh posed for photographers and talked to reporters freely.

More Experiment Needed.

Col. Lindbergh told reporters after he landed that the flight does not definitely establish the theory that flying at the greater heights is a better method for more efficient express and passenger plane service. He said he was pleased with the general results, but that further experiment would be necessary and that he would undertake the experiments.

"I encountered no exceptional winds during the flight,' he said. "At times we had winds that were slightly advantageous and at other times we ran into head winds that impeded us, although only slightly. All in all, we encountered no exceptional weather.

"We were compelled, several times, to deviate as much as 100 miles from the plotted course in order to get around small areas of cloud and fog. We made the entire flight at altitudes varying from 14,000 feet to 15,500, Mrs. Lindbergh acting as co-pilot and navigator throughout the trip. She used the aviation sextant to take observations to keep us on our course."

Protests Claim of Record.

"I want to make it plain," answered Col. Lindbergh, "that I really did not break the transcontinental speed record, despite the fact that our elapsed time was less than the time taken by Capt. Hawks on his transcontinental flight. The reason for that is that we made one stop while Capt. Hawks' flight was non-stop."

Capt. Hawks, who was on the field to greet the Lindberghs, did not hold the same view and told the reporters later that there was no doubt of the Lindberghs having set a new record.

"We followed the transcontinental airways route all the way from Los Angeles to Wichita, where we landed for gas," Col. Lindbergh said. "But after leaving Wichita we were compelled several times to alter our course because of weather conditions."

The flying colonel and his wife left Los Angeles at 8:26 eastern standard time this morning, stopped seven hours later at Wichita, Kas., to refuel and within twenty minutes were in

Census Shows City Still Lures Farm Youths

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—How to keep them down on the farm, in Illinois as well as the other agricultural states, remains a vital problem of American life, it is indicated by early reports from the 1930 census enumeration.

Sons and daughters born on the farms and in the smaller villages, discouraged by the prospects at home and lured by advantages held out by the cities, apparently have continued their march to the urban centers during the last decade, the reports show, while fewer heeded the slogan: "Back to the farm." Figures from eight of the central states, available from preliminary returns, reveal that approximately 60 per cent of the rural districts counted sustained population losses between 1920 and 1930. While no statistics are yet available for the cities, it is certain that most, if not all of the larger ones, will register substantial gains.

A typical illustration of the farm migration trend was supplied in supervisors' counts made public today showing a 10 per cent population decrease in fifteen districts located in seven downstate Illinois counties.

Figures in Seven Illinois Counties.

Ten of the fifteen districts lost from 5 to 20 per cent of their residents and only five gained. The total decrease was from 7,686 in 1920 to 6,893 in 1930. The figures were as follows:

Division, county—	1920.	1930.
Carbon Hill, Grundy	281	165
Braceville, Grundy	303	219
Central City, Grundy	56	32
Eastbrooklyn, Grundy	204	79
South Wilmington, Grundy	1,362	722
Delavan, Tazewill	1,191	1,084
Fall River, La Salle	328	347
Kangley, La Salle	540	578
Tonica, La Salle	439	500
Somanauk, De Kalb	540	578
Rockton, Winnebago	899	1,077
Cherry Valley, Winnebago	486	587
Shirland, Winnebago	444	414
Gridley, McLean	720	709
Simpson, Johnson	178	144

Automobiles and good roads, moving pictures, and the "broader aspect of life" are credited partially for the urge cityward, although it also is argued that these conveniences and luxuries would have the opposite effect. A more cogent explanation is the appeal of the city.

The agricultural depression since the war also has doubtless figured, although the department of agriculture contends that with better conditions the stream is slowly becoming smaller.

Average 400,000 a Year.

Estimates of the department based on surveys started in 1922 indicate that since that year a gross movement of persons leaving farms for urban centers has taken place to the number of 2,000,000 a year, while 1,000,000 to 1,400,000 have moved the other way, leaving the net annual loss at 1,000,000 to 600,000 persons. "Our total net loss of farm population between the census of 1920 and 1925 was 2,000,000 persons. The estimated loss from 1925 to Jan. 1, 1928, was 1,283,000 persons," stated former Secretary W. M. Jardine in his annual report.

"In eight years, therefore, the farm population has diminished 3,283,000 persons, or an average of 400,000 a year.

"But in 1927 the situation changed materially. That year saw a smaller gross movement away from the farms and a larger gross movement to the farms, so that the net loss was only 192,000, the smallest of any year in the period under review."

Subsequent estimates of the department of agriculture have upheld the belief that the pendulum swing to the cities is slowing down.

Evanston Cop Sacrifices Hat to Protect Worshipers

Because of a recent epidemic of coat thefts in Evanston Policeman Charles F. Boulanger was assigned to don civilian clothes and guard the Easter finery of members of the congregation of St. Luke's Episcopal church at 424 Lee street, vanston, during the services yesterday morning. When the services closed every coat in the four cloakrooms of the church was safe where its owner had left it. But Boulanger's hat was gone.

Air 'Tragedy' Turns Out to Be Airy Fable

Boston, Mass., April 20.—[Special.]—The story of an air tragedy in which a veteran of the British royal air force gave his life in a search for the body of his brother, killed in an airplane crash, brought sorrow yesterday to friends of the two brothers from Alabama to northern Canada.

Today the tragic epic dissolved into a domestic comedy when the death of the flyer, Maj. Robert C. Read, an efficiency expert for a firm of industrial engineers, now working in Chicago, was revealed as a bit of imaginative fiction designed to free Maj. Read, who is a married man, from a romance with an actress who said he was to marry her on May 5.

Actress Told of Death.

The first report of Maj. Read's death came from Miss Mabel Mehaffie, an actress, known as Joan Winters, in Dayton, O. Miss Mehaffie announced that she had received word that Read had been killed in an airplane crash at Great Slave lake, in northern Canada, while searching for his brother Pat, a pilot who participated in the search for Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, killed off Alaska last winter. According to Miss Mehaffie's informant, Pat Read had been killed earlier in the week.

Miss Mehaffie said she met Maj. Read in Birmingham while she was playing there and while he was there on business for MacDonald Brothers, industrial engineers, of Boston. She became engaged to Read, she said, and they had planned to be married in Dayton, where she is now playing in a stock company.

Then Brother Is Found Alive.

The story of the major's death brought dispatches from Birmingham which told of the romance between the flyer and the actress, while telegrams from Canada told of Pat Read's part in the search for Eielson and Borland. Then Pat Read was found alive at Sioux Lookout, Ont., attending to his duties as a pilot for the Northern Mineral Explorations company. Investigation at the headquarters of MacDonald Brothers here revealed that Maj. Read was in Chicago installing new record keeping systems in a chain of drug stores.

John M. MacDonald, president of the engineering concern, said he talked to Read in Chicago by telephone and Read admitted to him that the letters to Miss Mehaffie were "faked."

MacDonald refused to reveal Read's whereabouts in Chicago and said he didn't know where Mrs. Read is, except that "she is somewhere in New York." He said he believed Read had married the daughter of either "the Greek ambassador to England or the English ambassador to Greece."

Cigaret Blaze Kills Guest in N. Shore Home

Donald Fairchild Washburn, recently of Kansas City, who arrived in Chicago Saturday to seek employment, died yesterday in the Evanston hospital as a result of burns received early in the day from a blaze in the room he was occupying as the guest of Richard P. Matthiessen in his home at 660 Rosewood avenue, Winnetka.

Mr. Matthiessen believes the fire was caused by a lighted cigaret which Washburn laid on a dressing table before retiring, the cigaret igniting a set of toilet articles made of a celluloid composition. Mr. Matthiessen is associated with the buying department of Halsey, Stuart & Co.

Hears Noise in Room.

He said that Washburn, a friend of Mrs. Matthiessen's family, was employed as district traffic manager of the United States shipping board merchant fleet corporation in Kansas City until March 15, when the office was closed. He came to Chicago and Saturday night he accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Matthiessen to dinner at the home of friends in Chicago, returning with them to their home about 1 a. m. yesterday when they retired. At 2:30 o'clock Mr. Matthiessen heard a thumping noise in the room his guest occupied.

He entered the room and found his guest overcome on the floor near the bed, the room in flames. He pulled Washburn into the hall, while Mrs. Matthiessen notified police and firemen. In trying to save his friend, Matthiessen received burns about the face.

Notify Brother in New York.

Washburn was taken to the Evanston hospital, where he died six hours later. A brother, Dr. Arthur Washburn of New York, was notified by police. He is expected to arrive in Winnetka today. Jacob Washburn, New York attorney, father of Washburn, was said to be visiting in the south and last night had not been located.

Washburn was a graduate of the naval academy at Annapolis and served in the navy during the world war, according to Matthiessen. Police said he probably was about 34 years old. He lived in New York before going to Kansas City.

FEAR MANY DEAD AFTER TYPHOON HITS PHILIPPINES

MANILA, P. I., April 20.—(AP)—A typhoon swept 14 towns on the Island of Leyte Friday, virtually demolishing the communities of Tolosa and Dulag on the east coast. Thousands were made homeless. The number of dead and injured was not ascertainable.

First reports reached Manila 48 hours later when Gov. de La Cruz of Leyte wired the American Red Cross here for "immediate aid for thousands of homeless people, especially food, clothing and building materials." The Leyte governor's message described cocoanut trees in the devastated areas as standing like candles with their tops blown off. The entire crop was destroyed.

Many towns have been completely cut off with telephone and telegraph wires down. The death toll may be large, and official reports of destruction cannot be completed in less than a week or more.

Policeman, Hurt Chasing Speeder, Dies of Injuries

Samuel Kaiser, 6020 Woodlawn avenue, 38 years old, a county highway policeman assigned to the Willow Springs station, died yesterday in the Little Company of Mary's hospital of injuries received Friday when his motorcycle crashed into a telegraph post while chasing a speeder on Archer avenue near 79th street.

GANG USURPER KILLED AS HE SEEKS POWER

Two Others Slain to Seal Their Lips.

Three men known to be members of the Al Capone gang were shot and killed yesterday morning in a bar room at 2900 South Wells street. The murders were all committed by one man, who was occupied less than two minutes in performing his executions. This conclusion was reached after the police had examined the saloon and had investigated the antecedents of the victims.

Within a few hours after the murders it had been established to the satisfaction of the police that they were directly consequent upon an attempt of Capone's associates to seize control of a labor union. The union leaders resented the threat of gangsters to drive them out by force of guns and hold the membership for financial and political tribute.

"Peace" Is Reported Lame.

The police were also of the opinion that the reported peace agreement leading toward the complete mastery of Capone over Chicago gangdom had been somewhat overestimated. Including the murder of Joe Blue last week, there have been four gang murders since the rumored "peace."

Following is the list of dead in yesterday's retort to Capone:

Walter L. Wakefield, protégé of Dan Serritella, who is rated as a general in the Capone army and is also Republican boss of the First ward.

Frank Delre, alias Dire, partner of Wakefield in the saloon where both were slain.

Joseph Special, waiter and cousin of Phil Special, for whom the Capone town of Specialville was named.

The tragedy of the barroom was simple for the police to reconstruct, but the motive for the murders was doubtful until a witness told his story to the detectives.

Story of the Slayings.

"Saturday night," he said, "Wakefield attended a meeting of the Bread, Crackers, Yeast and Pie Wagon Drivers' union, local No. 734, at 115 South Ashland avenue. Capone was going to take over the union through him. I heard some one say: 'We'll have to kill him yet; his body will be found in an alley before long.'"

At 4 o'clock yesterday morning Wakefield was dead. A bullet had pierced the back of his head as he counted the money in the cash register. Special was shot to death after he threw a small plaster statue at the killer and leaped toward him with an opened knife in his hand. Four bullets stopped his charge. Delre was shot in the back of the head as he tried to open the front door to flee.

A Blow at Capone Gang.

"It's a score against the Capone gang," said Lieut. Al Booth, who was in charge of the homicide squad at the time of the triple murder.

"I'm convinced of it," said Lieut. William McCarthy, who took charge of the squad last night. "The Pie Wagon Drivers' union is safe for the time being."

"Maybe the murders were the result of the troubles of last primary day," said Lieut. William Meeker of the district where the slayings occurred. "The Italians of that neighborhood always were with Senator Adolph Marks, but on primary day Wakefield and Delre delivered them to Serritella, who beat Marks for Republican committeeman of the ward and for the nomination for state senator."

Capone Drives at Power.

The homicide squad leaders reviewed a bit of recent history, as follows:

Alphonse Capone had achieved considerable power and wealth through bootlegging, vice, and gambling before his imprisonment in Philadelphia for carrying a gun. Upon his return to Chicago a month ago he decided to embark on new conquests because the bootleg business wasn't what it used to be, inasmuch as Police Commissioner Russell had shut down all gambling. Vice rings also had been routed and couldn't be reorganized.

Capone's retainers hunted new fields to conquer. The labor unions offered the greatest rewards and with some exceptions the least resistance. The terroristic tactics of the Capone gang were enough to drive many a man out of a lucrative business and many a labor leader grew nervous when Capone's name was mentioned.

Serritella and Carrozza.

Capone had strong political ties, but none of his followers developed the success of Serritella, whom he put in charge of the First ward, the downtown district. Serritella and Mike Carrozza, head of numerous unions, including that of the street sweepers, were in an alliance and had almost succeeded in forcing aldermen and members of Mayor Thompson's cabinet to appoint Serritella superintendent of streets.

Capone had seized control of the plumbers' union through William [Billygoat] Taglia and, according to city hall reports, he was slowly coercing the city council and the administration to establish a bureau of plumbing. The plan, it was reported, was to force the appointment of a Capone man as commissioner of plumbing, in charge of the power and patronage to be derived from the new bureau. Taglia is not a plumber, but only a gangster held in office by gun power.

Capone was having some successes in his onslaughts on labor unions and decided on encroachments in the various branches of the teamsters' and chauffeurs' unions—all of them lucrative. From those he didn't desire to seize outright he exacted tribute, the business agent giving some Capone gangster part of the "take."

Wakefield Seeks Union Power.

Wakefield was 29 years old and lived at 3111 Princeton avenue. He was associated with "Steady" Looney and "Big Dave" Earsman in the sale of an alleged stomach ulcer cure. Earsman, after emerging from a penitentiary, took control of the excavators' union, allied with the teamsters' joint council. Wakefield and Earsman were close friends and Wakefield's ambition to dominate a union was encouraged by Earsman.

But Earsman died a few months ago and Wakefield sought a new "power house." This was Serritella, who was about to be engaged in a political battle that would reward the victor with wealth and power. Wakefield became one of Serritella's gang.

Delre had gone into a partnership with John Genaro in ownership of the saloon at 2900 South Wells street where in 1925 James Vinci and Machine Gun John Granata had duelled and both had been killed. But Genaro was shot on Jan. 29 and he committed the unpardonable gang sin of naming the men he believed had attacked him: James Belcastro, Angelo Lucci, and Louis Beluca. Genaro was not a fit partner after that, and the place was closed.

Delre Hunts a Partner.

Delre started hunting a likely partner, one who had weight enough to get the place reopened. Wakefield was that man, provided Serritella was elected committeeman and could defeat Marks for nomination for the state senatorship, which Marks had held for many years. Serritella was supporting Senator Deneen although all his city hall associates were opposing Deneen.

The boys of the First ward thought it was good politics to get behind Deneen although against the Deneen county ticket. Serritella was successful in carrying the only ward in Chicago to register a plurality for Deneen, and in beating Marks for both jobs.

Wakefield applied for a soft drink parlor license for the place at 2900 South Wells street. Capt. William Stapleton of the Pekin Inn police sent a report to Commissioner Russell stating his disapproval of the application. The police system, it was explained, is never to approve a license for a place where a previous license has been revoked. But the license was granted without police approval and in that action the police said they saw the hand of Serritella.

Old Saloon Is Reopened.

The old saloon had a grand opening a week ago Saturday night. Sergt. Grover Gormely went there and Wakefield took a license from his pocket and showed it to the sergeant.

The next day a brick was thrown through the front window of the place and Wakefield told his brother John: "Somebody doesn't want us here!" Business was bad all last week and on Saturday night Wakefield went to the union meeting, although he had never driven a bread, cracker, yeast, or pie wagon, according to the police.

The union headquarters are on the second floor at 220 South Ashland avenue, with Frank Miller in charge. William Lee is president and a business agent. Edward Healy, who lives on the west side, is another business agent. A third agent is Harry Nelson, who lives on the north side.

Drivers Ask Wage Boost.

There are 2,000 members in the union and dues are $4 a month per member, or $8,000 a month, collectable quarterly. No election was scheduled at the Saturday night meeting and the only business to be transacted was discussion of the terms of renewal of the contract of the pie wagon drivers, which expires on May 1. The drivers want a $5 a week raise, two weeks' vacation, and better working conditions. The employers have refused to discuss a renewal of the contract on that basis.

The meeting was held in Machinists' hall and about 200 were present, mostly pie wagon drivers. Wakefield took no part in the general discussion, but talked privately with several of the members, the police were informed. His departure brought on the talk on his prospects of remaining alive, according to the witness who told his story to the detectives.

A few hours after Wakefield left the union meeting, James Canino, who lives above the saloon, called the police.

Neighbor Finds Three Dead.

"I heard six or seven shots," Canino told Sergt. Ray Crane, the first to arrive. "I looked out the window and saw a man get into a dark sedan without lights and drive away. I ran downstairs and looked into the saloon and saw the three dead men."

Coroner Bundesen went to the saloon. He found a glass of beer, untouched, standing at the center of the bar. It was carefully examined for finger prints, but there were none. The murderer had not touched the glass and Wakefield's finger prints had been obliterated by the overflowing foam.

On the back bar there was $50 in bills, and it was evident that Wakefield was counting nickels when a bullet terminated his labor union ambitions. It was apparent also that the killer had given him $1 and had been given 75 cents in change, but the killer did not pick up the three quarters from the bar. He fired as Wakefield turned again to his counting.

Believe Victims Knew Killer.

All other doors except the front one were locked. The police assumed that Wakefield or Delre must have known the killer or they would not have let him in, the assumption being that the front door had been locked before they started to count the day's receipts.

"Wakefield knew him, all right, but he didn't know the man had been sent to kill him," detectives asserted. "Delre and Special were killed because they recognized the murderer or, if not that, to make sure they would never identify him for the Wakefield murder. He was a good man in his line."

The only arrests made as a result of the triple murder were of James Belcastro and Mike "De Pike" Heitler, who were found in the vicinity later in the day.

Question Wakefield's Kin.

At Wakefield's home his mother said he was a good boy, that he worked for an ulcer cure company and she hadn't wanted him to go into business with Delre. Mrs. Eva Gambino, a sister of Wakefield, said Delre was a "hoodlum and a politician." Police investigation showed that in recent months Wakefield had worn the best of clothing, owned a big automobile, and boasted of his political prestige.

Delre lived with his wife and 10 year old son at 3125 Shields avenue. He had been arrested once for hi-jacking. Special was the father of three children and lived at 258 West 31st street. He had worked as a waiter at the saloon on its opening night, April 12, and not again till the night of his death.

Capone Arrives at Miami.

Capone arrived in Miami, Fla., last night bound for his Palm island home unaware of the killing of the three men affiliated with his Chicago ambitions. His journey through Florida was without interruption because a federal injunction prevented the carrying out of Gov. Carleton's orders to all Florida sheriffs to bar Capone from the state.

"I have no interest in politics, either in Chicago or Miami," Capone told newspaper men. "I am here for the rest I think I deserve, and all I ask is to be left alone. I have done nothing in violation of the law in Miami and I will not."

He was not questioned about the slaying of Wakefield, Delre and Special, and he volunteered the information that a tentative agreement had been reached between his lawyers and federal authorities regarding settlement of his income tax troubles.

Lasts Two Weeks

Armed with brooms, shovels, wheelbarrows, mops and rakes, an army of more than 500,000 Chicago school children today will launch a two weeks' war against dirt in connection with the annual city cleanup, paintup and plantup campaign.

Chicago boys and girls, including 25,000 Boy Scouts, will attempt to repeat their record of last year, when Chicago won the loving cup offered by the national cleanup committee for the most efficient routing of dirt accomplished by any city in the country.

Programs and special cleanup activities have been arranged in virtually all the schools of the city. The campaign is part of a national drive against dirt, unsightly yards, streets and parks, and unhealthy conditions.

Lumber Dealers to Discuss Conservation of Timber

Organization of a timber conservation board is a project slated for discussion at the annual convention of American lumber dealers, opening this morning and continued through the week at the Congress hotel. A project for financing home building and a plan for simplifying lumber distribution will also be considered.

WOMAN KILLED, BOY IS INJURED BY MOTOR COACH

A loaded motor coach, turning west into Ohio street from Michigan avenue last night, ran over and killed Miss Vee West, 45 years old, a commercial artist, and seriously injured her nephew, Cameron Brown, 12 years old.

Miss West, a resident of the Devonshire hotel, 19 East Ohio street, was walking north across Ohio street with her nephew, a student at a private school in Oak Park, when the bus bore down on them. The boy, who suffered a fractured left leg and a dislocated left shoulder, was taken to Passavant hospital. His parents, living in Detroit, were notified.

Evanston Youth Killed.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard D. Raymond, 1223 Grove street, Evanston, were advised yesterday by authorities at Cortland, N. Y., that their son, H. Doane Raymond, 18 year old freshman at Cornell university, had been killed when a roadster his father recently purchased for him overturned on a trolley line trestle near Cortland. One of his companions, James Cullen of Hamilton, Ont., suffered a probable skull fracture, and another, Donald Kneedler of Mania, P. I., was severely bruised.

Young Raymond, who was given the car upon his recovery from an operation a few weeks ago, was driving and his friends were asleep in the seat. The car failed to take a sharp turn at an overhead crossing, hurtled into the trestle, and turned over three times. Raymond and Cullen dropped between the trestle ties to a railroad track 35 feet below, while Kneedler was tossed down an embankment.

The youth's father, who is vice president of the Raymond Concrete Pile company, 111 West Monroe street, left for Cortland yesterday afternoon to accompany the body home.

Toll Raised to 268.

The death of Miss West and two others raised the 1930 Cook county auto toll to 268. The other victims:

Richard Walsh, 4 years old. Holding the hand of his mother, Mrs. Vera Walsh, 3700 North Winthrop avenue, as they crossed Western avenue at Logan boulevard; he was instantly killed when an automobile knocked him down and ran over the mother and son. Mrs. Walsh was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital, seriously injured. Shakespeare police arrested the motorist, John W. Harrison, 3049 Clybourn avenue.

Vincent Ezueal, 53 years old, 4827 South Hermitage avenue. Run down at 49th street and Racine avenue by a car driven by William Hurley, 20 years old, 10447 South Hoyne avenue, and died in the county hospital. Stockyards police took Hurley into custody.

Motorist Seized in Death.

Tracing a license number noted by witnesses, Warren avenue police yesterday arrested David Simon at his home, 3240 Polk street, as the hit and run motorist whose car struck and fatally injured William Dahn, 47 year old cripple, Saturday night in front of 2157 Jackson boulevard.

A slippery pavement was blamed by Gary, Ind., police for an accident in which John Balthear, 37 years old, 906 West 19th street, Gary, suffered a broken neck and was instantly killed. Balthear's car skidded off Grant street into the swamp lands of the Little Calumet river at 19th street, Gary. Five others in the car escaped with minor injuries.

In a head-on collision, occurring on the Dixie highway a half mile south of Lincoln Fields, in Will county, yesterday morning, John Miller, 43 years old, Chicago Heights, incurred a skull fracture, which left him in critical condition last night in the St. James hospital, Chicago Heights. Occupants of the other car, J. W. Spalding, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Fellmuth, and Mrs. Lucy Barnhard, all of Danville, were less seriously hurt.

Two Motorcyclists Killed by Hit-and-Run Autoist

St. Joseph, Mich., April 20.—[Special.]—Easter was a sad day in the homes of two Niles, Mich., youths, each 22 years old, who were struck down and killed at midnight Saturday by a vampire automobile driver who abandoned his car and vanished after the accident. The dead youths are Earl Barker, son of Jasper Barker, owner of a small truck farm near Niles, and Homer Benjamin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Judd Benjamin of Niles. The victims were riding on a motorcycle.

SHOT AT HOME OF FORD'S AID, HE SAYS; POLICE DOUBT STORY

Detroit, Mich., April 20.—[Special.]—What may have been an act of heroism of Joseph Rigoni, 38 years old of Muskegon, failed to pass as such before Detroit police and Rigoni spent Easter as a prisoner in receiving hospital as the result of it.

Rigoni claimed he was wounded by prowlers in the rear of the home of Ernest G. Liebold, secretary to Henry Ford, after he had warned Mrs. Liebold of the danger and had gone around the house to investigate last night.

Neither Mrs. Liebold nor her neighbors heard any shots. Instead, they believe Rigoni was wounded elsewhere and used the prowler alarm as means of covering up the cause of the shooting.

Rigoni stuck to his claim that he had been doing his part to prevent a burglary when shot.

At about 11:40 p. m. he rang the doorbell at the Liebold home and when Mrs. Liebold answered the door, he told her to call the police to catch prowlers he had seen while walking on the other side of the street. She agreed to telephone headquarters and Rigoni said he would investigate more closely. When police arrived they found Rigoni had been shot.

A search of the premises failed to reveal any signs of the two men Rigoni said shot him.

WITNESS TELLS HIS VERSION OF CAFE SHOOTING

Lawrence String, a De Luxe cab driver of 119 West Ontario street, whose cab was found abandoned in front of the disguised night club at 542 North Wells street in which the cook, Miss Sabina Pezza, 60 years old, was shot to death Saturday, was taken in custody yesterday by the Chicago avenue police.

Under questioning of Lieut. Joseph McGuire, String gave a version of the shooting substantially the same as that related by John Bianciana, proprietor of the place. String said he was seated in the night club in the rear when a gunman, believed by police to have been Al Ruggio, opened fire on the bartender, Tony Romano.

Ruggio fired twice at Romano, who fled unwounded. Backing out of the night club Ruggio bumped against the cook and sprawled on the floor, from where he shot her.

COST, NOT FEAR, KEEPING PUBLIC OUT OF PLANES

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—An experiment to determine whether it was fear or expense that prevented the general public from flying was conducted today by Thomas L. Hill, president of the American Society for the Promotion of Aviation, and Ivan E. Gates, head of the Gates Flying Service, at the Holmes airport, Jackson Heights. A fleet of twelve planes was run onto the field and passengers were told they could ride for $1, $2.50, or $5, depending on the ride.

At 9 o'clock, when the field was opened, thousands of men, women, and children were in line and clamoring to be taken aloft.

Until dark the procession lasted, and when the tabulation of the number of passengers was completed last night it was found that 5,182 tickets had been sold, most of which were for the $1 rides.

avoc Wrought by Waves of Rising Lake.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

Benton Harbor, Mich., April 20.—[Special.]—Henry Weber, a citizen of Bridgeman, Mich., stood today on a narrow strip of sand on the Lake Michigan shore at Weko beach, 10 miles south of here, and watched the waves pounding against a cement bag wall he was constructing.

"Yes, sir," said Mr. Weber ironically, "it certainly irritates me when I think of that canal at Chicago diverting thousands of cubic feet of water from Lake Michigan and practically drying up this magnificent body of water. When I built my place on the beach here two years ago, it was 200 feet from the water. Now I've already spent $5,000 on this embankment to prevent the place from being washed away.

Lake Eating Beach Away.

"The nice broad sandy beach we had in 1928 is practically gone. Look at the narrow strip that is left. The lake keeps rising and it looks as if it will never stop.

"Michigan is to be complimented on the vigorous fight it has waged against diversion of water from the lake."

Along the entire stretch of shore from Benton Harbor south to the Indiana line conditions were found similar to those which provoked Mr. Weber's outburst.

The assaults of the lake upon the shore have eaten into the sand hills, stripped great trees from the slopes where they have been standing for scores of years, washed cottages and boathouses from their foundations, and driven the inhabitants in dismay higher up on the hills.

Lake Higher than Last Year.

Lake Michigan is now above the level for this time of the year, as compared with last year, and the yearly rise is just begun, according to the official report of the United States lake survey service. The year's peak is usually reached about July or August, according to the report.

A mile south of Bridgeman stands the summer camp of the New First Congregational church of Chicago. High up on the hills cement tennis courts, a pumphouse, and other structures were built. The waves pounded the cement work to pieces and destroyed the pumphouse.

George Ross, who lives near New Buffalo, Mich., was found today ruefully surveying the ruins of a concrete boathouse and stairway.

"I wish they'd let Chicago take all the damn water they want from this lake," said Mr. Ross. "This entire strip of beach, the most beautiful in this district, will be ruined if the water don't stop rising.

Venerable Trees Uprooted.

"Look at those beautiful trees lying there, pulled up by the roots by the waves. It took 75 years to produce those trees and they wouldn't have grown there if the water had ever been near them before. My next cottage will be a mile inland and even then I won't be sure but that the waves will be splashing against the windows some day."

Other residents in the lake shore districts expressed similar sentiments as the tour of inspection continued. They told of broad, sandy beaches which have been entirely covered by the encroaching waves.

A number of cottages were observed perched on the lofty bluffs. The waves had eaten into the sand beneath so that the structures toppled perilously on the verge of falling into the lake. The cottages were deserted.

Owners of cottages along the lake shore include many Chicagoans who will find, the inspection showed, that their summer homes, presumably situated far from the battering of the waves, have been damaged by the high water and made unfit for occupancy. In many instances, it appeared, the only remedy will be to move or rebuild the homes farther inland.

COAST TO COAST IN 15 HOURS

the air again speeding toward New York.

Narrow Escape at Take-Off.

A near spill at high speed marked the take-off at Los Angeles. With 400 gallons of fuel aboard—enough for a nonstop flight here if the colonel had found aerial conditions perfect instead of gusty—the Lindbergh Lockheed-Sirius monoplane roared down the runway for a full three-quarters of a mile.

When the Lone Eagle finally pointed the nose of the low-winged monoplane aloft the left wing refused to rise. A spill seemed imminent at a speed of more than 80 miles an hour, as the plane angled over heavily. But Col. Lindbergh kept the nose up and the big Pratt-Whitney motor finally forced the cowled plane into a climb.

Col. Lindbergh said he and Mrs. Lindbergh will remain in New York for an indefinite period.

Undertaker Lured to Bandit Trap by False Death Call

Ignatz Zolp, 33 years old, an undertaker at 4559 South Paulina street, received a telephone call yesterday asking him to take charge of funeral arrangements for a 5 months old baby at 4708 South Paulina street. Zolp went to the address and found a vacant lot there. As he turned away, he told the police, he was struck on the head and robbed of $180 and a check for $300, which he had just received for professional services.

YOUTH HELD ON 2D RAPE CHARGE IN THREE MONTHS

Accused with Four Others by Girl, 13.

For the second time within three months, Fred Krause, 19 years old, 5010 Strong street, was in police custody yesterday on a rape charge.

Held with Krause at the Irving Park station are four others, Charles Soder, 20 years old, 5537 Giddings street; James Pinta, 19, of 5110 Major avenue; Dave Wiegal, 22, of 5018 Gunderson avenue, and Henry Wiegel, 20, of 5213 Argyle street. The five were arrested by Detectives Arthur Rathke and Joseph Rudnick at Milwaukee and Lawrence avenues.

Charges Made by School Girl.

The charges against the five youths were made by a 13 year old school girl, who was brought to the Irving Park station at dawn yesterday by her elder sister.

Krause and the other youths followed her from a neighborhood movie and seized her upon the back porch of her home, the child said. Krause there attacked her, after which she was forced into the youths' automobile and driven to a lonely northwest prairie known as Matson's park, she said.

There the girl said that Soder attacked her and Pinta attempted to do so. The youths then drove to the vicinity of her home and fled, she said.

Admits Attacking Girl.

Krause admitted attacking the girl when taken to the detective bureau showup with his companions. He denied that he accompanied the others on the auto ride.

Last January Krause, with Henry Herber, 19, of 5246 Winona street, was charged with kidnaping and attacking a Park Ridge girl. She later testified in justice's court that Krause did not actually commit an assault, though present when Herber attacked her. Krause was discharged with the understanding that he testify for the state at the trial of Herber, who is now under indictment for rape.

ENGAGED AT 5, COUPLE MARRIED 20 YEARS LATER

New York, April 20.—(AP)—Twenty years ago Harry C. Perry, Democratic leader of the Second assembly district and chief clerk of the city court, said to his friend, Dan Shea, another Tammany stalwart:

"From the way my Johnny's been talking to your Margie, it looks like they'll be married some day."

"Why not?" Dan Shea asked. "Why not? Call it an engagement. It's all right with me."

So John Perry, five, became engaged to Margarite Shea, five.

This afternoon they were married in St. James Roman Catholic church. About 1,500 friends and relatives, including Harry Perry, with his wife, and Mrs. Anna Shea, mother of the bride, watched the ceremony.

But Dan Shea was not there. He died eight years ago.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

GAESTI, Rumania, April 20.—There were harrowing scenes today at the burial of the victims of the fire which destroyed this hamlet's only church Good Friday. Early this morning 109 home made coffins, one of which held the bodies of four children of one family, were laid out in rows in a field. Ritual coins were placed in the hands of the dead. Candles were lighted at the head of each and beside them, in accordance with Rumanian custom, wine, brandy, food, clothing and ikons were placed. The ceremonies were staged beneath young trees decorated with colored paper ribbons. At the head of the row of open coffins lay the remains of the priest of the fatal service in full Easter vestments.

At last night's festival of the resurrection a priest from a neighboring village celebrated mass in a schoolroom to empty benches. Not a single person from the village could be induced, under the impression of the Good Friday horrors, to enter the building where the church service was held.

In the old churchyard where the rows of graves, one per family, were dug the terrible spectacle of the actual funeral was rendered worse by overthrown crosses and piles of skulls and bones from old graves hastily dug up to make room for the bodies of the fire victims. New crosses for the latter, of the roughest wood, with names scrawled upon them in pencil, were hastily erected.

PICK WINNERS IN NEGRO BABY HEALTH CONTEST

Dressed in their Easter finery, 240 Negro babies, accompanied by proud parents, assembled in the auditorium of the Wendell Phillips High school yesterday to learn which of the 240 was to be known as the healthiest Negro baby in Chicago. Malcolm Loran Bellamy, 12 months old, 6505 Eberhart avenue, received that honor, it was announced, and with it a silver loving cup.

Malcolm, who weighs 21 pounds, won both the grand prize and the prize in the class of boys from 6 to 12 months. Others who won silver loving cups are: Aleata Spooner, 3619 South State street, 7 months old; Marilyn Giles McGoy, 3903 South Dearborn street, 17 months old, and Cassino Manuel Carr, 5314 South Dearborn street, 22 months old.

Announcements of prizes climaxed a baby show which was begun in the Wabash avenue Y. M. C. A. on April 11 as part of the Negro health campaign.

29 ANTI-REDS IN UKRAINE GIVEN LONG SENTENCES

KHARKOV, Ukraine, U. S. S. R. April 20.—(AP)—Long sentences were meted out by the supreme court here today to 29 persons charged with attempting to restore the capitalistic regime in the Soviet Ukraine.

Prof. Serge Efremov, former president of the Ukranian academy of sciences; former Premier Chekhovsky, and former foreign minister Nikovsky, both members of the government set up by Gen. Simon Petlura in 1919, and one other defendent received ten years each. The remaining defendants were condemned to terms of imprisonment ranging from three to eight years. Nine others were liberated on probation and seven others were banished from the Ukraine.

All the defendants recanted during their trials, and expressed repentance for their attempts to reëstablish a capitalistic regime. Their change of front was expected to save them from the death penalty.

KILLER SUSPECT IS IDENTIFIED AS NEAR DEATH SPOT

But Police Are Impressed by His Alibi.

Washington, D. C., April 20.—(AP)—In spite of an unhesitating identification by a laborer today of Marvin Sisson as the man who sold a watch and overcoat near the scene of the slaying of Mary Baker, young government employé, on the night of April 11, members of his family moved tonight to secure his release from jail.

Police, viewing the alibi presented by the Warsaw, Va., traveling salesman as apparently perfect, were doubtful of the identification, and the search for the man who assaulted and killed the girl near Arlington National cemetery appeared as far from a conclusion as ever.

Seeks Client's Release.

Mrs. Sisson today employed James R. Duncan of Alexandria, Va., as attorney for her husband. After a brief visit at the Arlington county jail in which Sisson is held on charges of murder, the lawyer announced that unless his client were freed by tomorrow afternoon he would seek a writ to bring about his immediate release.

Charles Quertermous, foreman of a dredging crew which was at work near the scene of the crime, looked over a line of four men at the jail this morning, then stepped up and declared Sisson was the man who had sold him an overcoat and watch about 9:15 on the night of the murder. Another member of the dredging crew was unable to identify him, however, and W. H. Davies, a bus driver who picked up a passenger near the spot of the killing at about the same time, also failed to make an identification.

Gallegher Not Identified.

Julian Gallegher, another Virginia salesman held in the case, who was in the lineup, was not identified by any of the men.

Learning of Quertermous' identification, Duncan said that for "every such identification I can bring here ten or twelve reputable citizens, who have no other interest in the case than to see justice done, who will testify that Sisson was in Warsaw not only Thursday, but all day Friday and Friday night."

Duncan added: "Mrs. Sisson does not deny that her husband knew Miss Baker. She is, however, ready and willing to produce witnesses in number to corroborate the fact that Mr. Sisson was at his home and in her company almost continually from Thursday, April 10, to Saturday, April 12, inclusively."

KILLED BY FALL FROM BED.

Johann Beck, 82 years old, 6034 Vernon avenue, died in his home yesterday of injuries he suffered April 12 when he fell out of bed.

HIT BY TYPHOON

Many are feared dead as the result of a typhoon which swept fourteen towns on the Island of Leyte in the Philippines. Thousands are homeless, according to dispatches received in Manila appealing for immediate assistance. The towns of Tolosa and Dulag are reported destroyed.

BRITISH TROOPS SCOUR HILLS OF INDIA FOR REBELS

Believe Gandhi's Men Are Blameless in Raid.

CALCUTTA, India, April 20.—(AP)—The situation in Bengal, as the aftermath of an Indian riot at Chittagong on Friday night, in which seven persons were killed, appeared confused and disturbed today, with reports from many districts indicating a state of tension that may lead to serious developments.

Full details about the Chittagong raid are still lacking. It appears to have been the work of a revolutionary organization not directly connected with the civil disobedience movement of Mahatma Gandhi, who has repeatedly urged his followers to avoid violence in their opposition to the government.

Scan Hills for Raiders.

Some sixty revolutionaries are believed to have taken part in the riot and raid. The neighboring hills are being thoroughly combed by police and soldiers on their trail.

About 1,000 rifles, 20 revolvers, and 55 muskets are reported missing from the Chittagong police armory, raided by the rioters. Five arrests have been made. The district magistrate issued a statement today saying that all had been quiet during the night.

At Patna, the district magistrate issued notices saying that, if the present unrest continues, additional police would be hired at the expense of the inhabitants. Arrests of minor leaders in the civil disobedience movement occurred at scattered points in Bengal.

Meanwhile the all Bengal lawyers conference adopted a resolution urging lawyers to help Gandhi's movement by all possible means, and to be ready to suspend practice when called upon to do so by the all India congress committee.

Gandhi Gaining Ground.

BOMBAY, India, April 20.—(AP)—After two weeks of campaigning against the government salt monopoly as part of the Nationalist civil disobedience movement, Mahatma Gandhi, in the opinion of observers with long experience in Indian affairs, has decidedly gained ground for the Nationalist cause.

While the Mahatma himself remains in the Gujerat district, confining his activities to a comparitively small area, disorder is increasing in other districts throughout India. This is particularly true in Bengal, where reports from various centers show that anti-British feeling is rapidly spreading.

Events today in the campaign were chiefly confined to a big demonstration against the salt law in Bombay, but there were a number of arrests in all parts of India.

There was an absence of disorders on a large scale, which had shown a disquieting tendency to increase during the last week, but minor disturbing incidents were numerous, and it is on this, that observers base their apprehensive forecasts.

The "Nationalist war council" issued a statement this evening about illegal salt manufacturing activities in Bombay, declaring that "the attack had been launched on seven fronts in the city." According to the war council, the Indian police met the attack with increased activity.

March to Sea for Salt.

After a week spent chiefly in carrying Gandhi's message from door to door, inveighing against foreign cloth and liquor, several hundred volunteers, including women and children, went in a procession to the seashore today and returned with jars of sea water for the illegal manufacture of salt.

Several minor leaders of the campaign were arrested in the suburbs of Bombay, and Kedareshwar Sen Gupta, a man of considerable standing, was arrested at his Bombay residence. No reason for his arrest was given.

Viceroy Renews Old Law.

SIMLA, India, April 20.—(AP)—Lord Irwin, viceroy of India, in a signed statement today, said renewal of the special Bengal ordinance conferring extraordinary powers for the suppression of disorder had been necessitated in order to forestall further outbreaks like that at Chittagong. The viceroy renewed the ordinance after that outbreak. When the ordinance expired recently it was left unrenewed, but with reservations to the effect that the governor general could invoke it again if necessary.

FATHER, 4 OF HIS CHILDREN DIE IN BLAZING HOME

Sleeping Family Trapped on Second Floor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Five members of a family were killed, another is believed to be dying and the seventh was seriously injured early today when fire swept the upper apartment of the two-family, brick dwelling in Brooklyn. The origin of the blaze had not been determined.

Fire Marshal Thomas Brophy found nothing to indicate incendiarism. He put the house under police guard, however, and said he would continue his inquiry. He added that the fire seemingly had started just outside the apartment door and had been fed by a wicker hamper which stood there.

Here Is a List of Dead.

The dead were Christopher Johnson, 41, Captain of a lighter; his daughters Clara, 18, and Gladys, 16, and his sons, Harold, 10, and Elwood, 9.

Mrs. Mary Johnson, 52, mother of the children, Leaped from a window to the rear yard. She was reported to be dying. Christopher Johnson Jr., 21, who was to have been married next Saturday, is in Kings County hospital, suffering from severe body burns.

The fire was discovered at 3:30 a. m. At that hour all of the Johnsons were asleep.

Hears Sister Shout.

The oldest son was awakened by his sister, Gladys, pounding on a sliding door which separated the living room from his sleeping quarters. He heard her shouting faintly, "Help!" He ran to the hall door and as he opened it flames ignited his clothing and burned him severely. He slammed the door.

The cries from his sister's room continued and Christopher Johnson sought vainly to open the sliding door. It was locked. The cries from the room ceased, the sliding door began to blister, smoke filled Christopher's own room. He climbed to the window ledge and dropped to the stoop.

The father and the two younger sons had been trapped in their room.

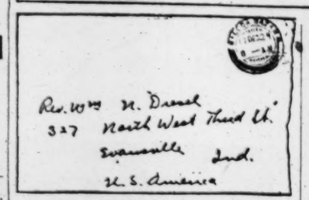
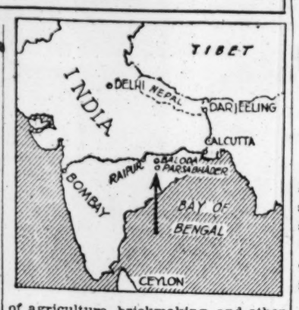
FROM BALODA BAZAR, INDIA





Letter received by the Rev. William N. Dresel, 327 N. W. Third street, Evansville, Ind.:

This letter comes from the American Evangelical mission located at the edge of the jungle in the Central Provinces of India.

It was written by the Rev. Martin P. Davis, who once was a resident of Freeport, Ill. He is stationed at a mission compound called Parsabhader, two miles out of Baloda Bazar, the government station for mail and business.

The nearest town of any size is Raipur, which lies sixty miles to the southwest and is reached by wagon road. This is an agricultural section, and the population is largely Hindu.

However, the Rev. Mr. Davis has gathered a little flock about him and supervises its religious education. He conducts an orphanage, a home for the blind, and a leper colony. Then, too, there is an experimental school of agriculture, brickmaking, and other useful arts.

The congregation pays the full support of the missionary and his family, consisting of his wife, three sons, and two daughters. The children range in age from 3 to 16. The oldest son and two daughters are attending school in Darjeeling, where they are separated from their parents by 900 miles of jungle, mountains, and farmland. In three years the family will return to the United States on furlough, and the children will be left here to continue their education.

It takes thirty days for the Rev. Mr. Davis to receive mail from his friends in Evansville, Ind., and these letters are his only communications with white people.

FOUR NEGROES DROWN IN RIVER BAPTISMAL RITES

Pastor, Two Deacons and Girl the Victims.

St. Louis, Mo., April 20.—(AP)—Four Negroes, a preacher, two deacons, and a 13 year old girl were drowned this afternoon in the Mississippi river during an Easter baptismal service. Another Negro, a deacon, escaped drowning in an attempted rescue.

The four were swept away in the river current when they lost their footing soon after wading out into the stream on the levee here to baptize the girl, the only baptismal candidate for the ceremony. A crowd of about 50 other Negroes saw the drownings.

The victims were the Rev. Robert C. Williams, 30, pastor of the Hopewell Missionary Baptist church; Deacons Joseph McGee, 35, and Henry Turner, 47, and Viola Lewis, 13. Their bodies were not recovered.

Bandits Pose as Flower Messengers, Loot Home

Two bandits, posing as messengers for a flower shop, gained entrance yesterday to the home of Hyman Natovich, 33 South Parkside avenue, menaced Natovich and his wife with revolvers, locked the couple in a closet, and escaped with jewelry valued at $3,000. Natovich, answering the doorbell, saw one of the bandits holding a potted plant in his arms and opened the door, he told Austin police.

NEW SHOES, EASTER, AND SILVER WEDDING CAUSE EVANSTON WOE

The fact that yesterday was Easter and also the silver wedding anniversary of Mrs. Elsie Williams, 2753 Reese avenue, Evanston, brought grief to Newell D. Ely, 2751 Reese avenue. It being Easter, Mrs. Ely was wearing a new pair of shoes and it being Mrs. Williams' wedding anniversary a number of her friends parked their cars in front of the Ely home.

Mrs. Ely insisted on having a parking place in front of the house to enable her to board the Ely car without the necessity of wading through sodden grass, and Mr. Ely set out to see that she got it. He did the customary thing, nudging the automobile ahead of him with his bumper and starting the whole line of cars moving, but as fenders and headlights scraped out a noisy story of the process all of the wedding anniversary guests poured out onto the sidewalk and words ensued.

The upshot of the words was that Mr. Ely went to the Evanston police station and was held under $1,600 bonds after Jack Wright, 2152 Prairie road, Evanston; Andrew Simpson, 1458 Florence avenue, Evanston; Mrs. Williams and E. N. Olson had signed complaints charging him with disorderly conduct. Mr. Ely in turn signed a complaint against Wright and he was released under $400 bond for the hearing on April 26.

BAGGAGE AGENT IS INJURED.

Hurled to the ground when a locomotive struck a hand truck he was pushing, John Richards, 69 years old, 1232 Circle avenue, Forest Park, the baggage agent at North Western station in Forest Park, suffered fractures of both legs at the station yesterday. He was taken to Oak Park hospital.

2 DEAD; 3 HURT IN PRISON RIOT; 2 AIDS HUNTED

Providence, R. I., April 20.—(AP)—Two prisoners were dead, two others were suffering from gunshot wounds and a guard was still in a critical condition from a bullet wound tonight as a result of an attempt by convicts of the Rhode Island state prison at Cranston to fight their way to freedom yesterday.

Search was under way for two outsiders who were held responsible for precipitating the riot and who escaped in a hail of gunfire while fighting was in progress in the prison.

The dead men were Peleg Champlin, a lifer, who was shot down as he ran to the aid of the guards, and John "Pretty" McNeil, a ringleader in the convict gang who took his own life as he saw his attempt to escape frustrated.

The wounded guard was James MacVay who was slugged and shot by the desperadoes.

The riot broke out shortly after two supposed confederates of the convicts drove up to the prison in a stolen automobile.

"L" Train Jumps Track; Tears Away Part of Station

A three car elevated train of the Garfield Park division, running empty from the suburbs to the loop, jumped the track at the Hannah street station in Forest Park yesterday and ripped away fifteen feet of the station platform before it was halted. Neither the motorman, Sidney Brown, nor the conductor, Charles Bennett, was injured. Traffic was blocked five hours on the east bound track before the wreckage was cleared away.

POLITICS ENTERS APPOINTMENT TO SUPREME COURT

New Senate Rules Cause of Altered Situation.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—Political considerations hereafter invariably will figure prominently in the confirmation of presidential appointees to the Supreme court of the United States. Senators are convinced of this, much to the distress of some of them, by the controversy over President Hoover's nomination of Judge John J. Parker for the Sanford vacancy on the court. Developments in the case have demonstrated that the contest over confirmation of Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, the first appointment ever made to this court under the new senate rules providing for complete publicity in the consideration of executive nominations, was an indication of what may be expected regularly.

That the political angle is assuming formidable proportions in the Parker case is evident from the fact that Republican senators who are up for reelection in states where labor or Negro influences are strong have taken the lead in efforts to induce the President to withdraw the nomination. There is no question but that Judge Parker would have been confirmed with little controversy if the old system of secret session had prevailed. As matters now stand, he is in serious danger of defeat.

Radicals Like New Rules.

The senate radicals think that a notable forward step is represented by the new publicity rule, which was adopted following controversies over confirmations of Roy O. West as secretary of the interior and Irvine L. Lenroot as judge of the United States court of customs appeals.

By means of the open discussion of the Hughes appointment, the radicals were able to create an issuse on "property rights versus human rights" which thew are planning to use in campaigns against the reëlection of present senators who voted for the new chief justice. In the pending Parker case issues based on the North Carolina jurist's attitude toward labor and Negro suffrage are being built up and will be used against senators who are sufficiently indifferent to political consequences to vote against confirmation.

Regardless of what may be the merits of the controversies in the Parker and Hughes cases, senate conservatives are wondering if the new method of approving nominations may not be a factor in the retrogression of the caliber of membership of the highest court in the land. The controversies are raising the question whether lawyers of the highest standing will care to make a financial sacrifice to accept appointments on the bench when they know they will become involved in a political controversy.

Hoover Tried to Avoid Ruction.

President Hoover is supposed to have sought to avoid such a fight as occurred over the Hughes appointment when he selected Judge Parker. He is reported to have considered appointing John W. Davis, former solicitor general, ambassador to Great Britain and Democratic presidential nominee. The Democrats in the senate were unable to promise the President their united support. Mr. Davis' corporation connections seemed certain to make him a target for attack. Accordingly the President is said to have narrowed the selection of his appointee down to present judges of lower federal courts who would have had no recent connections with large corporations.

Judge Parker, who is only 44 years old, had figured in important litigation before being appointed by President Coolidge as a judge of the Circuit Court of Appeals of the fourth circuit five years ago, but had not been identified with public service corporations. No suggestion of the labor or Negro issues had been raised at the time the President had Judge Parker's selection under consideration.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today issued a new attack upon Judge Parker. He asserted that the appointment "has been definitely rejected." He said that "a canvass of the members of the senate shows this to be a fact."

12 CHICAGO NEGRO CHURCHES PROTEST PARKER NOMINATION

At Easter services in twelve Chicago Negro churches claiming a total membership of 25,000, resolutions were adopted asking President Hoover to withdraw his nomination of Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina as associate justice of the Supreme court of the United States. The resolutions accuse Judge Parker of having "expressed racial prejudice against more than 12,000,000 American citizens."

Copies of the resolution were forwarded to Representative Oscar De Priest with the request that he submit them to President Hoover and Senators Deneen and Glenn.

FOREIGN EDITORS RAP U. S. POLICY BEFORE HOOVER

Urge President to Join with Europe.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—Official Washington buzzed with speculation today over the possible effect upon international relations of the criticism heaped upon the American foreign policy in the very presence of President Hoover last night by two of Europe's most distinguished journalists.

Speaking at the annual dinner of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, at which Mr. Hoover was the principal honor guest, André Geraud, better known as "Pertinax," of the Echo de Paris, and H. Wickham Steed, editor of the London Review of Reviews, boldly attacked the failure of the United States to assume responsibility in world affairs.

Senators and house members present marvelled at the freedom with which the foreigners undertook publicly to advise the President to forsake this country's traditional policy against international entanglements.

Hoover Answers Confidentially.

Maintaining his composure, Mr. Hoover stared fixedly at the table before him until both had concluded and then made some remarks of his own, which, however, at his request, were treated in confidence.

"The European problem cannot be solved," asserted Pertinax at one point in his long speech, "as long as the attitude of America remains an unknown factor. Your nation must take a position either positive or negative. The present situation is unexampled."

"You decline all responsibility," continued the Frenchman, "You even refuse to assist in enforcing international law, which is largely American law. In the end, you will be forced to make some choice. You will pardon me for being so frank but earlier in my talk I pointed to the need for a fearless and independent journalism. You could hardly expect me after that to turn back before the first obstacle that presents itself in the way of frankness and independence."

The obstacle to which Pertinax referred was obviously, in the opinion of his hearers who continued to discuss the incident today, the presence of Mr. Hoover.

"Parity of Responsibility."

Mr. Steed, following the lead set by Pertinax, asserted that the United States has "achieved parity but not full parity." It asked and obtained, he continued, "parity of strength," but has not sought "parity of responsibility." This country, he insisted, should take a stand to give effect to the Kellogg pact and "join with the rest of the world in saying that no nation can disregard that great instrument for peace and still count on friendly neutrality on the part of the signatory nations."

"We want the United States," he continued, "to say that nations which refused to take advantage of the machinery for the peaceful settlement of disputes, through conference and otherwise, place themselves outside the pale."

Steed denied that in suggesting the United States assume some responsibility in world affairs Europe hopes to snare this country into the league of nations.

Might Be Nuisance in League.

"I am not so sure we want you in the league," he declared. "You might be quite a nuisance there. While our representatives at Geneva were announcing the decisions of our governments, yours would be cabling the state department. The secretary of state would be consulting the President, and the President would be asking 'what about Senator Borah.'"

"International peace," said Mr. Steed, "must be organized by the same methods by which social peace is organized—that is, by the surrender on the part of every nation of the right to pass finally on its own international problems.

"Nations must allow other nations a hand in their decisions. The league of nations is imperfect, but it is a good agency for peace."

RED BANDITS MOW DOWN CHINESE IN REIGN OF TERROR

Loot Towns and Seize Women as Hostages.

SHANGHAI, April 20.—(AP)—A letter received here today from a missionary in the besieged city of Kanchow, Kiangsi province, said a situation of anarchy prevailed in the district under a bandit régime engaging in wholesale carnage and plunder.

The letter said Reds, who have besieged the city for weeks, consider foreigners within the walls responsible for the strong resistance of Chinese soldiery. The bandits were quoted as promising to execute every foreigner in Kanchow "as soon as the city is captured."

While machine gunners and riflemen on the city's walls kept up a stubborn resistance, the bandits were described as dividing their time between the siege of the city and plunder of the countryside.

The wealthy classes especially were said to have suffered from the bandits' hatred. In one village 35 landowners were shot as a warning to others to surrender their property without resistance.

Villages have been looted and many hostages, including numerous young women, kidnaped. Foreign mission stations in south Kiangsi were attacked and the lands confiscated. Title deeds were destroyed after the missionaries fled and the captors organized communal governments, the missionary's letter said.

An acute food shortage was predicted because the fields were not planted.

"It is only a matter of time until the entire south Kiangsi passes from government control," the letter concluded. "The future is indeed black."

Advices from Chekiang province said upwards of 20,000 bandits had overrun the Shekiang-Anhwei provincial borders, killing hundreds and exacting thousands of dollars from the people. Canton dispatches said Kwangtung bandits had become so emboldened they were moving about as military units, capturing increasing areas, establishing their own governments, and levying their own taxes.

Virtually the entire province of Kiangsu north of the Yangtze river continues bandit scourged despite sporadic opposition of the government. The Italian minister to China, now in Canton, demanded that the Kwangtung authorities pay 100,000 Mexican dollars indemnity for the recent slaying by bandits of two Italian missionaries in north Kwangtung.

BISHOP WILL STICK BY SON, 21, JAILED ON MURDER CHARGE

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—The Rt. Rev. James Mathew Maxon, Episcopal bishop coadjutor of Tennessee sent word to his 21 year old son, James Jr., in the west side jail today that he would "stick to the last ditch" to defend him.

The son is in jail on a charge of homicide as a result of a liquor crazed brawl in a rooming house in West End avenue during which the son is accused of having killed David Paynter, 73 year old fellow lodger, by beating him over the head with a chair.

The bishop went to the west side jail with Myles Walsh, a representative of Martin W. Littleton, attorney for the accused youth. While the son, confined in a cell on the twelfth tier read the Sunday newspapers, the bishop was informed regulations prohibited Sunday visits.

ADVENTURER IS HELD BY POLICE AT U. S. ORDERS

Arthur J. Smith, 32 years old, self-styled soldier of fortune, was held at the detective bureau last night on orders from the federal department of justice. The nature of the charge against Smith was not revealed pending his arraignment today.

Smith was taken into custody at his home, 4530 Malden street, by Town Hall police. He said he had no idea of the cause of his arrest, but thought it might have resulted from his activities in the recent revolution in Mexico when he served under Escobar. He was accused once before of smuggling airplanes and arms from the United States to the forces in Mexico, he said.

The prisoner was voluble in narrating his adventures since the age of 14. He served throughout the world war, first with the British army and then with the American army, fought in the Riff, in the Russian revolution, and in Nicaragua sought to enlist with Sandino, he said.

ROBINSON BACKS 'IF' CLAUSE IN PACT ON NAVIES

J. S. Delegate Surveys Successes, Failures.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 20.—On the eve of the signing of the navy limitation treaty, which is scheduled for Tuesday, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, the Democratic member of the American delegation, in an address broadcast to America tonight, surveyed the successes and failures of the London conference and pronounced the net results, on the whole, satisfactory.

"It is clear," said Senator Robinson, "that as a five power enterprise there has not been complete success. The importance of this is not to be minimized."

Robinson Blames France.

Senator Robinson ascribed the failure to obtain a five power limitation on cruisers, destroyers, and submarines to the refusal of France to concede parity with Italy and reduce its building program without the additional guarantees of security, which neither America nor Great Britain is able to give. The French, he said, "would not take one ton off their navy," if America offered a consultative pact.

Efforts of France and Great Britain to agree on security obligations got nowhere, he said, because they "had to be linked with a settlement between France and Italy," which could not be reached.

"We took the position," said Senator Robinson, "that a fair limitation of armament is in itself a wholesome, affective measure of security, tending to promote international good will and pacific measures for the adjustment of disputes. Where treaty relations are threatened to be disturbed, a consultation is the logical and probably inevitable process, but agreements for consultation, unless carefully safeguarded and entered into in advance, in the opinion of many tend to the formation of alliances and the assumption of responsibility for decisions which might result in involvement, which our people desire to avoid."

Defends "If" Clause.

Senator Robinson defended at length the safeguarding clause incorporated in the three power limitation agreement, for the purpose of allowing Great Britain to exceed the tonnage maxima in case it should feel menaced by French navy building.

"Of course," said Senator Robinson, "it may be said in criticism of this clause that it permits a disturbance of the figures agreed to on the sole responsibility of either the United States, Great Britain or Japan, and, if any one of the three adjudges it necessary to build in excess of the treaty program, this will increase the building of the other two. But even if this should happen, the relations of the fleets and the principles of limitation would still be maintained.

"It should also be remembered that the limitation of armament must proceed only through voluntary action by the nations. No power can arbitrarily impose on another restrictions as to its means of defense without assuming responsibility for its safety.

"This clause is based upon the good faith of the three nations and it is inconceivable that it will be used except upon necessity."

Senator Robinson predicted that the battleship building holiday for five years "will probably contribute to the final, permanent reduction" of the capital ship fleets of the naval powers. The treaty, he said, established an Anglo-American parity in battleships.

Admits Hoover Yardstick Failure.

The first official admission of the failure of President Hoover's scheme to balance the American and British cruiser fleets by the use of a naval yardstick was made by the Arkansas senator.

"A prolonged investigation on the subject," he said, "led to the conclusion that no scientific basis exists for measuring the difference in value between large eight inch gun cruisers and vessels carrying six inch guns."

The treaty gives America a preponderance of 33,200 tons in eight inch gun cruisers and Great Britain a preponderance of 48,700 tons in six inch guh ships.

Compares Size of Guns.

"It is not possible," said Senator Robinson, "to say that this difference corresponds with mathematical accuracy, to the superior value of the large cruisers the United States has the right to possess over those allowed Great Britain. Within certain ranges six inch guns are more effective than eight-inch guns. At great distances, however, the advantage clearly is in ships carrying guns of longest range. On the other hand the smaller guns can be fired more rapidly and perhaps more accurately than the heavy eight-inch weapons.

"There can be no important advantage to either of the two powers because of this difference in eight-inch cruiser tonnage. Moreover, it may be emphasized that the United States has the option to build exactly up to Great Britain's program, and thereby produce a ton for ton parity between the two countries."

London Hints France May Back Out of Naval Pact

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 20.—France has again stepped up to the foreground in the disarmament picture, casting a threatening shadow across the five power naval treaty scheduled to be signed on Tuesday, according to the diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph.

The correspondent states that the French government has instructed its London representatives they cannot accept without reservation or modification of article 24, which specifies that the treaty comes into force as soon as ratified by the three signatory powers. The French experts insist that, unless and until France itself ratifies the treaty, such parts as are applicable to all five powers cannot be considered in force—at least as far as France is concerned.

Would Not Bind France.

Thus, should France delay the ratification or reject the treaty, it would be reduced merely to an agreement between the United States, England, and Japan. This would mean that France would not be bound to participate in the building holiday for capital ships nor the agreements on supersubmarine construction, nor on scrapping and replacement.

The Telegraph's correspondent suggests the possibility of the eleventh hour gesture as foreshadowing an attempt by Foreign Minister Aristide Briand to obtain additional guarantees for French security from Arthur Henderson, British secretary of state for foreign affairs, and Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, at the league of nations council meeting at Geneva next month before ratifying.

All is set for the signing of the treaty. Last night the final text, with all the alterations and amendments demanded by the various powers, was cabled to all the governments concerned. Unless one of them finds something to object to at the last moment the treaty is as good as signed.

Briand May Stay Away.

It was learned today that Dino Grandi will not return from Rome to sign on behalf of Italy. This will be done by the Italian ambassador to London. It is not yet certain whether M. Briand is coming back from Paris, but he is still expected.

Prime Minister MacDonald left Lossiemouth tonight and will arrive here tomorrow. Upon his arrival, a meeting of chiefs of delegations will be held to put the final seal of approval on the treaty and on the final arrangements for Tuesday's session.

There will be an immediate scattering of delegates after the signing. The Americans leave here Tuesday afternoon and will sail on the Leviathan Wednesday morning. The proposed European vacations for some of the experts were cancelled in view of the possibility that the treaty may be sent in the senate immediately, so the whole staff will return on the liner.

The Japanese leave Wednesday morning, taking the quickest route to Japan, via Siberia. The French and Italians have all gone already, but a few experts, and they will be gone by Wednesday. Mr. MacDonald plans to return to Lossiemouth to finish his vacation before parliament reassembles on April 29.

FLEETS OF THREE NATIONS TO STRUT IN SAME WATERS

Mediterranean Scene of Great Maneuvers.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 20.—The tranquil old Mediterranean, which was once a Roman lake and later a British canal, will next month see one of the most formidable armadas of fighting ships ever afloat. A British fleet, two German fleets, and the whole French navy will be maneuvering in those waters at the same time.

The British are down there for their annual winter visit, the Germans to show the world, particularly Italy, that they still have a navy, and the French to try to outsplurge them all.

Conquest of Algeria Fête.

The ostensible reason for the presence of the French fleet is in connection with the celebration of the centenary of the conquest of Algeria.

It is understood, however, that the original naval show was not intended to be so grandiose, and it is hinted here that the real reason is a desire to show up the Germans and impress the Italians with the inadvisability of starting anything—also to convince them there is no use of seeking a parity with such a naval monster.

80 Units in French Fleet.

The French fleet, which will consist of more than 80 naval units and an equal number of airplanes, will sail for Algeria the first week in May. The fleet includes the squadron of submarines which was the cause of so much worry at the naval conference and the three new cruiser aces, the new speedy 10,000 tonners, Duquesne, Suffren, and Colbert.

Following the ceremonies the fleet will make an extensive cruise for maneuvers in the Atlantic.

JAPAN'S CABINET FACES FIGHT ON NAVY LIMITATION

Foes Charge Surrender to U. S. and Britain.

TOKIO, April 21 (Monday).—(AP)—The imperial diet convened this morning in extraordinary session which, through no design of the Hamaguchi cabinet, is expected to provide a national sounding board for its enemies' bitter criticism of its acceptance of the London naval limitation agreement.

The assault on the government's position will come mainly from the Seiyukai, main opposition party in the house of representatives, and influential conservative elements in the house of peers.

Cabinet Well Entrenched.

It is not believed, however, that these oratorical attacks, although bitter and supported by the powerful naval clique outside the parliament, can essentially weaken the cabinet's political position or swerve it materially from the course of conciliation and agreement with the Anglo-Saxon powers already charted by Premier Yuko Hamaguchi and his foreign minister, Baron Kijuro Shidehara.

The Hamaguchi ministry is powerfully entrenched in the parliament by reason of the landslide victory won by its party, the Minseitō, in the general election of Feb. 20. That contest converted a Minseito minority in the lower house to a majority of 76 over all other groups.

The two houses met today only for organization. On Wednesday the formal opening will be held in the presence of the emperor, and then the peers and representatives will turn to oratory and legislation. The session is to last about three weeks.

Oppose Naval Concessions.

The Seiyukai and other government critics will seek to capitalize the already keen public interest in the developments at London and the fairly widespread opposition to the concessions Japan has made in the naval conference to assail the government with charges of "surrendering" national interests at American and British "dictation."

The diet's chief job this session, from the government's point of view, is to pass supplementary estimates totaling 20,000,000 yen (about $10,227,000). Important projects to be introduced by the cabinet are an increase of 10,000,000 yen (about $4,930,000) in the national grants for elementary education, schemes for unemployment relief, rationalization of industry, and encouragement of home industries.

DIES SUDDENLY IN HIS HOME.

Andrew Hudson, 47 years old, 4419 Gladys avenue, a laborer, died suddenly yesterday at his home following a stroke of paralysis.

SHEARER ASKS SENATE BARE PACIFIST LOBBY AT NAVAL CONFERENCE

Washington, D. C., April 20.—(AP)—William B. Shearer, "Big Navy" advocate, whose activities at the Geneva 1927 naval conference were last year made the subject of a senatorial investigation, today, demanded that the same committee investigate activities at the London conference of "subsidized internationalist and pacifist organizations."

In an open letter addressed to Senator Shortridge, [Rep. Cal.], chairman of the naval subcommittee which examined him, Shearer called attention to newspaper articles asserting that several anti-war organizations had "disturbed" the American delegation at London by "the increase of efforts to influence unduly public opinion at home." He suggested that the department of justice be enlisted to investigate "not only their activities, but their entire lives, nationalities and their source of income, as was done in my case."

HEALTH FORCES BYNG TO QUIT AS CHIEF LONDON COP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 20.—Viscount Julian Byng, the hero of Vimy ridge in the world war, has tendered his resignation as chief commissioner of London's police, it is learned tonight. This decision was brought about by the ill health of the famous general. He is at present in South Africa, where he went for his health in February.

There were rumors that he did not intend to return to Scotland Yard when he departed for Africa, but these were vigorously denied by the 68 year old leader. It is understood that his health has since declined, however, forcing him to change his mind.

Lord Byng was appointed commissioner in July, 1928, when certain influences threatened to destroy the good name of the police force. A kindly man but a stern disciplinarian, Lord Byng fearlessly started a reform, reorganizing certain divisions and insisting that the superior officers shoulder all responsibilities, basing promotion on merit alone. He closed undesirable night clubs, wiped out vice dens in the center of the city, and devised his own system of checking future violations of the law.

Ileana Guest of Wales at Cairo Dinner Party

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

CAIRO, April 20.—The prince of Wales left Cairo by train this evening for Port Said, where he will embark on a Peninsular and Oriental liner for England. Last night at the end of a strenuous day on the squash courts and the polo field, the prince gave a dinner party with Princess Ileana of Rumania among his guests. The princess is staying a few days longer in Cairo, although her mother, Queen Marie, has gone back to Roumania.

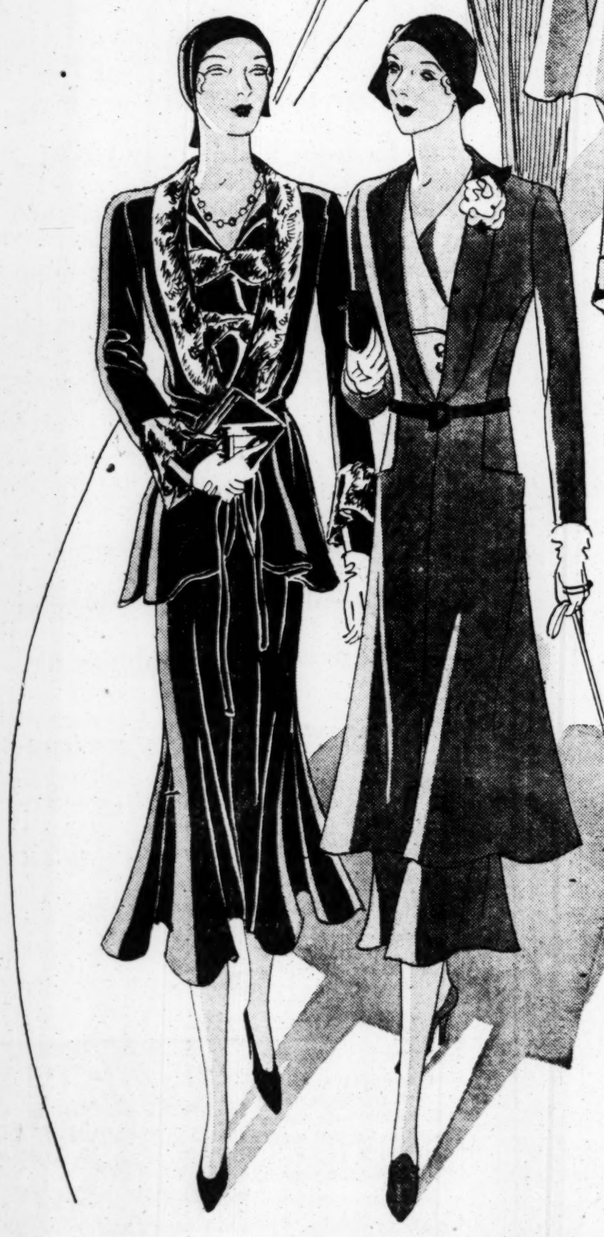
Mandel's Easter Fashions Couldn't Be "Downed" by the Weather . . .

Some Easter Fashions (and very smart ones, at that!) succumbed to the rain yesterday! But these fashions—from Mandel's—came up smiling, serenely unperturbed . . . because they knew that THEY COULD SET A FASHION FORECAST THAT A WEATHER FORECAST COULDN'T TOUCH! And you who wore them to smart places—and you who saw them at smart places yesterday—know that's exactly what they did!

This Cape Coat pleased many—because it was different—both in fashion and in price. It has the fitted cape becoming to those who wear sizes 34-44 . . . the banding of galyak . . . and a price tag that's marked just $75. And with it was worn a black baku hat with a perky white feather (the hat is $15!).



Those who wore this crepe BOLERO FROCK just couldn't wear a coat to cover up the tucked rose opaline vestee and cuffs (sizes 14-16—$65). The Milan beret (a copy of Marie Alphonsine, and just $10), and the blue calf bag ($10) match the frock perfectly.

And those who are just a bit older (and wear sizes 14-18) liked this PATOU COAT (pictured in the center) with a great big buckle and a pique collar over the perky little collar of galyak. (It is $75.) And the hair-braid beret (it is $10) has a chic pique flower to match.

Some of the "young things" who wear sizes from 11-17, chose another CAPE COAT with a fox border . . a little belt that made them look very 1930 . . and price tag that said "$65"! With it they wore a lacquered hair-braid hat with a brim (and its price is $10).

Others were particularly fond of this silk CREPE SUIT, with the jacket banded in galyak (to match the galyak bows underneath). It's $49.50—and in sizes 34-40. The rose quartz necklace is $7.50 . . and the hat, a Suzanne Talbot copy, in baku, is $10.

Those who wanted a smart way to look slim chose the belted cossack suit of wool crepe, with its deep revers. (It's in size 14-20 and is $79.50.) The baku bicorne, a copy of a Rose Descat model, is just $15. 8-button suede gloves were pulled over the cuffs (they're $5.95).

RAIN AND COLD SPOIL LONDON'S EASTER PARADE

Flop of Holiday Trade Injures Hotel Resorts.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 20.—London's annual parade of Easter finery turned out to be a complete flop today as the British capital shivered through the coldest Easter Sunday in 13 years. Arctic blasts whistled along the streets while periodic showers soaked the few adventurous pedestrians who ventured out.

Hyde Park, which is usually crammed with promenaders showing off their new clothes on this occasion, today was deserted except for scanty clusters of chilled watchers who were gathered around soap boxes on which cranks were deltvering the habitual harangues on religion and politics.

Snow Falls on East Coast.

Even worse weather marked Easter in the rest of England, the east coast being treated with an inch of snow and numerous districts reporting heavy rains and hail with the weather well below the freezing point.

The beaches, which are ordinarily jammed during the Easter holidays, were completely deserted as the breakers dashed furiously over the board walks. Several tennis matches were called off and other sporting events were abandoned or were sparsely attended.

Not only England, but all of western Europe, shivered today, and adverse weather marred Easter celebrations in France, Germany, and even Spain. The only brilliant sunshine reported was out in the Atlantic, off the western coast of Ireland, where no one could benefit by it.

Four Day Holiday Spoiled.

It is estimated that the hotel keepers of the English resorts lost several thousands of pounds due to the lack of expected trade. Most of the small vessels plying between the mainland and near-by islands canceled their sailings because of heavy seas.

Londoners found the four day holiday a total failure and the wisest canceled tickets to resorts and remained around the fire at home. The weather is a continuation of a cold snap which has been going for more than a week and which has been marked with high winds, frequent rain, some hail, and spells of darkness which have converted noon into midnight.

A pilot off the Paris to London air line reported yesterday that he passed through 14 distinct snow and hail storms during the trip.

NICKELS, NOT DIMES, FROM ROCKEFELLER; AT EASTER SERVICE

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—John D. Rockefeller Sr. abandoned for today his time-honored practice of distributing dimes and gave out nickels instead. According to custom, he attended Easter services at the First Baptist church in Lakewood, N. J.

At the conclusion of the benediction Mr. Rockefeller walked from aisle to aisle of the little church and similingly shook hands with all the parishioners who lingered. To the children he gave nickels.

2 POLICE, ONE RED KILLED IN EASTER RIOT AT LEIPZIG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LEIPZIG, Germany, April 20.—A police captain, a police lieutenant, and one communist were killed and scores were seriously wounded this evening when the communists held a mass-meeting and held up the Easter traffic in Leipzig's main square, the Augustusplatz.

The Reds had called out their "young guards" and paraded them in the Augustusplatz. When the police ordered them to disperse because they were blocking traffic a few Reds took careful aim, fired on the police officers, and killed two on the spot.

The police then returned their fire and one communist was killed. The Reds asserted that their casualties were much higher than the figures of the police show.

27 Held in Dutch Indies for Plot Financed by Moscow

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Holland, April 20.—It is learned from Batavia that the Dutch-Indian secret police have discovered a large Chinese communist plot with headquarters at Singapore, from whence Chinese agitators were sent to several parts of the Dutch-Indian archipelago to incite the natives and Chinese against the Dutch government. There were 27 arrests made. All those arrested were found to be in the possession of large sums of Moscow money and communist propaganda. The leaders will be expelled to China.

MANY AMERICANS ATTEND EASTER MASSES IN ROME

Crowds Hear Sistine Choir at St. Peter's.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 20.—Brilliant Easter services which were attended by record breaking crowds of foreign visitors especially from Germany, France and the United States, were celebrated in the basilicas and churches of Rome today thus ending Holy Week.

Fifty thousand people thronged Saint Peter's where the masses were celebrated with music by the Sistine choir. The famous piazza before the cathedral presented a splendid picture with the fountains playing amid brilliant sunshine and with motley crowds coming and going.

Pope Does Not Appear.

In previous years the pope has said mass in Saint Peter's and then blessed the crowds in the square. This year, Pope Pius said mass in his own private chapel, not making a public appearance. Inside the Vatican city, the Swiss guards' band gave a public concert of sacred music.

All the other churches of the city were thronged with Easter worshipers, notably Cardinal Mundelein's titular church, Santa Maria del Populo, in which the cardinal's portrait hangs on one side of the altar and that of the pope on the other.

Brilliant Easter services were also held in the noted Gothic cathedral at Milan, in Saint Mark's at Venice, and in the Duomo at Florence. Record crowds of foreign visitors were reported everywhere.

The king and queen of Italy spent the holiday at San Rossore, their estate near Pisa, where they were joined by Prince Humbert and his bride and by Princess Mafalda and Princess Maria. Premier Mussolini spent the day at home at the Villa Torlonia.

Noted Americans Present.

Prominent American visitors here for Easter included Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Thomas W. Lamont, banker.

Following the religious services Easter had its gastronomic and fashion counterpart. Fashion displays were held this afternoon in Via Veneto Virroria.

For the Easter feast at noon all Romans, from the rich to the ragged, eat lamb and eggs. City markets report that 200 tons of lamb and 150,000 dozen eggs were sold for Easter feasting. Many casks of wine from nearby vineyards added to the Easter prandial joys.

Candy Easter eggs are distributed here to the children, but Easter rabbits here are substituted by Easter fish, an ancient emblem of Christianity of Greek origin.

China Reds Disturb Rites.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, China, April 20.— Seventy Chinese agitators invaded a Chinese Christian church here Easter morning and disrupted services, compelling the members of the congregation to listen to speeches denouncing religion. The invaders placed guards at the doors of the church who refused to permit the foreign and Chinese members to depart.

The agitators then visited the International Y. M. C. A., where they attempted also to disrupt the services. Police were summoned and 40 agitators arrested after a struggle in which several were injured. Others were arrested later while they were distributing pamphlets denouncing religion and imperialism and praising sovietism.

Just Another Day in Russia.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, April 20.—The Moscow radio this evening announced the anti-Easter campaign had been a great success, that the schools were open, factories were operating, government offices were functioning, and that the stores were doling out rations to the population, which has been living on bread cards for the last 18 months. Despite the government's campaign and its silencing of church bells, thousands attended religious services in almost every city of Russia.

ONE DEAD, 3 HURT IN CRASH.

Logansport, Ind., April 20.—[Special.]—Edward Linson, of Mishawaka, Ind., 27, was killed and three other occupants of an automobile were seriously injured last night when the car carrying four persons left the highway in going around a curve. Police officers state they found a ten gallon container of alcohol in the machine.

"Give me liberty to know, to utter and to argue freely according to my conscience, above all other liberties."
—Milton.

THE SHAM IN WICKERSHAM.

Bad laws make bad arguments. Mr. Wickersham, chairman of President Hoover's commission on law enforcement, does not demonstrate an exception to this. In his speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors he proved it. His training in law and his practice of it had qualified him to know that what he said of prohibition was illogical, unhistoric and untrue, but because he has assumed a mission he must serve it and not his reason.

Mr. Wickersham knows that thirteen states can keep the eighteenth amendment in the constitution even if thirty-five states earnestly and conscientiously desired its repeal. The thirteen might be small and of small population. The thirty-five might include all the large and populous states. Nevertheless there would be no legal remedy against the amendment. In spite of this Mr. Wickersham could find it in his conscience to say that "whenever there is a widespread demand for a change in the constitution it is not difficult to secure amendment."

Here and throughout his speech urging newspaper editors to correct themselves as to prohibition Mr. Wickersham put forth false statement as basis for his illogic. He will not find in the history of his own people or of kindred people any justification for his theory that a law is inviolable regardless of its nature, its purpose or its consequences simply because it is a law.

If that were true it must have applied to the laws, correct in their legalism, against which the American people have rebelled without the consciousness or reproach of moral turpitude. It would sanction the stamp act and the tea tax, the port laws and the suspension of charters. It would give sanctity to the sedition act which jailed citizens for the expression of political opinion and to the fugitive slave act which made it treasonable for the citizens of a free state not to join a posse in running down a man escaped from bondage. Northern states legislated against that law.

Mr. Wickersham has made the revolution impossible and has given slavery a moral mandate. He has tried to invest lawmaking with a finality and certitude which it never has possessed. The prosecutors and judges in Salem were faithful to the law when they hanged the wretches accused of witchcraft. It was a law that Scotch Covenanters should be hanged if they were discovered at worship. Philip II. of Spain said that he only enforced the law in conducting the Inquisition in the Netherlands.

Coercion nearly always seeks the respectability of legalistic forms and at no time more scrupulously than when it seeks to interfere with religious belief, political opinion, personal habit and individual liberty. Mr. Wickersham when separated from his special mission knows that the Declaration of Independence and the constitution of the United States were remarkable documents in the time of their preparation because they sought to preserve these attributes of freedom. He knows also that, although no article of the constitution has been repealed, some have been nullified, and that all of the nullification, whatever its purpose, has been the work of prohibitionists or of prohibition states. That includes the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments.

The responsible newspaper editors to whom he was talking have not advocated violation of the Volstead act. There was official nullification of the law in Mr. Borah's state, but it has not been made known that the newspapers there advised the officials in their acts. Here again he assumed a condition which does not exist and addressed himself to it as if it were notoriously true. It was an unpleasant speech, quite unworthy of the chairman of the commission which was supposed to be aware of the nature of the question it was appointed to consider. However, it had no honest purpose in the beginning and its acts reflect the domination to which it has submitted.

BUSINESS INTEREST IN CRIME CONTROL.

If the bankers' associations, the insurance companies, the great trust companies, and other institutions designed to conserve private property took more interest in general enforcement of the laws protecting property the chronic crime conditions of this country would be considerably alleviated. When a politician installs a police administration obviously unfitted to enforce the law the banker may protest privately as a citizen, but his associations rarely protest as bankers and custodians of private property.

Crime, after all, is in most cases a threat directly against the institutions that banks, insurance companies, trust companies, and others embody, and the public administration of crime control is very much their business. Though organizations such as the Illinois Bankers' association have done excellent work in running down crimes committed against banks, so that the criminal is sure to think twice before he attacks such an institution, this is not enough. Private thief catching is not enough, whether it be performed by Mr. Cutten, the Illinois Bankers' association, or others. Their ability should be incorporated in our public efforts to control such crime in general. Until they realize this the old sad story of crime in America probably will continue. More business interest in the control of crime would help considerably.

NOAH WAS A SAILOR.

Mussolini is said to be pleased by the manner in which the Italian conferees stuck to their guns in London and satisfied with their work. The Italians were the first skeptics under the Kellogg treaty and the most candid. They rate as realists and when they say, as they do, that the United States was undeniably the goat of the conference some respect must be given their opinion. It would seem to be unbiased and impartial. Italy neither gained nor lost anything because of American concessions to Japan and Great Britain. It could observe the transaction dispassionately and appraise for its full market value a bargain which gave the United States ships it pledged itself not to build.

There will be a number of ifs and whereases and ifsobeits in the treaty when it gets to the senate, and let it be suggested that when it is being considered with the prayerfulness ordinary to a senate deliberation there be proposed and adopted the following:

"Provided also that if it shall appear at any time to the government of the United States that the charity herein described as parity be endangered by the exercise of other signatories of any of the provisos above mentioned the United States shall be permitted at its discretion, and without protest, to add to its cruiser strength the Flying Dutchman, the Ford Peace Ship, Noah's Ark, or a vessel of similar dimensions, the reconditioned frigate Constitution, the Mississippi packet Robert E. Lee, if still afloat, its choice of the two Chicago sand suckers, the Gilbert or the Sandmaster [note: it may be necessary to sacrifice the bridge busting Sandmaster as too militant], the Cook County Democracy houseboat and the wreck of the Hesperus."

SPRING SHAKEDOWNS.

Leslie Lyons, a young attorney from Chicago, was booked for disorderly conduct by the Evanston police the other night. He had been found talking to a young woman as the two sat in his automobile parked near the lake front. No other misdemeanor was reported in the evening paper that carried the news. He had not been noisy, drunken or offensive to the neighbors. When the police ordered him to come with them to the station for questioning, he refused to ride in the police flivver, leaving the girl in his own car. He refused also to ride in the patrol wagon, but was hauled away and booked for disorderly conduct.

Mopping up the lake front and the streets of the north shore from Evanston to Lake Forest is a regular summer pastime for policemen, and in west side suburbia conditions are the same. Often the game may be remunerative, if the young man through fright or fear of embarrassment for the girl can find five dollars handy. Motorists have been "bawled out" and threatened with the station in Winnetka and northward for a crime no greater than stopping the car, with engine running, to light a cigaret. Parking, however innocent, has become dangerous. At any time the snooper or official holdup may swoop down.

Why the public will permit these high-handed nuisances is not clear. So long as motorists along the public right of way are not endangering traffic, so long as they are quiet and inoffensive to surrounding people, the police clearly have no right to meddle. But the police meddle and snoop, bully and intimidate. Were the energy that they use in rounding up inoffensive motorists turned against real crime, improvement would be general. In most cases it is nothing but a shakedown, and the responsible police authorities should stop it forthwith.

Editorial of the Day

THE CHICAGO WATER DIVERSION CASE.

[Detroit News.]

In one respect the decision of the Supreme court in the Illinois water diversion case is one of the most remarkable ever handed down by that august body. The Supreme court says to the sovereign state of Illinois, in effect: "You have been in the wrong for years; you have done irreparable damage. You must now cease taking water that does not belong to you, and if the process is too costly for your means you must amend your constitution so that the means may be provided."

We can find no precedent for such an order. The exact words of the decision are: "If its constitution stands in the way of prompt action, it must amend it or yield to an authority that is paramount to the state." And what if the people of Illinois, finding that their constitution stands in the way of fulfilling the court's demands, refuse to amend it? That question raises the old problem of the means by which the federal government can coerce a state.

In some respects the situation would parallel that of 1832, when a South Carolina convention declared the tariff laws null and void, and threatened to secede if the government tried to enforce them. This action led to President Jackson's proclamation in which he declared he had no choice but to enforce the laws of the nation; and thereupon he threatened to send 40,000 troops into South Carolina. Congress backed him by passing the force bill, authorizing him to use the military and naval power to collect the revenues. Eventually both sides backed down, congress reducing the obnoxious tariff schedules and South Carolina deciding to make no further trouble.

But that is quite a different matter from compelling a state to amend its constitution. That the Supreme court means business is shown by the fact that the court retains jurisdiction of the case and demands semi-annual reports on the progress made by Chicago in complying with its orders. If the logic of the sanitary district officials prevails there will be no trouble; they claim that the minimum diversion allowed by the court, 1,500 feet, added to the 1,700 feet of pumpage allowed for industrial and household purposes, will give all the flow down the canal that is needed. We may expect, also, that Chicago will try to secure a larger authorization from congress.

But it would be interesting to see Illinois refuse to amend her constitution, if an amendment should prove necessary.

PERIL OF CHROMIUM POISON.

THE hazard of chromium poisoning has increased greatly since the world war. This is the opinion of Dr. C. T. Graham-Rogers. This is due to a far wider use of chromium plating. Processes that were locked up in government files or were known to but a few manufacturers have been made matters of common information and have come into much more general use.

In many chrome plating establishments no proper means for protecting employés are in operation, and in others workmen are either ignorant of the danger or willing to take chances. The most frequent ill effect is a chronic skin eruption commonly called eczema. A more serious disorder is ulcer of the nose, producing a hole in the septum or causing the end of the nose to cave in.

This nose ulcer is merely one of the ulcers of mucous membranes liable to result from chrome. In chrome plating the metal to be covered is placed in a solution of chrome acid in a vat. An electric current is sent through the liquid. This not only deposits the chrome acid on the surface to be plated but it causes gas bubbles to form in the solution. These bubbles rise to the surface and burst, carrying sprays of chrome solution into the air. This is inhaled and deposited on the membrane of the nose. It reaches mucous membranes elsewhere. In this and various other ways the irritating acid gets on the skin.

Dr. Graham-Rogers cites one instance in which a number of women working in a room removed some distance from the chrome tanks suffered from ulcers and holes in the nose caused by breathing air moistened with the chrome spray.

The outstanding method of protection is properly arranged hoods over vats. These hoods are served by strong exhaust fans. The sprays must be kept away from the general air supply. When possible the chrome tanks should be in rooms shut off from the general factory and office space. There must be ample washing and toilet facilities, and they should be kept clean and attractive. Along with soap and water the washrooms should be equipped with bottles of alkaline solutions to be used as washes to neutralize the acid on the skin. Lanolin or petroleum jelly should be applied before beginning work as a protection to the skin and lining of the nose. Workers should not put the fingers in the nose or mouth.

EYESTRAIN IS ONE CAUSE.

Mrs. G. F. F. writes:

1. What causes a sty on the eye?
2. Does it mean eyeglasses are needed?
3. Is there any truth about a gold ring, rubbed on the sty, relieving the inflammation?

REPLY.

1. Eyestrain is the most important cause. Infection of a lash root is another cause.
2. As a rule, that is the meaning of multiple sties.
3. No.

INFORMATION ON TUBERCULOSIS.

Mrs. H. G. writes: Where can I get information regarding tuberculosis in all its stages?

REPLY.

Apply to your state or local health department or to your state or local tuberculosis society.

Most libraries have one or more books on tuberculosis written in nontechnical language.

NOT FAR FROM STOMACH.

T. S. writes:

1. Where is a duodenal ulcer located, in the stomach or intestines?
2. Is the operation serious?
3. I have had it three years. Could it turn into cancer?
4. Would the diet have to be continued after the operation?

REPLY.

1. In the small intestines, not far from the stomach.
2. It is.
3. It is possible.
4. No, but the person must be careful of the diet.

PREPAYMENT OF NOTE.

Chicago, April 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can an automobile loan from a finance company be paid for completely (in spite of signed note) by paying the full amount of the original loan plus 6 per cent per year up to the time of the said payment? 2. Subtracting insurance charges, the finance companies usually charge well over 10 per cent of the loan throughout the full time of the loan. Is this legal in the state of Illinois? T. M. H.

1. No. In the sense that the creditor is not obliged to discount the agreed interest because of the prepayment. 2. If you can show that the charges are not, in fact, intended to cover insurance, etc., but to act as a cover for usurious interest, then you would have a defense to all interest charges. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MINOR SEEKS BRIDE ABROAD.

Chicago, April 16.—[Friend of the People.]—Can I go to Bulgaria, marry and bring my bride to America free of the quota? I am 20 years old and a son of a naturalized American citizen. T. K.

There is nothing that you can do at this time to bring the girl you are going to marry in Bulgaria to the United States without her being counted in the quota, as you are not yet 21 years of age. An American citizen who desires to file petition form 633 to have his wife enter as a nonquota immigrant must be 21 years of age or over.

For further information please apply at this office [1343 Transportation building].

District Director of Immigration.

TURNER AVENUE EYESORE.

Chicago, April 14.—[Friend of the People.]—The two flat building on 4336 South Turner avenue is an eyesore. Young children who play in and around the building are in very serious danger. The building has been in a condition to be condemned since last spring. The fire department has been called three or four times in the last few months because hoodlums made fires in it. P. P.

The owner of the building at 4336 S. Turner avenue has been notified to make safe or demolish the building. The owner having failed to comply, the matter has been placed in the law department for prosecution. CHRISTIAN P. PASCHEN,
Commissioner of Buildings.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

OR MAYBE SOMETHING ABOUT THE TARIFF—

The newspapers yesterday had a thrilling United Press dispatch from Waterbury, Conn., about a trout that had picked up a set of false teeth and was using them to chew his food being hooked by a fisherman, one Lester Green, and dragging the said Green seven miles before he was captured. We do not believe the story, because if the trout had swallowed a set of false teeth and was using them to chew his food then he could have used them to bite the fish line and he wouldn't have been captured. However, if the papers hadn't used the trout story they would probably have put something in the space regarding the naval parley in London and we would much sooner read about the trout and the false teeth.

TOURIST.

I have sat in an old garden—
The whim of a cardinal—
Tall and proud and terraced,
Heavy with laurel.

I have seen rocks, stern and jagged,
Scornful and wise,
Against the smug bright azure,
Dark scrawls in the skies.

I have walked rows of black cypress—
Stark dusty scripts—
Lost, crumbling crypts.

But this beauty was no part of me.
Watching the sun go down,
I have carried back sorrow
To an alien town.

ALL LENTEN VOWS are now null and void. O, well, nobody kept them, anyhow, except the city of Chicago. It vowed not to dig a subway during Lent and how nobly, how beautifully it kept its vow. But now that Lent is over Chicago will turn in and how the dirt will fly from that subway! Yes it will, lykell, lykell, lykell!

THE TRIB SAYS the next trial to oust Gov. Kohler of Wisconsin begins Tuesday. Now, why is that? They used to oust Gov. Kohler on Wednesdays and Saturdays, and now they're going to include Tuesdays. The governor is going to protest finally that they are really taking up too much of his time.

WHY, THE VERY IDEAR!

"Capone Seizing Unions in Drive for City Power."—W. G. N. It's going to be a little embarrassing for us to explain this to the world at large, which is already arching its eyebrows and whispering some very unkind things about Chicago. Those of our righteous citizens who are already deeply pained at the mere mention of Hizzoner Big Bill Thompson must have gone into convulsions yesterday when they read the awful news concerning Mr. Alfonse Capone and the grave possibility of his becoming the dictator of our city. The shock is so sudden that it's hardly possible as yet to envision Mr. Capone welcoming distinguished guests to our World's Fair in 1933—however, in this day and age we should be prepared for almost anything. Including Mr. Capone.

BUT ON THE OTHER HAND, look at the great publicity Italy has gained in having Mr. Mussolini as dictator. Mr. Capone as dictator of Chicago during the impending fair would be worth fifty or a hundred ordinary press agents. Great crowds would come to the fair just for the fun of seeing rival bootleggers and hi-jackers shooting at our boss.

—:—

AND WE ARE WAITING anxiously to see what the Secret Six of the Chicago Association of Commerce will do in regard to Mr. Capone's idea of seizing control of the city. Of course, we don't know who the Secret Six is; it's a secret; but we are on tiptoe for developments. The very name, "Secret Six," thrills us to the marrow of our bones—sounds so like something by Edgar Wallace or Mary Roberts Rinehart, or maybe it reminds us of a combination in Mr. Capone's own milieu. But never mind, Secret Six, sic 'em. We can hardly wait to see what you're going to do.

—:—

LOVE'S PRECIPITATE.

Know this then, dear,
I loved you overmuch!
And though when near
The pressure of your touch

Stirred not at all
The dreaming heart of me,
Across the wall
You built to set me free

There comes at night,
Though other lips be near
And arms clasp tight . . .
Knowledge I loved you, dear!

E. LESLIE SPAULDING.

THE last man of a Last Man's club is now free to drink a bottle of Burgundy purchased in 1886 and put aside to be drunk by the lone survivor of the organization. But the last man says the Burgundy has turned to vinegar. Well, maybe, but anyhow it's a prudent thing to say so. A bottle of good Burgundy in these days of bootleg gin and horrific hootch would be an awful temptation to long suffering wets. If we owned it we would declare that it had not only turned to vinegar, but that the bottle was broken and the stuff had all leaked out and some one had stolen the cork. And even then we would stand guard over that Burgundy with a machine gun and two baskets of bombs.

LAGNIAPPE.

AND now Doc Kegel, the health commissioner, has discovered a lot of oil floating on the river and is afraid it will get into the drinking water. O, well, with all the things there are in the water already and the chlorine or whatever it is they put in to kill 'em, we won't mind a little oil. But we do hate those little fishes that slip in now and then. The darned things flop around so when you're swallowing 'em.

CHEER UP—even if you haven't got a job! Tough luck, but it could be worse. Think of the suffering of the poor girls who had prepared to march up and down yesterday in the Easter parade and had to stay home because of the rain, mud and cold. And they had their new dresses all ready and Paris model hats that set 'em back sixty bucks each. Now, there's real misery!

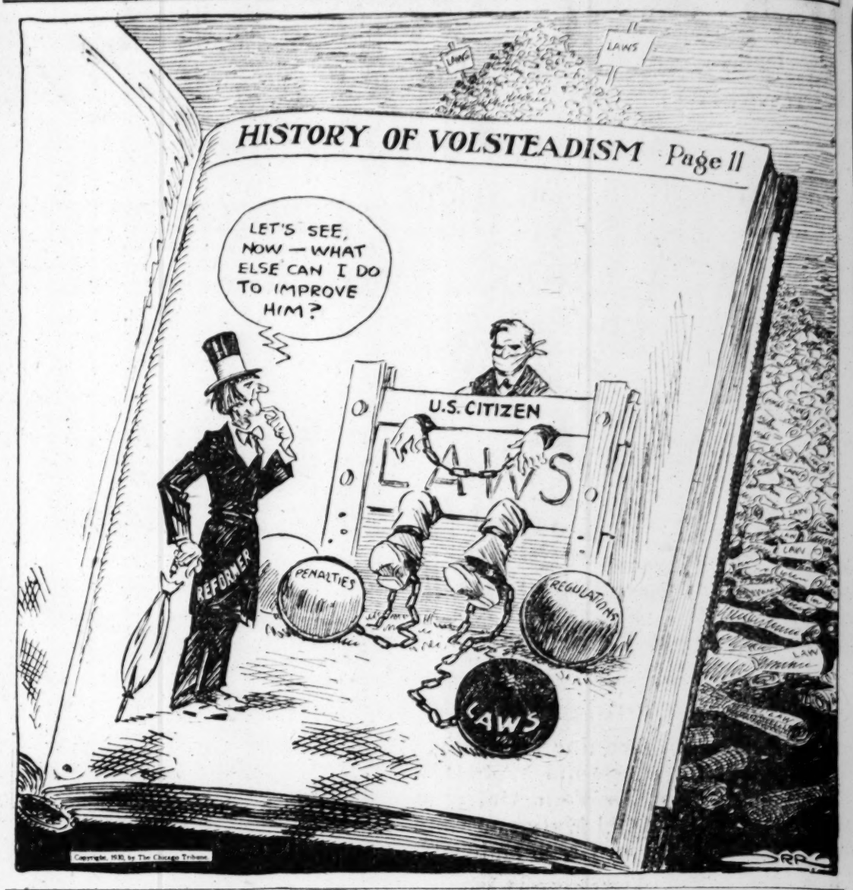
PROHIBITION



FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 21, 1865.

WASHINGTON.—"The murderer of our late beloved President, Abraham Lincoln, is still at large. Fifty thousand dollars reward will be paid by the war department for his apprehension, in addition to any reward offered by municipal authorities or state executives. Twenty-five thousand dollars reward will be paid for the apprehension of G. A. Altjerat, sometimes called 'Port Tobacco,' one of Booth's accomplices. Twenty-five thousand dollars reward will be paid for the apprehension of David C. Harold, another of Booth's accomplices. E. M. STANTON,
"Secretary of War."

BALTIMORE. — A dispatch from Gen. E. B. Taylor, dated Relay House, April 20, says: "Sergt. Gambill of the 1st Delaware cavalry has just brought in A. B. Atzerot, one of the assassins. He has been identified by detectives who have been pursuing him."

WASHINGTON. — The remains of the late President, which have been lying in state all day in the rotunda of the capitol, were visited by an immense throng of people. It is estimated that not less than 43,000 persons passed through the building in the course of the day. Twelve general officers, among them Gens. Meigs, Hunter, and Barnard, have been appointed a guard of honor to accompany the body to its last resting place. According to the program as laid down, it will be twelve days before the late President's remains reach Springfield. The party will consist of nine cars, which will be tastefully draped in mourning. The journey is expected to start tomorrow. Mrs. Lincoln is still suffering greatly from nervous prostration.

NEW YORK.—The Herald has advices from Winchester which state that the rebel Mosby surrendered his force to Gen. Chapman at Perryville on the 17th, after approving the terms with Gen. Hancock. Mosby's men number probably 700.

CHICAGO.—Gov. Oglesby has sent to the widow of Senator Stephen A. Douglas $25,000 in accordance with the legislative act authorizing the state to purchase for that sum the lot in Oakenwald where the senator's body now lies buried.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 21, 1900.

Springfield, Ill.—Gov. Tanner is suffering from gall stones, it was announced after a consultation at the executive mansion by Dr. Nicholas Senn of Chicago and the attending physicians, Dr. L. C. Taylor and J. N. Dixon of Springfield. In a statement issued it was said: "The physicians in the case positively exclude the idea of tuberculosis or cancer from the diagnosis."

NEWPORT NEWS.—Cissy Loftus, the actress, either walked or fell off the pier at Old Point Comfort and would have drowned had not Coxswain De Leon of the United States training ship Monongahela jumped in and saved her.

LONDON.—Reports from the British camps in the Boer war area all have a discouraging ring. Lord Roberts is badly delayed in his forward movement by swollen streams and bad roads, and has been seriously annoyed by the Boers. Numerous minor engagements are reported from various points, but details of none of them are given.

CHICAGO.—The health department bulletin reported as follows on the condition of the city's water: Lake View crib, usable; Chicago avenue crib, bad; 14th street, bad; Hyde Park, bad. On the previous day all were reported good.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 21, 1920.

OMAHA, Neb.—Returns from the Nebraska primary indicated at 2 o'clock this morning that Senator Hiram Johnson of California would have a majority over both Gen. Wood and Gen. Pershing in the Republican presidential preference vote.

WASHINGTON.—The flames of revolt against Carranza are sweeping over Mexico with amazing rapidity, according to advices received here today. Mexico City is threatened and it is believed to be only a question of days before Carranza will be compelled to fight to hold the capital or flee.

THE STRAW VOTE.

Chicago, April 18.—Why all these determined efforts of dry adherents to disparage the value of the Literary Digest poll? Its accuracy and fairness were conceded by all on former occasions. Why not this?

"The ballots are being mailed only to 'known' wets," "Not one woman has had a chance to vote," "Only wet cities are represented in the poll," "There is no safeguard against repeating." These and many arguments like them are being offered by dry sympathizers.

A correspondent from Moline says the present poll shows "glaring inaccuracies." He evidently has never learned to add, subtract, multiply or divide. He cites the Digest showing the south as strongly wet. It does no such thing. It shows the eleven southern states giving fifteen thousand majority for enforcement compared to either modification or repeal. He cites Wisconsin as being wet by four to one, but the ratio is 3 for enforcement, 4 for modification, and 6 for repeal. Even if the modification vote must be classed as strictly wet, that is not four to one. He says the women voters get only 15 per cent of the ballots mailed. How does he know? The Digest has never given out its method for obtaining names. How does he know that a straw vote composed of women balloters exclusively would show a dry majority? And how does he know that rural communities are overwhelmingly dry? Many of them have one speakeasy to every three hundred of population.

The Digest has received thousands of letters from men who complain that their ballots were extracted from the mail box and voted by their women folks. Dr. Clarence True Wilson advises all dry sympathizers to repeat as often as they can. He considers that ethical. It is ethical, too, quite as ethical as is shown by the spectacle of twenty dry states forcing prohibition on the remaining twenty-eight. The population of the latter states, totaling ninety millions, are ruled by the population of the twenty states containing thirty millions.

WARREN W. ROBERTS.

BANK TAXATION.

Chicago, Ill., April 17.—It seems strange that the people who have so much to say about our archaic and antiquated revenue system should be quite ignorant of late developments in the field of taxation. Again a great deal is being said and written about the escape of intangibles and relief that could be given to the owners of real estate if intangibles were made to bear their fair share of their tax burden. It is an old but still a wise maxim to look before you leap.

A change from our present method of taxing intangibles to either the low flat rate method or the income tax method will immediately involve the taxation of banks. The Supreme court of the United States in several recent cases has held that intangibles come into competition with the business of national banks and, such being the case, the shares of national banks cannot be taxed at a higher rate than intangibles. By recent decisions of that court the revenue systems of several states have been thrown into chaos. The revenue that may be gained by a low flat rate on intangibles or from intangibles by an income tax will be lost in the radically reduced revenues that will be collected from the banks.

It would be well for those who urge the remodeling of our revenue system to look into the effect of bank taxation of a low flat rate on intangibles or of the taxation of intangibles by an income tax. In several states where the "reforms" now being urged here have been adopted the legislatures have been called into special session to try to patch up the damage done by the courts. No change should be made in our present plan of taxing intangibles and no income tax should be adopted until section 5219 of the U. S. revised statutes has been modified, unless it be desired to relieve the banks of two-thirds or more of the taxes they are now paying.

GEORGE G. TUNELL,
Commissioner of Taxes, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway system.

BROKEN PAVEMENTS.

Chicago, April 14.—The letter of A. S. Curney, dated April 3, asks why the gas company should be permitted to break the pavement on North Hermitage avenue to put in a new main, suggesting that they wait until the street is to be paved again. I happen to know the answer, which is this: Every winter Chicago gas consumers use many millions more cubic feet of gas. Unless new mains are added during the summer it would be impossible to deliver these larger amounts of gas in the winter. To meet the demands of next December and January this main must be put in along North Hermitage avenue now. If the gas company were to wait until the street is paved again—perhaps several years—many residents of Chicago would have no gas on cold days for several years. The portions of the pavement broken by the laying of this main will be repaved at the gas company's expense. A GAS USER.

DOWN WITH THE SIGNS.

Chicago, April 10.—By way of suggestion: why not have some of the election candidates take down some of the signs they have literally covered the city with? There is hardly a limp post in the city that does not bear from two to one-half dozen signs.

IRVIN. MARSALEK.

BRINGS AIR MAP OF BYRD FLIGHT IN ANTARCTICA

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Captain Ashley C. McKinley, aerial surveyor of the Byrd expedition, returned to this city today bringing with him the negatives of an air map of 170,000 square miles of Antarctica and a vivid recollection of a "ticklish moment or two" on his flight with Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd to the south pole.

Pointing a fifty-pound camera from the windows of the tri-motored monoplane Floyd Bennett, the captain snapped the pole at the moment Admiral Byrd dropped the American flag, weighted with a stone from Bennett's grave. He made a continuous pictorial record of the historic flight from the moment of the take-off at little America to the time when the wireless towers loomed ahead on the return and all danger had passed.

Runs Camera Crank 18 Hours.

He ground his camera crank virtually every minute of the eighteen hours and fifty-nine minutes of the flight. He admitted today he had been so busy that he had not had time to ponder on the hazards of the flight in the uncertain conditions of the polar region.

In addition to photographing the terrain on the 800 mile flight to the pole, Capt. McKinley made a series of overlapping pictures of the Rockefeller mountains, Marie Byrd land, the Queen Maude range, where Dr. Lawrence Gould carried out extensive scientific investigations, and the country surrounding the Bay of Wales. When the pictures are joined together they will form a mosaic of the territory covered by the expedition.

Negatives in Good Shape.

The negatives arrived in fine shape. They were in two big wooden boxes which the captain carried with him to insure safety in his compartment on the Broadway Limited.

Tanned and in perfect health, Capt. McKinley returned confident that when the scientific data obtained is tabulated it will be found that the expedition in every department accomplished more than had been hoped. He preferred, however, to leave to Admiral Byrd discussion of that phase of the adventure.

Through the fourteen months spent at Little America, he said, there had never been a letdown of the morale of the men. Every one had been kept busy, especially during the long winter night, and although there had been moments when homesickness developed, the radio, keeping them in constant touch with the outside world, had helped to dispell the "glooms."

WANTS TO KNOW IF DRY LAW SCRUPLES APPLY TO FORD CARS

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Preliminary negotiations for the purchase of one of Henry Ford's station wagons, together wtih a request for advice regarding the use of intoxicating liquor, in view of the Detroit manufacturer's decision to dismiss any of his employés found drinking, are contained in a letter from Channing Pollock, New York playwright, to Mr. Ford.

"It occurs to me," wrote Mr. Pollock, after intimating that he wanted the wagon for his country place at Shoreham, L. I., "that before buying the aforesaid station wagon I should ask whether your moral scruples extend to purchasers of your cars. In that event, I feel that I must choose one of three courses: [1] Obtain your permission to take a drink when I desire it; [2] give up taking a drink when I desire it; [3] give up a Ford car."

RAIL AND FERRY RECORD BROKEN IN METROPOLIS

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Breaking all previous records, the railroads and ferry lines carried 427,898,285 passengers into and out of New York City in 1929, according to a report made public today.

There was an increase of 65,594,038 over the 362,304,247 passengers carried in 1928, most of it being accounted for by augmented travel on the trunk line railroads. In the past the annual increase has never been more than one or two million passengers, the report declared.

MAIL BY AIR TO ARGENTINA CUT TO SEVEN DAYS

Four Days Off Schedule from New York.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—A new link in the aerial chain connecting North and South America will be inaugurated Friday when the present airmail schedule between New York and Buenos Aires is cut from eleven to seven days. The same date will mark the beginning of an intensive bit of rivalry between United States aviation interests and those of European countries.

Two great United States lines operate in Latin America—the Pan-American Airways system and the New York, Rio and Buenos Aires line, the latter by the east coast route. The official United States postal route travels over the first named system and reaches its Atlantic coast objective by way of the west coast and over the Andes. The seven day mail service on a once-a-week basis is going to be the wedge by which the United States hopes to outstrip her old world competitors who were first in the southern field.

French Plan Line to Europe.

The seven day airmail service is to be inaugurated just at the moment that the French Aero Postale company is planning a definite aerial connection from Toulouse, France, to Buenos Aires. That there will be considerable rivalry from which Latin America is certain to benefit is evident when a checkup shows there are ten aviation systems now operating in South America.

Among the more important systems not already mentioned are the Lloyd Aero Bolivian, "Ecadta," Chilean National Air lines, the Condor Syndikat, a German owned line; the Faucett Aviation company and the Pickwick Latin American Airways company.

European enterprise invaded Latin America's airways on an international scale as early as 1926. German, British and French capital soon was followed by American dollars and planes and in February a survey showed 37,530 miles of regularly operated airlines throughout Latin America. This was approximately 11,000 more miles than was being regularly flown in the United States, according to official figures, the explanation being the greater area to be covered in South America and the fact that airways there were not retarded by topography and climate as were other means of transportation.

Route of Service.

With the exception of the New York-Miami link of the seven day service to Buenos Aires there will be no night flying. From Miami the South American mail will cross to Havana and head direct for the Nicaraguan landing field.

Basil Rowe and Edward Schultz will fly the trail blazer. A twin motored Sikorsky plane will be used for this long water jump. The same Sikorsky will continue on to Santa Elena, Ecuador. Having left New York Friday, the mail will be in Ecuador Monday night; on Tuesday night it will be in Lima, Peru, in Arica, Chile, on Wednesday, and Friday it will arrive in Santiago, Chile. The next day the mail plane will cross over the Andes to Montevideo and to Buenos Aires, its goal.

The trans-Atlantic airways route of the French Postale is to link the existing French Postale lines in South America with those which now connect Paris with Dakar, Africa. The ocean planes—Latecoere seaplanes powered with Hispano-Suiza motors—will fly between Dakar, Africa, and Natal, Brazil. The trip will be made in five days.

Former Endurance Flyer Held as Alien Smuggler

Los Angeles, Cal., April 29.—(AP)—Loren Mendell, once co-holder of the world record for endurance refueling flight, was arrested here last night by United States immigration authorities on alien smuggling charges. He posted $5,000 bail and was released. Officials alleged he conspired to bring two alien Japanese across the United States border from Mexico on April 2. Mendell was arrested early in April at Black Butte, Mexico, by Mexican authorities for illegal entry, but later was released.

NEBRASKAN DENIES HE CONFESSED PLOTTING DEATH OF A BANKER

Omaha, Neb., April 20.—(AP)—Under arrest for questioning in connection with the recent mystery death of Oscar J. Milius, president of the suburban bank in which he kept his meager savings, James A. Davis, 57, late today repudiated admissions contained in a signed statement given by him to a newspaper last night.

Davis was arrested by county authorities early today for investigation after he had confessed to being the writer of a series of threatening letters sent anonymously to two business associates of the former banker, who died here a week ago of burns suffered in an automobile accident.

Davis denied when questioned by County Attorney Henry Beal that he was with Milius when the latter suffered his fatal burns March 1, as he previously had stated in the signed statement to newspaper men. He also repudiated the assertion that the death of the banker had been deliberately planned or that an alleged accomplice had promised him $1,000 if he would "get rid of Milius."

"I was too tired and sleepy to know what I was saying," Davis told County Attorney Beal.

How . . do we create a standard of value in . . Oriental Rugs

Perhaps you have been doing a little shopping . . . and have seen several Oriental rugs belonging to the same general type and bearing the same name . . . yet you find that there is no common standard of price for them. You are confused, and you most naturally ask why?

The main reason for this price confusion is, of course, that in the nature of things a hand woven article cannot be made uniformly — that is why Pushman Buyers are instructed to buy nothing but the best of each type. This policy at once creates a standard . . . THE STANDARD OF QUALITY.

Yet this high standard of quality in itself is not an assurance for value unless it is supported by another standard—the standard of price.

It is obvious that a price tag on an Oriental rug is what a dealer makes of it. Without detection, a dealer may mark his rugs 10% to 50% higher than the price he eventually expects to get. How is it possible to establish a price standard, then?

Pushman's nationally known policy of "one price to everybody" was adopted many, many years ago to meet just that problem, and has been consistently maintained. Because there is no deviation from the marked price, the Pushman price must be originally low enough to meet any competition . . . thus creating a DEFINITE STANDARD OF VALUE IN ORIENTAL RUGS.

THAT IS WHY YOU CAN BUY WITH CONFIDENCE AT PUSHMAN'S

"Everything for the Home" is indeed what you will find at Hartman's! You will find the smartest style trends faithfully reflected in merchandise in this store—at mighty comfortable (and comforting) prices.

Rambling Through Hartman's Loop Store with Marion Hart

Good Morning!

AFTER an absence of several months, I've returned, with the robin, because I know that "in the Spring a woman's fancy" turns to new things for the home. Let me help you!
—Marion Hart.

SUMMER'S ALMOST here, I suddenly realized, when I saw a deep, comfy glider the other day—just waiting to get installed on some lucky person's porch or lawn. It was one of Hartman's exclusive models and sells for only $32.50.

I'VE BOUGHT A RADIO—in self-protection, so I won't have to listen to the neighbors' second-hand music, and I bought a Radiola Model 46—first, because it's a GRAND SET, and, second, because it's such a bargain. (The price, $71, less tubes—just half it's ORIGINAL price.)

THEATRICAL GAUZE gets more attractive all the time. Now it's to be had in the natural linen color, with gay wool embroidery in choice of colors. The embroidery makes it VERY smart, and it's SO INEXPENSIVE—only 77c a yard.

ORIENTAL RUGS, like most of life's luxuries, are getting within the reach of everybody. Certainly almost anyone can have one when Rugs that sell regularly for $330 start getting themselves sold for $165—just HALF PRICE! That's what is happening today with full 9x12 size Persian and Chinese Rugs—3rd Flr.

A BOUDOIR CHAIR that's a bit unusual is a smart damask - covered style, on the eighth floor. You can choose the color—green, orchid or gold. It's usually priced at $27.50, but today's price is JUST $19.75.

THE SIXTH FLOOR has the prettiest display of Colonial Lamps I've seen in many a day. And they are so inexpensive—a smart Bridge Lamp, for instance, for only $3.98.

NEED A NEW DRESSER? I saw a splendid one in the Bargain Basement today. It's walnut veneered and has a large mirror and four roomy drawers. And the price for today is only $24.98.

$19.75 for a DINNER SET is my idea of a bargain, but that's what you can get a complete 95-piece set for today. It's an American semi-porcelain set, with full border decoration and coin gold handles, and it sells regularly for $34.50.

NO EXCUSE for not writing letters, is what I decided when I saw a SPINET DESK this morning for only $9.95! And WHAT A DESK—all richly walnut finished and all tricked out with handy pigeonholes and a little drawer. (Desks like it usually cost at least $17.50.)

THERE'S A LITTLE LAMP with lots of good points, that simply captivated me down on the sixth floor. It's Colonial, in pewter finish, and has a chimney, just like old kerosene lamps. And it's only $1.95, complete with parchment shade. (The price captivated me, too!)

Strange, isn't it, that so simple a thing as a REFRIGERATOR holds almost the whole secret of summer comfort. But it does. So when I bought one the other day I saw to it that it was porcelain-lined, so it would be easy to clean, and cork-insulated to save ice. 75-pound capacity. HALF-PRICED at $27.50.

HOUSE CLEANING TIME! Perhaps that's why I was so interested in a fine coil spring I found. And the price is only $10. Guaranteed to give years of service.

YANK, KIDNAPED IN MEXICO, TELLS STORY OF HORROR

Talks Way to Freedom with Gun at Head.

MEXICO CITY, April 20.—(AP)—Leonard B. Cassidy, American employé of the Transcontinental Fruit company, arrived in Mexico City today on his way home after getting away from a group of men who kidnaped him last Tuesday and released him only after threatening to kill him many times.

Cassidy declared he was going to Peabody, Mass., for rest and recuperation. He said that for more than thirty-six hours he had been under constant threat and fear of death, with revolvers pressed to his head or back, while being held in the vicinity of Tuxtepec, state of Oaxaca.

After a month's rest at home he plans to return to his work again in Mexico.

Three of Captors Executed.

He attributes his escape with his life to the fact that the bandits held nothing against him personally and to the fact that he speaks Spanish and understands the Latin temperament. Since his release the government has announced that troops under Gen. Felix Gonzalez have caught Fernando Ramirez, Esteban Pena, and Gustavo Cruz Silva, three of Cassidy's kidnapers, and executed them. Their ages ranged from 23 to 25.

According to Cassidy's own story, he was at a fruit loading station twelve miles from Tuxtepec when the three men came to his office and said they wanted to talk to him.

"As soon as they entered they seized my gun, covered me, cut the telephone wires, and ripped out the telephone," he said. "A few minutes later we started into the jungle. At first the kidnapers said they were going to kill me. I kept talking to them and telling them it was useless to kill me, for they would not get a ransom.

Flee from Soldiers.

"About nightfall we arrived at the hut of an old Indian, and, with a gun jammed in my ribs, I was forced to tell him we were out hunting and wanted a place to sleep and some food. At 4 a. m. the Indian told us ten soldiers were approaching his house. We immediately hit the trail again."

After being lost in a jungle the party reached a narrow trail.

"We heard voices and my captors shoved me into the bush again. With a gun at my head I saw ten soldiers pass along the trail looking for me. I could have reached out and touched them, but the gun was at my head."

After dodging soldiers all through the day Cassidy and his kidnapers reached San Bartolo.

"At 5 a. m. Thursday I again began to argue with the men, urging them to release me, and after five hours of argument they let me go. They gave me a gun and I started for San Bartolo, arriving there at 11 a. m., half dead from fear, hunger, and exhaustion."

UNCOVER $25,000 FLAT ROBBERIES IN INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Ind., April 20.—[Special.]—Apartment house robberies totaling nearly $25,000 were solved here today by the arrest of two young married couples, 23 and 24 years old. The loot recovered filled numerous trunks and suitcases and consisted principally of silverware, furs, jewelry, rugs, and tapestries.

The robberies were discovered in an unusual way. One of the victims, her home stripped by the robbers, went to live with her brother in another part of the city. She noticed that a young woman rooming there was wearing one of her dresses, stolen from her apartment. Landladies of both couples had been duped with the explanation that quantities of merchandise brought in from time to time were being taken from storage or were gifts or bridge prizes.

Entrance to the apartments was usually effected by removing service doors.

150 Flee Theater Fire Started by Explosion

Nixa, Mo., April 20.—Amid screams of milling, frightened children, an audience of more than 150 moved slowly to safety last night after an explosion in the projection room of the Elite theater at Nixa which set fire to the theater building and caused its destruction.

EX-MAYOR OF ZEIGLER IS ESCORTED OUT OF TOWN BY SHERIFF

Benton, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—Former Mayor William Hogan of Zeigler, recently ousted as president of local union No. 992 of the United Mine Workers of America, was escorted out of Zeigler last night to a point of safety. Hogan, until recently a power in mining and political circles, had received threats of death if he didn't leave the city and he appealed to James S. Pritchard, sheriff, for an escort.

The sheriff, accompanied by State's Attorney M. M. Hart and five deputy sheriffs armed with machine guns, complied with Hogan's request, but the officers refused to reveal the former mayor's whereabouts.

Hogan, a sympathizer of Harry Fishwick, had defied John L. Lewis, president of the international organization, and aligned himself with the new organization headed by Alex Howat. Hogan's local continued to pay dues to the state organization and refused to recognize cards held by members of other locals who work at Mine No. 1 of the Bell & Zoller Coal company. Lewis then revoked the charter of local No. 992.

Thirty-five state highway patrolmen parked at the edge of Zeigler today while an all day meeting and picnic was being held at Hyde Park, a half mile away. Precautions were taken to prevent a recurrence of a battle which occurred at Royalton, four miles west of the city, Friday.

EMMERSON AND STRAWN TO HOLD PARLEY TODAY

The entire question of financial return for Chicago is expected to be discussed by Gov. Emmerson and Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the citizens' relief committee, at a conference here today. Several details upon which the governor and business and civic leaders of this city have hitherto differed are slated for settlement.

Mr. Strawn last night said that the time and place for the meeting had not been fixed definitely, but that he had hopes that a solution of the tax problem would be near when the conference was over. The important question just now, all those interested agreed, was to decide upon just what program should be followed if a special session of the legislature is called.

Gov. and Mrs. Emmerson are scheduled to be the guests at a dinner to be given tonight by the Chicago Woman's club in the new clubhouse at 72 East 11th street.

MENDOTA PASTOR TO TRIAL TODAY FOR SHOOTING 2

Congregation Raises Fund to Defend Him.

Ottawa, Ill., April 20.—(AP)—The state is ready to go to trial tomorrow in the case of the Rev. James A. Wilson of Mendota, Ill., Methodist minister charged with shooting two of his parishoners, prosecution officials announced today.

It was explained, however, that no attorneys have yet entered an appearance for Wilson, although J. E. McNemar of Peoria, Ill., former state's attorney of Peoria county, announced last night that Wilson's congregation had raised a defense fund and retained him to defend the minister. Arthur Harris of Dixon, Ill., also was said to be engaged for the defense. McNemar also said that he is ready to go to trial when the case is called tomorrow in La Salle county Circuit court here.

Wilson is charged with the shooting Jan. 29 of Amos Elliott, his church's janitor, and Mrs. Elliott. Elliott was severly wounded and the woman slightly. They had obtained a letter the minister had written to Mrs. Emma Wagner, a widow and a church member, and the minister had gone to their home to recover it. In the quarrel that marked his visit, police said at the time, Wilson drew a pistol and shot the man and wife. Then he went home and tried to kill himself, but inflicted only minor wounds.

Wilson was unable to raise the $30,000 bail required of him and has been in the La Salle county jail here since. McNemar said the defense will be based on the assertion that the Elliotts had injured the minister's reputation in his church by showing the letter to its members.

Anna (Ill.) Bank Cashier Confesses $70,000 Forgery

Anna, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—C. R. Ford, 32, cashier Anna State and Trust bank, has confessed to forging names of depositors to $70,000 in notes. The shortage was discovered by a St. Louis correspondent bank and was attributed to Ford's losses in the stock market over a period of three years. Ford is a former president of the chamber of commerce.

6 GUNMEN GET $4,000 IN HOLDUP OF TAXI GARAGE

Six gunmen, one of them carrying a sawed-off shotgun, threatened twelve taxicab drivers in a Yellow Cab company garage at 731 West Adams street yesterday and stole a cash box containing $4,000 from the office safe. They escaped in an automobile as Matthew Kurtz, the cashier, fired one shot after them.

The gunmen entered through the entrance used by drivers on Quincy street just as the drivers were changing shifts. Five of the bandits rounded up the drivers and lined them against a wall, while the sixth ordered Kurtz to admit him to the cashier's cage, where he opened the door of the unlocked safe and took the cash box without bothering to remove the cash from it.

As the men fled, Kurtz took a pistol from a drawer and fired a shot at them. He told the police one of them may have been wounded.

REED GIVES RARE MILTON BOOK TO POET'S COTTAGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 20.—Senator David A. Reed of the American naval delegation has presented England with a copy of a rare first edition of Milton's "Paradise Lost" to be placed in Milton's cottage at Chalfont St. Giles, Bucks, according to an announcement of Prime Minister MacDonald tonight.

"I recently had the opportunity to take Senator Reed round Milton's cottage and he inquired whether there was in the cottage a copy of 'Paradise Lost,'" Mr. MacDonald said. "As there was no such copy he has sent one."

Senator Reed is one of the best known of American book colectors. The book which he has donated to Milton's cottage is considered to be worth nearly $5,000 by London book dealers.

DOCTORS FIGHT NARCOTIC BILL AS BLOW AT LIBERTY

Warn It's Just Another Bureaucratic Move.

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—Unless unexpected opposition develops in the senate, another new bureau to administer and enforce criminal laws—a bureau of narcotics—will be added by the present congress to Washington's rapidly growing system of bureaucracy.

Creation of the proposed bureau out of the present bureau of prohibition in the treasury department is provided for under a bill introduced by Representative Stephen G. Porter [Rep., Pa.]. It was passed by the house after a brief discussion on April 7 and now is pending in the senate. This measure is H. R. 11143. Mr. Porter also has introduced another anti-drug measure, H. R. 9054, which if enacted would make the proposed new commissioner of narcotics, or the commissioner of prohibition if H. R. 11143 should not be enacted, a virtual czar over the legitimate drug traffic.

Set Up License System.

H. R. 9054 is pending in the house foreign relations committee of which Mr. Porter is chairman. It was sent to that committee because it purports to carry out the provisions of the international convention for the suppression of the abuse of opium and other drugs signed at The Hague Jan. 23, 1912.

H. R. 9054 sets up a license system, forbidding a physician or drug agency to dispense narcotics without a license issued by the commissioner. A license would be withheld or revoked "if it is shown to the satisfaction of the commissioner that the applicant or licensee is a drug addict or has been convicted of any state or federal anti-narcotic law." It sets a penalty of $5,000 fine, two years imprisonment, or both.

The principal argument put forward by the supporters of the Porter bureau bill is that there is no relation between prohibition and narcotic drug addiction and that an independent bureau will be more effective. A similar theory was advanced when the prohibition bureau was carved out of the internal revenue bureau.

Confusion Develops in House.

Confusion developed in the house, however, over the attitude of the American Medical association toward H. R. 11143 which, it was brought out in the debate, never received the association's official endorsement.

The American Medical Journal, the organ of the American Medical association, in an editorial printed Feb. 8, attacked the "Porter bills" as being "in complete harmony with the prevailing tendency to substitute a powerful bureaucracy in Washington for the authority of the states, adding, "If the Porter bills become law a physician, dentist, veterinarian, or pharmacist authorized by a state to practice his profession cannot use narcotics in connection with his work until a Washington bureau chief, under rules and regulations of his own ruling, says that he may. Autocrats of such a type have no place in the scheme of American government."

Mr. Porter told the house members that there was a "misunderstanding" with the association and that the editorial referred to H. R. 9054. He quoted Dr. W. C. Woodward, legislative counsel for the American Medical association and also representing the Illinois and Chicago medical societies, as saying that "this bill [H. R. 11143] appeared to me personally as not being a bill that would interfere with the physicians."

In reply to a direct question, however, Porter said that he had no report of action on H. R. 11143 by the American Medical association board of trustees. Nevertheless, his explanation apparently convinced the skeptical members that the association was satisfied with the bill and it passed the house without a record vote.

The two Porter bills represent the latest and among the most far reaching of a series of efforts by the federal government to cure the dope evil by passing laws.

FIGURES SHOW BIG DECLINE IN DEATHS FROM PNEUMONIA

Details of the decisive drop in the number of cases and deaths from pneumonia and influenza in Chicago during the first quarter of 1930, announced by the health department on Saturday, were released yesterday. The statistics indicate that not only was the decrease marked over the preceding quarters of 1929, but that a drop was registered considerably below the average for these diseases during the last five years, on the basis of the first three months each year.

Comparisons of the totals for these quarters show:

Totals for quarter.	—Pneumonia— Cases.	Deaths.	—Influenza— Cases.	Deaths.
1925	3,943	1,211	703	136
1926	5,162	1,560	1,545	210
1927	2,907	1,019	437	140
1928	3,786	1,378	348	111
1929	3,196	1,268	731	260
Totals	19,084	6,436	3,764	857
5 yr. average	3,816	1,287	753	171
1930	2,764	1,024	154	98

From these figures it is apparent that 432 fewer cases of pneumonia were registered in the first three months of 1930 than in the same period of 1929, with 244 fewer deaths, and that influenza was reduced by 577 cases and 162 deaths in the same period.

The pneumonia record, compared with the average obtained over the last five years, shows 1,052 fewer cases for the first quarter of 1930, with 263 fewer deaths from the disease, and the influenza figures show a corresponding drop of 599 cases and 73 deaths below the five year average.

Shoot Officers, Surrender After Five Hour Battle

Galesburg, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—After shooting two peace officers and barricading themselves in their residence in Maquon, Ill., for over five hours, Lonnie Lawrence, 22, and his brother Leslie, 18, wanted for alleged thefts in Elmwood, surrendered to Deputy Sheriff Louis A. Wilson. The wounded men are Deputy Sheriff Henry Clasen of Galesburg and Constable Russell Fuller of Elmwood. Walter Groom, a third alleged member of the gang, is held at Maquon.

GOOD WILL MEN TO VISIT DALLAS AND WACO TODAY

Chicagoans Enjoy Easter in San Antonio.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., April 20.—[Special.]—Left largely to their own devices, Chicago's good will delegates to the southwest spent Easter day in a variety of enjoyments. Tonight they embark for Waco and Dallas, tomorrow's stops on the fourteen day tour.

Although offered the opportunity to travel 125 miles due south to Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, just across the international border, the thirty-four business men chose to spend their second day in San Antonio in a closer inspection of this half Mexican, half American city.

Rising to the pealing of the chimes on Old San Fernando cathedral, historically associated with the Alamo, some of the tourists attended Easter mass there. Hundreds of shawled Mexican women, brilliant in their varicolored costumes, filled the church plaza.

City Will Have Fiesta.

Anticipating the San Jacinto fiesta, celebrated in memory of the famous battle of 1836, the city has taken on a carnival aspect. The fiesta opens tomorrow and continues until Saturday.

Since no official functions were planned for the Chicago party, it was at liberty to roam at will. After the Easter services some watched the egg rolling contest in one of the public parks, where more than 500 children searched for eggs and frolicked after the custom inaugurated at the White House.

Visit United States Airports.

Others took cars to the outskirts of San Antonio and visited the old Spanish missions or went to the four government airports or to Fort Sam Houston, largest military post in the country.

Gov. Dan Moody promised Texas' support to the 1933 Chicago World's Fair when interviewed today by Charles S. Peterson, Chicago city treasurer and exposition vice president, who is touring the southwest with the Chicago Association of Commerce group. Mr. Peterson went to Austin from San Antonio and telegraphed word of his success after conferring with the governor.

For a week the party has visited cities in Arkansas, Louisiana, and Texas and will now bear north through Oklahoma, Kansas, and Missouri before the arrival in Chicago next Sunday morning.

Zep to Visit England; Will Pick Up Dr. Hugo Eckener

BERLIN, April 20.—The Graf Zeppelin will pay an official visit to London on Saturday. It will land at Cardington to pick up Dr. Hugo Eckener, who is returning from America, to fly him back to Friedrichshafen.

26,000 YELL FOR KING IN MADRID AT NEW BULL RING

MADRID, April 20.—(AP)—Monarchial supporters braved disagreeable weather with enthusiasm today when thousands flocked to the new bull ring here to demonstrate their loyalty to the king. The bull ring, seating 26,000 was jammed. Many thousands more stood in the arena. The streets in the vicinity bore many conspicuous signs saying "Long live the king," "Long live Spain." Civilian guards and police were stationed near the bull ring in force to prevent disorders.

Jose Gutierrez Rave, one of the meeting's organizers, in a speech said King Alfonso had been the victim of unfair attacks. He described the ruler as sympathetic toward all his subjects, popular abroad, and "more Spanish than all other Spaniards."

Morillo Deza, labor representative, said a great proportion of Spain's workers want the monarchy to continue. Marques Santa Cruz spoke on behalf of the nobility. A few spasmodic shouts for the republic were hissed, and their authors roughly handled when they could be captured. King Alfonso was not present. He is spending holy week in Seville.

Textile Union Members Arrested in Tennessee

Elizabethton, Tenn., April 20.—(AP)—Six members of a textile union were arrested here today on a charge of conspiracy to take life and destroy property. Three men, including the president of a textile union local, were arrested Saturday night on the same charges, a result of the seizure of some dynamite from four boys.

FOR CONSTIPATION

Even "dyed-in-the-wool" oil engineers get a thrill out of this test . . .

OBSERVING the oil cleaning experiment which proves that New Iso-Vis does not "break down" in the automobile crankcase.

The used oil is poured through a special filter. The filter removes the crankcase dirt and the oil itself is exactly the same as when freshly distilled.

IT IS A SIMPLE experiment, but the dramatic results excite even oil experts.

A quart of "used" Iso-Vis is drained from a car driven many hundreds of miles. It is black with the road dust and dirt that always accumulate in the crankcase.

Five minutes later we have a quart of oil that might have come straight from the refinery. It has the clear amber color. The same heavy body. You could put it in your car and drive half across the continent.

It is exactly the same quart of oil that was just taken from the crankcase!

What has happened?

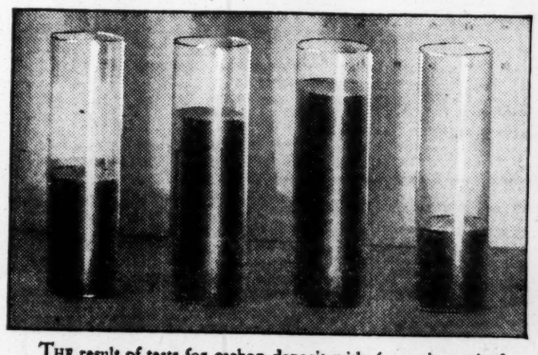
What has happened in the laboratory is simply that a quart of used Iso-Vis has been put through a special filter which has removed dust and dirt.

What has happened to the oil is that we have finally perfected a lubricant that does not change character in the crankcase—does not "thin out" or break down.

This advance is one of far-reaching importance in operating your car. It means better lubrication from the time you put this new type oil in the crankcase until you drain it off. It means less wear on moving parts and a longer average life for the automobile engine.

New Iso-Vis has other important advantages. It brings a radical reduction of carbon deposit. And it gives lubrication over a wider range of temperatures than any oil we have yet tested.

New Iso-Vis is on sale at all Standard Oil dealers and service stations.



THE result of tests for carbon deposit with 4 premium-priced oils. Carbon from New Iso-Vis is shown at extreme right. All 4 oils ran for 50 hours in the same motor under similar conditions.

LITERALLY hundreds of thousands of miles of road tests were made with this new oil before it was pronounced ready for the public.

SPIDER WEB

By ALICE CAMPBELL

SYNOPSIS.

Catherine Wort of Boston, on her way to Paris, meets Geoffrey Macadam in the Havre de Paris train. Macadam is an Englishman who lives in Paris. Catherine tells him that she is going to visit her cousin's widow, Mme. Belmont Bender. She is a little apprehensive about the coming visit because she had received, just before sailing, a letter from Germaine Cushing, who tells her that Mme. Bender is far from well. Macadam is a lawyer and tells Catherine that his firm handles Mme. Bender's affairs, but he doesn't know the widow very well. He had heard that she was ill. Arrived in Paris, Catherine is a little disappointed when her cousin's chauffeur is not at the station to meet her. Geoffrey sees her into a taxi, giving her his address and telephone number. He tells her that he will call to inquire to know how things are at the Bender apartment and she promises to call him. Arrived at Mme. Bender's apartment, she is treated coldly by the servants and Jeanne, Mme. Bender's maid, suggests that she go to a hotel. Catherine insists on staying in the apartment as she is suspicious of the servants. Jeanne tells her that Mme. Bender attempted to commit suicide the night before. The next morning Catherine goes in to see Germaine Bender, who is pathetically glad to see her. She tells Catherine how she had taken poison by mistake.

Geoffrey invites Catherine to dine with him and it is a relief for her to get out of the apartment and to tell him of her vague fears. He is disturbed, too. Geoffrey escorts her back to the apartment.

INSTALLMENT XIX.

A FLIMSY PRETEXT.

Geoffrey pushed and tugged and manipulated, but the door refused to budge. Minutes went by with no result. At length, red in the face with effort and chagrin, he straightened up and shrugged his shoulders.

"No doubt about it," he declared shortly. "Some one has drawn the bolt. Damned careless—if you'll forgive the language. I suppose we'll have to ring."

"O, don't! I'm so afraid of waking Mme. Bender," said Catherine.

"There's nothing else to do. She won't hear, though, as it probably sounds in the kitchen."

He pressed his finger to the button and they waited expectantly. Within was unbroken silence.

"They must be sleeping very soundly. Try again."

There was a second interval of prolonged waiting. Far away, at the back of the apartment, sounded a faint, persistent ringing.

"Who sleeps on this floor?" Geoffrey inquired, frowning.

"Only Eduardo and Jeanne. The cook moved today up to the top floor."

"Well, either those two can't hear or they won't. Anyhow, you can't spend the night out here. I'm going to let go with the knocker," and before she could protest he had laid hold of the wrought iron handle and hammered resoundingly.

Somewhere in the interior a door opened and a padded footfall approached, barely audible. Some one was at last astir. Yet even now there was a long delay. The steps paused, retreated, and then, exchanging questioning glances, Catherine and Geoffrey fancied they caught the murmur of whispering voices, sibilant and cautious. Finally, after protracted silence, there fell on their ears the stealthy grate of a bolt withdrawn.

The next instant the door cracked open, and silhouetted against a rectangle of light the stocky figure of the Portuguese appeared, clad in an overcoat buttoned to the chin. From beneath bristling hair his small, animal-like eyes glowered at them suspiciously.

"O, it's you, miss," he mumbled with a touch of insolent surprise. "I took it you were in hours ago."

It was a flimsy pretext to cover his own thoughtlessness, or so it seemed to Catherine. Her eyes flashed at his rude tone, but she made no reply. Her escort, on the contrary, accosted the butler in a peremptory manner.

"Another time, please be sure before you put the bolt on. It's only by chance that mademoiselle hasn't had to wait out here a quarter of an hour by herself."

The man said nothing, but as he stared impudently first at the speaker, then at Catherine, his lips curled in an unmistakable sneer. Geoffrey's blood boiled at the unuttered insinuation, and even the girl, without understanding its import, felt indignation swell within her.

"You needn't wait, Eduardo," she coldly informed him. "I'll put out the lights."

Without replying he shuffled off, hitching his coat collar higher round his thick bull neck.

"See here, I don't care for that fellow's manner," whispered Geoffrey as he took her hand. "Are you sure you don't mind——"

"I'm not a bit upset over him," she returned scornfully. "You see, though, that I didn't exaggerate about the deterioration in him. It's as if the veneer had come off. Never mind—good night, and thank you for a marvelous evening."

For a second he retained her slender hand, reluctant to let it go. However, his expression remained studiously matter-of-fact, betraying no hint of his inward feelings.

"Let me know if that brute gives you any trouble," he said at parting. "I shall hope to see you again soon, at all events."

Glancing at his watch on the way down he found it was just after one o'clock. That meant they had spent half an hour outside that infernal door. His wrath rose anew as he recalled the insolence of the butler, whom he would have liked to throttle.

"Cordon!"

The concierge had gone to sleep in the interval, and no wonder

"Cordon!" he called more loudly.

An irate voice, heavy with sleep, issued from within the loge.

"Who are you, going out at this hour? What are you up to coming in with a woman and remaining with her all this time? I'll have you to know this is not the way to conduct yourself in a respectable house."

Geoffrey's anger shot up like a flame.

"Hold your foul tongue, you filthy camel, and open that door before I lay hands on you!" he shouted, furious with rage.

More abusive wrangling followed, epithets in choice argot hurled on both sides. Not for the first time did Geoffrey rejoice in his command of Gallic profanity. Finally, with a last imprecation, the unseen porter pulled the cord and the door swung open.

Stupid to lose one's temper with a concierge. It was like beating one's head against a wall. Still it was impossible not to be infuriated by the man's insinuations. Rain was falling, but he did not feel the drops as with rapid strides he crossed to the car and started the engine.

"The swine!" he muttered as the Citroen purred along wet streets towards the Seine. "So he, too, had that idea in his putrid mind! I shouldn't have got so wild if it had been another sort of girl. But Catherine!

Already in his thoughts he was calling her by her first name.

Alone in the hall, Catherine stood for a moment, her palm still tingling with the recent hard pressure. Circumstances had combined to rouse in her a fluttering emotion—uncertainty as to why she had been shut out, the interval on the dim landing with its faint suggestion of intimate rapprochement, and last, the butler's peculiarly offensive manner. Her heart beat with strong strokes.

Why indeed had Eduardo stared at them like that? There had been something almost insulting about it. If only Germaine could realize what his behavior was like now, how quickly she would dismiss him! Not that she was likely to find out. One would have expected, though, that Jeanne herself would have kept him in order, since she was the managing sort.

She tiptoed towards her distant room. Then as she switched on the light in the passage, she spied, at the top of the staircase before mentioned, a limp, dark object lying. Picking it up she discovered it to be a man's glove. A glove—but of an unfamiliar sort, made of black, stuffy fabric. Who on earth wore things like that? She stared at it curiously. Somewhere, not so long ago, she had seen a man with gloves resembling this, but for the moment she could not say who it was. Certainly no one she knew. There was something rather horrid about it. With slight distaste she replaced it on the spot where it had lain before.

As she did this she noticed a little lower down the stairs, a small heap of acrid cigar ashes, and nearby the muddy imprint of a square-toed boot, plainly marked on the pale gray carpet.

Good Morning:

This is a mildly engaging program offering distinguished by capable acting, some humor, able enough direction, and staging and sound effects that please. It is based on the comedy "I Love You," by William Le Baron, and is frothy and comparatively funful.

You will discover Richard Dix as an electrician with a college education. On business bent he enters the ritzy home of Jimmy Farnsworth, bachelor, where some bored society folks are endeavoring to amuse themselves. A bet is made between two of the men. One of them holds that any man and woman, given the proper environment and enough chance to be alone together, would fall in love. The other says NO. And so the wager.

Who shall be the man chosen at random? Well—there is the electrician busily at work. The girl? A limp blonde who is a guest in the house. Peter Darby, electrician, knows of the bet. The girl does not, and it so happens that she is enamored of the butler, who, like Peter Darby, is a college man, and reads Swinburne—I think it's Swinburne—like nobody's business.

Result of bet? Serio-comic comedy of errors.

"Lovin' the Ladies" is light—O, very light!—but it's amusing and whiles away an hour pleasantly enough.

"White Cargo," British made, and said by those who saw the play (I did not) to be a photographic copy of the original, manages to impress you with the fact that the western coast of Africa, known as "the gold coast," is very, very hot, and that this moist heat is hard on men, trees and lace curtains. Bright, snappy young Englishmen who come bounding over to work on the rubber plantation which is the locale of the story's action succumb, one after the other, to the "damp rot" and are sent home on stretchers. A liver-plagued superintendent; a whisky guzzling doctor and a missionary manage to stick it out, fortified by the three months apart visits of the mail boat—which usually brings—and takes away a B. S. Y. E. (White Cargo).

While all the players—especially the late Leslie Faber who plays Weston—are able enough, they don't seem to know much about the microphone. Direction is stereotyped and the story unfolds inertly and with no imagination. There's just one flash of surprise at the end—and for this you are duly grateful.

See you tomorrow.

Carnegie Foundation Head Attacks War Pensions of the U. S.

New York, April 20.—(AP)—Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, in a bulletin on "The Social Philosophy of Pensions," issued today charged congress with weakness in meeting the efforts of veterans' associations "to force tribute" from the government in the form of pensions.

"Any pension system under which the beneficiary is provided with an old age annuity without cost or participation by himself," Dr. Prichett said, "is, in the long run, demoralizing to any group of men, however high minded."

The bulletin also criticized the pension system of several Protestant churches for their "faulty social conceptions." Among such systems, only that of the Congregational church was credited with "a sound contractual system of annuities."

This statement, however, today brought a strong denial from Bishop Emeritus William Lawrence, president of the Protestant Episcopal church pension fund.

Moon Valley May Balk Photo of Sun Eclipse

Scientist Explains Trouble Due on April 28.

Cambridge, Mass., April 20.—(AP)—Of all the gambling chances taken by American astronomers to photograph a sun's eclipse, the biggest one comes a week hence.

This time a joker—some valleys a mile deep on the edge of the moon—is added to the usual uncertainties likely to spoil sight of an eclipse after thousands of dollars have been spent in preparation. The eclipse, which will sweep over the far west about noon Monday, April 28, is of a rare kind.

It is exceedingly small, a black shadow, round as a dollar, only half a mile across, traveling nearly 1,600 miles an hour, its total land path about 1,000 miles, from just north of San Francisco to the Montana state line—at best a tiny target to shoot at through the usual cloud barrages. It lasts barely more than one second at one place.

In addition, its exact position is in doubt, due to infinitesimal uncertainties about motions of sun, moon and earth, such as the occasional alteration of the length of a day by one-three hundredth of a second. Hence astronomers are setting up their cameras in a wide belt, hoping that one will catch the single black second at its center.

But the valleys of the moon may undo all this preparation. The authorities for this are Dr. Ernest W. Brown of Yale, president of the American Astronomical society, and Dr. W. J. Fisher of Harvard astronomical observatory.

This eclipse is tiny because the moon just barely covers the sun's face. If a mile deep valley happens to lie exactly on the edge of the moon—called by astronomers the moon's limb—light shining earthward through this trough, Dr. Brown says, is likely to interfere with the expected half mile wide shadow. He says in the official scientific publication, Science, that "it may result in a complete absence of totality anywhere."

"We have plenty of evidence," he says, "of valleys on the limb of the moon a mile or more deep and of mountains, even higher than this amount. But our knowledge of their exact position at the time of the eclipse is not sufficient to enable us to use it for a prediction."

The eclipse will be visible throughout the United States.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

The Answers.

A. C. Chemasco, 6135 South Rockwell street, bank teller—Jazz music has its place and I like it as a part of radio. But I prefer programs containing old time tunes. Dance music is lacking in variety. Well known songs and orchestra numbers afford the contrast to keep the loudspeaker from being monotonous.

Mrs. Charles Heckenlively, 7718 South Shore drive, housewife—I enjoy jazz. I believe people are becoming educated to jazz music. It is on a higher plane than it used to be. I think that some day there will be such a thing as classical jazz.

George B. Bosco, 2329 Touhy avenue, building superintendent—I am not interested in jazz music, and, to be honest, I never was. I attend Chicago Symphony orchestra concerts and recitals by the leading artists. The radio concerts I enjoy best are those patterned along the lines of the concert platform.

Mrs. Lorene Stone, 4858 North Hermitage avenue, saleswoman—Dance music is all right, but I am not keen about it. I believe I enjoy best of all the songs of the better class, such as those that are popular now and will last for years. Jazz is just a passing fad.

Jack Masley, 4135 Ellis avenue, biller—I like jazz music when I am in the mood for it. The broadcasts of sporting events are what I like. When I can find a sports event on the air I will listen to nothing else. My preference for musical entertainment is a male quartet.

"A WONDERFUL NIGHT."

Other Easter premières were: "The Little Show," at the Selwyn; "Mebbe," at the Erlanger; "Many a Slip," at the Cort; "The Merry Widow," at the Majestic, and "The Time, the Place, and the Girl," at the Harris. These productions will be reviewed later.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THIS may be "Die Fledermaus," as the program confesses, eighty-three years old and a weather-beaten warhorse of the opera repertories, but it is also a happy novelty deserving a new title and the brisk applause of play goers eager for the latest thing from New York. The audience which assembled at the Grand Opera house on the eve of Easter found "A Wonderful Night" too gay, spirited, and modern in its point of view to call it a revival. If there were any archæologists present, they forgot about dates and abandoned reminiscences. The background of the piece became unimportant; the charm of its presentation was the vital matter.

This is light opera where it belongs—in a theater, with every possible technical device brought into play to make it a show rather than a musical ritual. Taken as a whole, with its smart and handsome costumes faithfully in the period; its excellent singing and effective acting; its frolic of dancing and easy bubbling of humor; and its ingenious revolving stage which keeps the story flowing steadily through numerous scenes, "A Wonderful Night" is the best production of light opera that has come to the Chicago stage for many seasons. It gives the Chicago Opera company's adventure into the same field, which is about to open at the Civic theater, something to shoot at.

The revolving stage, which permits "A Wonderful Night" to scamper through a libretto patterned closely after the episodic French farce that was the source of "Die Fledermaus" ["Reveillon," by Meilhac and Halevy], was the hero of this première. It is new to us—or rather it is a fresh variant upon a trick of stage engineering not often used. And it is worth whatever mechanical agonies its installation requires.

This apparatus converts the stage into a veritable merry-go-round. Whenever a change of locale is required the turntable swings through the segment of a circle, and behold, a new scene, achieved without dropping the curtain. The players exit and enter without disappearing from view. Transitional settings, mere nooks and angles of the contraption, break the time interval between the change from one full stage setting to another.

Well, while the stage revolved, taking us on a travelogue through the gay spots of old Vienna—from café to salon; from villa to ballroom; from a roulette hall to a jail—we watched with amusement the farcical plot unravel certain complications in the menage of philandering Max and jealous Rosalind, and we listened with pleasure to the suave and jaunty music of the Viennese waltz king. Johann Strauss had a way with light music that has carried happily over almost a century, and when he composed "Die Fledermaus" he was in fine form. Here and there in the score are brief stretches of uninspired beer-hall stuff; but most of this composition comes gallantly to life. The spirit of Vienna when it was the gayest capital of Europe is in Strauss' music, and his many imitators and successors have not succeeded in dimming its spontaneous charm.

The performance is admirable in every rôle; and the lyrics are sung with crisp diction which conveys the meanings of the songs. This is opera in English, if you please, and you can understand every word of it.

Gladys Baxter again proves herself one of the best of our singing girls as the prima donna. Archie Leach is picturesque and whimsical as the frisky husband. Mary McCoy comes through with a clean cut hit, in song and soubrettish bounce, as the maid. Harold Conkling characterizes the bored Russian prince neatly Bartlett Simmons meets all the demands of the Hungarian tenor; Joseph Lertora is a neat intriguer, and Hal Forde and Harry Welsh supply the low comedy with relish. The latter has studied the methods of Leon Erroll, in drunken gymnastics, with good results; but as a German clown he rolls his own mirth.

Rain Hinders Easter Parade; Society Rides

Churches of Many Sects Here Are Crowded.

BY MILDRED JAKLON.

Society people went to church yesterday, and many of them wore spring finery, but by no stretch of the imagination could it be said that there was an Easter parade.

The unremittent drizzle discouraged many owners of fashionable new clothes from promenading down Lake Shore drive, and the capricious weather for the third year in succession swindled Chicago out of one of its most interesting annual spectacles.

The north side churches, St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church, the Fourth Presbyterian, Holy Name cathedral, and St. James' cathedral were crowded with parishioners, but they traversed the avenues in motors instead of by foot before and after church, and the drive, which on a fair Easter Sunday is a bright procession of promenaders glistened wetly in complete and dismal desertion.

Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick was among the very few paraders seen at the noon hour. She emerged from her residence shortly before the churches let out, and with Edwin Krenn strolled about six blocks south on Michigan avenue. Mrs. McCormick wore the black broadcloth coat, trimmed with wide bands of Persian lamb, that she has appeared in frequently lately, and a black off the face hat. Mr. Krenn was top hatted, with a blue overcoat over his morning suit, and he carried a cane. Each of them bore aloft an umbrella, and they made their way in leisurely fashion, gazing in at the shop windows as they passed.

The much heralded new trends in fashion were apparent in the feminine costumes, even if the opportunity to see them was limited. The cape coats are in great favor, and the most popular material seems to be Oxford cloth in gray, tan, or blue. The spring hats are in the various modish straws, baku, ballibunti, panamalaque, and the several kinds of lace and woven straws. Black retains its popularity, and the fox scarf is still the chosen concomitant for suits and untrimmed coats. The representation of shoulder bouquets was large, with most of the smartest women wearing sprays of creamy gardenias, and a few, orchids.

Fashionable parishioners began to arrive at St. Chrysostom's church long before the carillon chimes pealed forth their summons to the 11 o'clock service. Mrs. John R. Winterbotham and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Winterbotham Jr., were among the early arrivals. The junior Mrs. Winterbotham wore a smart coat of brown covert cloth with the prevailing shoulder cape, a snug fitting beret of brown woven straw and low heeled brown suede pumps.

Col. and Mrs. Albert A. A. Sprague and their daughter wore conventional Easter attire, the colonel in top hat and frock coat, Mrs. Sprague in a navy blue cloth coat and bright blue straw hat, and Miss Laura Sprague in a high waisted black coat and red felt hat.

Others who ventured out in spring ensembles were Mrs. Aldis Brown, who wore a tweed suit of a yellow and brown mixture and a tan hat; Mrs. John J. Finley, in a black coat with a deep cape collar, a wide brimmed black baku hat and a gardenia corsage, and Miss Rosemary Baur, in a bright orange three-quarter length coat, a sable scarf and tan beret. Her mother, Mrs. Jacob Baur, wore a black suit, a silver fox neckpiece, and a black and white straw hat.

The Bryan S. Reid's children, Bryan Jr., Joan and Margaret, drove to St. Chrysostom's with their parents and waved a prolonged goodbye as Mr. and Mrs. Reid entered the church. Mrs. Reid wore a black broadcloth coat and black felt hat. Mrs. William H. Scriven and her daughter, Miss Betty Scriven, were escorted by Henry Brunner. Mrs. Scriven was in black, and Miss Betty wore a yellow and black printed velvet coat with a tan hat and an orchid shoulder bouquet.

Charity Events Mark Week's Social Affairs

BY THALIA

With Lent and Easter past the spring social activities take a new lease on life. The calendar for the next few weeks is well sprinkled with various charity events, and there will be a large number of fashionable weddings as well.

This week's events include the White Elephant rummage tea on Tuesday afternoon at the Casino, the Sunbeam league's annual benefit card party at the Stevens the same day, and the Century of Progress banquet the Association of Arts and Industries is sponsoring that evening. The Romany club is having its annual party, a gypsy evening, at the Opera club on Friday evening. The Tavern is having its entertainment, "April Foolories," at the Goodman theater on Monday night, April 28.

The Lower North Community council's yearly benefit party is to be a dinner dance on Saturday evening, May 3, at the Bal Tabarin, and the seventh annual benefit for Madonna center is also a dinner dance, to take place the same evening at the Stevens hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Breckenridge Templeton of Hinsdale announce the engagement of their daughter, Adele Bassett, to Kenneth Robinson Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Parker of Pawtucket, R. I. Miss Templeton attended the National Cathedral and Ogontz schools, and Mr. Parker was graduated from Dartmouth in 1925.

The marriage of Mrs. Latimer Goodrich of 2618 Lake View avenue to Dr. Grant Harrison Laing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Havelock Laing of Iron Mountain, Mich., is to take place on Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Goodrich's aunt, Mrs. William Godfrey Sage of 115 Bellevue place. Only relatives of the bride and groom are to attend the ceremony, which is to be read by the Rev. John Timothy Stone. The bride's young niece, Barbara Emerson, daughter of the Arthur Henry Emersons of Highland Park, is to be her only attendant, and Dr. Laing's brother, Donald Reed Laing, is to be his best man. Dr. Laing and his bride are to leave after the wedding for a three months' wedding trip in Europe, and are to reside in Chicago thereafter.

Mr. and Mrs. Fairbanks Carpenter returned on Friday from their European wedding trip and are staying with Mrs. Carpenter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Farnsworth of 1448 Astor street, for a week or so until their apartment at 942 Lake Shore drive is ready for them.

Dempster McMurphy and Ralph D. Stevenson of 210 East Walton place are to sail on May 3 for a European trip.

Miss Edith Rosenfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris S. Rosenfield of the Lake Shore Drive hotel, sailed on the Ile de France for Paris, where she is to visit Mrs. Norman Hutchinson. Later they are to make a motor trip to Italy before going to Le Touquet for the summer.

Mrs. Russell H. Stafford [Cora Howland] of Lake Forest has returned from a month's visit with her mother, Mrs. George Carter Howland, in Charleston, S. C.

Mrs. John A. Vincent of 209 Chestnut street has also been in Charleston, which is really her home town. Mr. Vincent motored there to fetch her back to Chicago recently.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Thompson Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Mark W. Trude, Mrs. Hollis E. Potter, and Mr. and Mrs. Chancellor Dougall were among the Chicagoans who spent the Easter week-end at French Lick Springs, Ind.

SOME EASTER PARTIES

Festivities attendant on Easter yesterday necessarily were focused about the family hearth or dinner table, with a profusion of colored Easter eggs and masses of Easter lilies, hyacinths, and other spring flowers to add fragrance and radiance to the observance in the majority of homes. Guests at the Drake hotel, however, had the unique experience of having church come to them, instead of having to go to church. The chef had concocted a cathedral of candy, in which was installed the radio loud speaker that brought the religious services to the lounge and lobby of the hotel.

The gentle rain, although persistent, did not spoil the day for the children invited to attend the customary Easter party at the home of Albert Wahl III, 1129 Loyola avenue, held yesterday for the twenty-seventh consecutive year. Eggs inscribed with the name of each child invited were hidden about the premises, to the number of 500. Some of the small guests were children of those who attended the earliest of the parties.

At the Chicago Home for the Friendless, 5059 Vincennes avenue, there was a distribution of Easter baskets yesterday afternoon. School teachers of the city brought the baskets to the institution and helped distribute them.

ing blouse and hat. Miss Jean Stevens in a bright blue coat trimmed in black galyak and black felt hat, and Miss Barbara King in a strawberry colored covert cloth and a black off the face panamalaque hat, were among the tardy arrivals.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Newton Perry, the latter in a black coat with a shoulder spray of gardenias and a black felt hat, were accompanied by their young son, Brewster Perry. With Robert F. Carr were his mother, Mrs. Emily Carr, his niece, Miss Barbara Baker, and Harry W. Chase, new president of the University of Illinois.

Frederick T. West and his son, Mahlon Ogden West, were two of the most imposing masculine church goers, both wearing top hats, morning suits, and black topcoats.

Others who attended St. Chrysostom's include Mr. and Mrs. Hollister Sturges, the latter in a black coat with a silver fox fur and orchid corsage; Mrs. Henry Field, in a mink coat, a brown panamalaque hat, and orchid corsage; Mrs. Fletcher Durbin in a black galyak trimmed ensemble with a gardenia shoulder bouquet; Mrs. A. H. Whiting, in black; Miss Dorothy Schmidt, in a black broadcloth coat with an elbow length cape and a close fitting black felt hat; Mrs. Louis C. Sudler in a peacock blue coat with galyak trimming and orchid corsage; Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Reid, the latter in a black caracul coat and matching felt hat; Mrs. Lewis Louer, and Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Eddy.

Mrs. Waller Borden and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Adlai Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Loesch, Miss Helen and Miss Katherine Drake, and Mrs. M. H. Moorehead and her daughter, Miss Dorothy Moorehead, were among those at the Fourth Presbyterian church. Mrs. Stevenson wore a black suit with a silver fox scarf, a black straw hat trimmed in pale blue grosgrain, and a gardenia corsage. Mrs. Moorehead wore a moleskin coat and a close fitting black hat and her daughter a black coat with cape collar and a small straw beret.

Among those in St. James cathedral were Mrs. Hayden Harris and her sub-deb daughter, Miss Valerie Harris. Mrs. Harris wore a suit of blue oxford cloth and a navy blue grosgrain hat, and Miss Harris wore a coat of similar fabric and a lighted blue hat. They each wore shoulder bouquets of orchids.

Mrs. Orville J. Taylor was smart in a black coat with a cape collar trimmed in black galyak, a becoming black ribbon hat, and a medallion of gardenias. Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Dunham Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. George H. Gardner were another Easterish group, with the women in smart black costumes and the men with silk toppers.

Mr. and Mrs. Shreve Badger stepped across the street from the residence of Mrs. Badger's parents, the John H. Winterbothams, and Mrs. Winterbotham followed a few minutes later. Mrs. Badger wore a navy blue suit of twill, with a sheer white blouse with ruffled collar, and a close fitting navy blue ribbon hat. Miss Marjorie Ward, in black, with a boutonniere of orchids, arrived with Robert Baker. Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson had with her her two little girls, Annie Laurie and Mary, who were wearing the latest in juvenile spring suits, little blue ensembles, with blue hats to match. Mrs. Clifford Templeton was a trim figure, also in blue, with an oxford coat with a shoulder cape and a brimmed blue baku hat. Others at St. James included Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, Mrs. Charles H. Conrad, Mrs. Earl L. Hambleton and her daughter, Miss Peggy Hambleton, in black; Mr. and Mrs. William Prescott Hunt, Miss Marie Rozet, Col. and Mrs. Robert G. CITY CROWDS, FILLING CHURCHES, HEAR PLEAS FOR RELIGIOUS LIFE

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Confidence in the Easter message as an evidence of immortal life was sounded in hundreds of crowded churches of this city yesterday.

Roman Catholic devotions centered in Holy Name cathedral. There Cardinal Mundelein celebrated solemn high mass at 11 o'clock yesterday morning.

Desire for immortality formed the background of a sermon preached last night before the Sunday Evening club, Orchestra hall, by the Rev. Dr. E. F. Tittle, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Evanston.

"Belief in immortality is born of the conviction that human capacity in this life is not given sufficient opportunity for development," Dr. Tittle said as he cited the great number of people who either die or are killed in their prime, or are hedged by economic and other limitations, thus hindered from living fruitful lives. People often dare not utter what they believe to be true.

"Jesus told the truth and was put to death for it," Dr. Tittle said, "but truth did not die on the cross. Christ's truth speaks today even more powerfully than it did 19 centuries ago. If you want real assurance of immortal life, then live the kind of a life that deserves it.

"Personality will be conserved when truth and love are involved. For truth and love eventually will triumph in the world."

Hoover Attends Services.

Washington, D. C., April 20.—(AP)—President Hoover sat in his pew of the Irving Street Friends meeting house this morning. The little church was undecorated except by a large vase of Easter lilies before the pulpit. The President joined in services of the Quaker faith. Mrs. Hoover, who wrenched her back a week ago, remained in her room today.

A woman minister, among the seven with the pastor on the platform, spoke briefly on the resurrection. There was a time of meditation, then Dr. Augustus T. Murray portrayed the story of the resurrection, quoting: "He that believeth in me has life."

At first, Dr. Murray said, some of the disciples believed in physical resurrection, then later came the realization that resurrection was beyond corporeal life. "that we are to find him in our own lives and in our own souls." The pastor read from Whittier, to conclude with that poet's lines, "He is his own best evidence, his witness is within."

New Yorkers at Churches.

New York, April 20.—(AP)—With the rising of the sun New York began its celebration of Easter today—a celebration of chants and pageants that stretched from the dingy pavements of the Bowery to the candle-lighted altars of Fifth avenue cathedrals fragrant with incense and the perfume of a thousand lilies.

Thousands of New Yorkers rose to attend out-of-door services on the grounds of Columbia university, New York university, and in Washington square.

With the close of the morning services in the churches the throngs poured on to Fifth avenue for the Easter parade. And here the Bowery's threadbare garments mingled with Park avenue's new spring fashions as Urbain Leboux, known as "Mr. Zero," led about seventy-five of his hobo followers past St. Patrick's cathedral at the parade's height. Some of these latter wore faded silk hats and swallow tail coats.

Tito Schipa's Singing Feature of Sunday's Afternoon Concerts

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It is a good thing to hear as many singers as possible these days, for by so doing one is the better able to appreciate the heavenly tone that comes from Tito Schipa's throat. He was at the Civic Opera house yesterday afternoon giving a benefit recital for the building fund of St. Mary of Nazareth hospital before a large audience who seemed to think the price of tickets well spent, as it was. The cause benefited by their being there, and they benefited by listening to Mr. Schipa.

He was in his best form, which means both that his voice is a delight to the ear and that he is an uncommonly expert singer of songs. Frederick Longas is not only an able accompanist but an able solo pianist, and also a composer of songs, as is Mr. Schipa himself, and in all their manifestations the artists were applauded and applauded again.

The Gordon String quartet closed the Chicago Chamber Music series at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon, playing before the largest audience that this list of concerts has yet attracted. Two Beethoven quartets were played, one the earlier opus 18, number 2, the other the late opus 135, then the organization took to itself the assistance of Rudolph Reuter at the piano for the Franck quintet. It is a superb organization, full toned and expert, and the fact that after this season Mr. Gordon will no longer be a resident of Chicago is going to mean a grave loss to the city's musical affairs.

Sara Levee, a pianist with a distinct talent, gave a Chopin recital at the Civic theater which included the B minor sonata, the A flat ballade, three mazurkas, three etudes, and the Andante Spianato and Polonaise. It was an ambitious program, but Miss Levee is an ambitious player with ideas of her own and the technic with which to express them. There were times when it seemed as though she was trying to express them somewhat too vigorously, but this, if it is a fault, is a fault on the right side.

Over at the Studebaker Princess Agreneva-Slaviansky and her melodious Royal Russian choir had returned for an engagement which will take them through the evenings of this week with Wednesday and Saturday matinées as well. Most of the program was native, but with such additions as "The End of a Perfect Day" and "Ol' Man River," which it becomes somewhat difficult to think of as Russian. But even in accented English they sound curiously persuasive.

Clara Friend, a young pianist—by the way, who said that concerts were coming to an end?—was at the Playhouse. Of evidently careful and sincere training, she made a good effect in works calling for a display of technical dexterity. Her program included the Bach Italian Concerto, the sonata by Beethoven published as opus 53, a Chopin group, and another group of selected composers.

The season of the Chicago People's Symphony orchestra closed yesterday afternoon at the Eight Street theater.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., April 20.—The secretary of agriculture and Mrs. Hyde left this afternoon for West Point to be the guests of Capt. and Mrs. Boyd W. Smith. They were accompanied by their daughter, Miss Caroline Hyde. They will go to New York tomorrow night and return here Wednesday.

Claudius N. Huston, chairman of the national Republican committee, last night announced the engagement of his third daughter, Alice, to Fulton Lewis Jr. The wedding will take place June 28 in the Washington cathedral. The announcement was made at a buffet supper given by Mr. Huston last night at his home. Miss Huston has made no formal debut. Mr. Lewis is descended directly from Col. Fielding Lewis, who is said to have superintended the making of the first guns used in the revolutionary war, and who married Betty Washington, sister of Gen. George Washington. Their home, Kenmore, at Fredericksburg, Va., is now being restored as an American shrine.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Piez of Chicago are spending the Easter season at the Mayflower. Mr. Piez is president of the Mechanical Engineers of America, who had their annual conference here last week. He also is a former chairman of the U. S. shipping board.

Miss Elizabeth Bunting, daughter of Henry S. Bunting of Lake Forest, Ill., and a sophomore at the Holton Arms school here, was awarded the silver medal for achieving second place in the District of Columbia open foil championship fencing contest last night.

Hoarding Dwarfs the Mind and Soul, Says Doris Sagely

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Now is the time for all good women to come to their own aid by inquiring into the question of whether they are turning into hoarders or not.

It seems that "hoarding" is a virtue not consistent with soul or mind growth. In fact, it was recently put on record as being a vice of such peculiarity as to extend beyond the useless bits of ribbon and scraps of fur that are hoarded year after year in boxes and bureau drawers. It gets into the very veins and a general all around stagnation ensues.

Maybe it is not so bad as reported. Anyway, this is the time of year to find out just where you stand as a chronic victim or a potential one. It's housecleaning time. And if you catch yourself muttering over the pieces of wearing apparel that have outgrown their usefulness with you, discarded curtains and drapes and old bedspreads, children's clothing, and all such things that come out of boxes and old trunks for an annual airing: "No, I won't throw this away. It may come in handy some day," look out! The hoarding goblins will get you.

I doubt if we could be charged nationally as hoarders. We are not. The complaint against us is that we have none of the permanent attachment to things upon which sturdy family foundations are built. As per witness the annual throwing away of old husbands for new, and old wives, if you want to be flippant about it. Or else witness the nonchalance with which whole households are uprooted and moved into brand new quarters with each May and October moving day. However, these are nomad tribes of another breed and due for another form of treatment. They are not hoarders.

There is an element, however, given to returning to packing box and storing trunk things that probably never will be used, but which might be useful and welcome [and new] to others.

Some one said recently that "circulation is everything, mentally and physically; it means freedom and relief. One's old clothes, one's old treasures, one's old ideas should circulate, so that air and light can get at them."

Show the Children You're Interested in Their Chatter

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"And so I said, 'O, let's not have the girls play—they're so d-e-l-l-c-a-t-e, and——you're not listening, Mother! Now what did I say—I'll bet you can't tell me—now, what did I say?"

Ouch! You weren't listening. You know you weren't. You were wondering whether you're young looking enough to wear those cunning little short puffed sleeves they're showing on spring and summer dresses. And rack your brains frantically as you will, you can't think what the school tale was about. You're caught—and you even look guilty.

Well, that's not so bad. The fact that he's so accusing when you do slip up shows that usually you're a pretty good listener. The unfortunate thing would be if he didn't even start to talk about it because he knew you wouldn't be interested. That's something to watch out for.

Do your children tell you things—what they're doing, what's happening, what they're thinking? Do you give them your attention when they tell you big or little things—little to you but not to them?

Many aspects of your life may make you preoccupied—work or worry. Perhaps the care of the babies or younger children has proved too interesting or absorbing. Watch out for this! Perhaps at one time you did love to hear what your children or your oldest child had to say—and then something made you unconsciously withdraw this interest.

Try not to let this happen. Be receptive when your children talk to you. Show that you're attentive by answering or asking leading questions.

This becomes a pleasure to you. It establishes a bond between you. It makes you friends with each other. And when they need your help in the things which lie beneath the surface, this assurance of your interest makes it easy—even natural, for them to come to you.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Demonstrating Bread Making.

Not long ago I was told by the husband of a certain young woman how she went visiting, had some delicious home made bread, came home and thought she was going to surprise him and would not allow him in the kitchen until it was finished. Then, it was a failure and she was so unhappy!

As in the case of pie crust, the best way to learn to make bread is to see it done. When some one demonstrates the making of bread thoroughly, a hundred motions are made that no one would like to read a description of, although interested in seeing them done without realizing how many there are.

For instance, two Minnesota girls who were demonstrating the making of a loaf of bread a few years ago, brought out many points like this: They set the measuring cup used squarely on the table so that it would be filled evenly; they tested the liquid by putting a drop of it on the wrist to find whether it was too hot or too cold, although a thermometer would have been better, and they made the statement that five siftings of the flour were equal to two weeks of ageing and that it was the aged flour that made the best bread.

Some of the complaints I have received lately from women trying to make bread might possibly have been answered by telling them to sift the flour a good many times and so use less. The inexperienced breadmaker is likely to use too much flour and by sifting it until full of air the measurement will be different and she will learn to use less. However, these girls, in order to have the measuring of the much sifted flour exast, ran a knife down through it in the cup in order to break any air bubbles. They also explained that in this process of breadmaking a good beating of the batter with only half the flour of the recipe added was equal to one kneading, then they put the second part of the flour into the batter, adding it slowly.

The recipe these girls used for one loaf of bread was: One half cup water, one-half cup milk—the milk scalded and cooled to tepid—about three cups flour, one-half yeast cake, one-fourth cup tepid water for the yeast, two teaspoons sugar, one teaspoon fat, one-fourth teaspoon salt. The scalded milk while hot was poured over the sugar, fat, and salt. The water was added and when the whole was cool enough half the flour was added. Then add the rest slowly to make the dough which was kneaded the more firm and elastic. The kneaded dough was put into a buttered bowl and turned over so that the whole was buttered and then it was set to rise.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Tribune. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned.

Quite a Contretemps.

Although I have often read your Embarrassing Moments column, I believe that none of the experiences, disconcerting as they have been, would have caused me as much embarrassment as an incident which occurred to me last winter. It had rained and then suddenly turned colder, so the sidewalks were covered with a slippery coat of ice. While walking down a street which is inclined at a 10 degree angle I heard several boys behind me call, "Look out, mister, you're going to fall!"

The walk had been used as a sliding place by the boys, and disaster followed my next step. The result was a sudden and ignominious descent onto the sidewalk. I slid feet first for at least five yards when I was stopped by bumping into a dignified looking old gentleman and his rather elderly wife. Of course the impact sent them both sprawling.

The hoots of the youngsters, the laughter of other pedestrians, my discomfiture, and what the old gentleman had to say in no uncertain terms about my "clumsiness" all combined to make that the most embarrassing moment of my life. R. R.

Eyes Tell Tale of Youth; of Good or Bad Health

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It is a curious thing that the eyes of an otherwise faultless appearing woman may look neglected. If they look neglected there is little use dieting, massaging, and spending oodles of money to look young, because the eyes, after all, are a give-away.

If one quarter the concern were given eyes that is given to silhouettes, women would look magnificently younger for their pains. Instead of which women will strain their eyes by reading in a poor light. If they are run down in health, their complexions will cause them more worry than their eyes. Yet, it is the eyes that show the first signs of bad health.

If a woman is running a course of late hours, it is her tired body that gets all the commiseration. I repeat that from the standpoint of fitness the appearance of the eyes is a surer count than any other feature.

In the ordinary course of affairs eyes do not need so much care. They do not have to be watched, for instance, with the eagle chaperonage that attends menus when keeping a figure under control. But they have to get their full quota of rest and consideration, nevertheless.

When lines begin appearing around the corners, or worse, when spare tires camp underneath the eyes, you can be jolly well sure that the eyes are not shining with the brilliance that earns poems or even prose approval.

There is no vanity so utterly vain and senseless as postponing the day of wearing glasses. Adopted early, when they are needed, they may have to be worn only part of the day—for working and reading hours. If the adoption is postponed, however, it is likely that they will eventually have to become a fixed habit.

They will have to be worn morning, afternoon, and evening. That's not the only threat if you delay eye examination and the suggested wearing of "specs." The strain on the nerves is great and this strain, in turn, adds to the wrinkle crop.

Sunday Evening Frock Chooses Coat of Red

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Sunday is everybody's day in Paris. From attic to subbasement, the whole world turns out, and by evening every strata of chic that Paris can supply is plainly visible. Smart women, who lead luxurious lives, come home from the races or the country and receive their friends chez soi.

Bourgeois ladies and woiking goils fill the restaurants and movies to overflowing, each with her own particular masculine complement, since Sunday night is cook's night out all over France. What is worn by the women of the haut monde is to be seen in a simplified version all over the town.

This season the Sunday night toilette usually consists of some kind of soft, frilly frock that leans toward the eveningish, yet is suitable for afternoon; and a wrap that leaves at least part of this frock visible.

If one is hostess on Sunday evening and remains at home the dress worn may be slightly trailing, although Paris feels she has had enough of trailing skirts after one season. Handling a train is a lost art, and hasn't been successfully resurrected. The length of the Germaine Lecomte frock shown in our sketch is the usual Sunday night dress length.

This dress is made of creamy chiffon printed with lace bands in bright red, making one of the famous lace prints of the new season. The long bodice is fitted, belted at the normal waistline with red leather, and caped around the shoulders. The skirt is shirred onto the bodice at the hips and hangs in the fashionable long, limp folds. The coat of red faille, like the dress, has no sleeves, but is topped by a cape cut in one with a cleverly draped scarf.

Asks for Vacuum Cleaner.

"I wonder if one of your readers has an old electric sweeper which is not being used any more. I hurt myself inwardly, and sweeping with a broom is hard for me. I have a small baby girl to care for and my husband is out of work. I surely would appreciate an electric sweeper, as my back is so painful at times.

Every housewife knows what a helpful and effective tool the vacuum cleaner is, and she realizes fully what an improvement it is over the old method of sweeping rugs with a broom. In Mrs. R. E.'s condition I know she would welcome the one you are planning to discard.

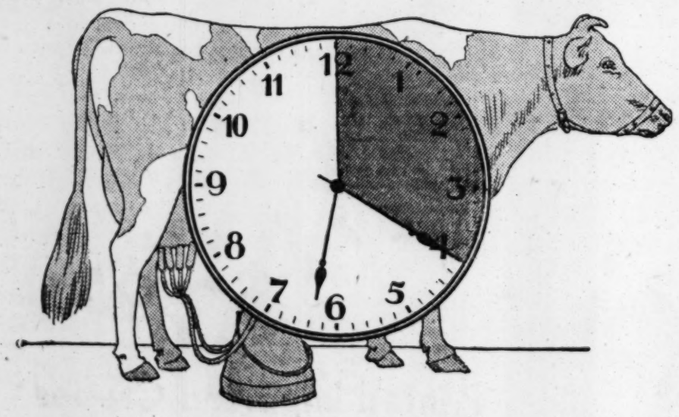
The First Twenty Minutes
is vitally important . . . in milk quality



Immediately after milking, "Selected" is put into sterile cans and taken to the milk houses for cooling.

Some of the farmers use natural ice, others have mechanical refrigerating equipment and automatic coolers which reduce the heat of the milk from 95 degrees Fahrenheit to 36, in one minute. Reliable cooling facilities exist on every "Selected" farm. It is one of our must requirements.

Quick cooling of the milk and keeping it cool constantly, save for the thirty minutes of pasteurization, is very important. It's another reason for the "Sweet Natural Taste" which pleases the milk drinkers of every family.

not designed to give mere temporary relief.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating." Konjola, the modern medicine, is sold, not on promises, but on its actual record. Consider the typical experience of Mr. James A. Gallagher, 115 South Menard avenue, Chicago. Here is what he says of Konjola:

MR. JAMES A. GALLAGHER
115 South Menard Avenue

"It was surely amazing how quickly Konjola gave me results, and I feel it is my duty to tell the public how my stomach trouble was ended. My stomach was in a very bad condition. I had headaches and was dizzy. My food did little good, and whatever I ate caused gas. But after ten bottles of Konjola stomach troubles and dizzy spells are gone. I have not taken Konjola for five months, and my stomach is in fine condition. I have recommended Konjola to at least two hundred people."

303 MILLIONS IN CONTRACTS FOR PUBLIC WORKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—Five years' records for the same three months were smashed during the first quarter of 1930 when contracts for utilities and public works construction represented a combined valuation of more than 303 millions of dollars were awarded, according to announcement today by Secretary of Commerce R. P. Lamont.

The huge figures, 55 per cent greater than the total for the first three months last year, were cited by Secretary Lamont as concrete results of the stabilization program initiated by President Hoover in his conferences with business leaders, and through his suggestions to governors of states and other local officials, for the "energetic, yet prudent, pursuit" of public construction.

Contrasted with the 303 million dollar record of the 1930 quarter, in Secretary Lamont's analysis, the total valuation figures for the five previous years were: In 1925, $159,660,000; in 1926, $220,236,000; in 1927, $217,964,000; in 1928, $242,357,000.

Increase of 33 Per Cent.

Awards of contracts for public buildings alone during the 1930 quarter were valued at $32,337,000, an increase of 33 per cent over the same period of 1929, and a new record for the past five years. In the first quarter of 1929 the value of this class of construction awards was placed at $24,118,000; in 1925, $9,000,000; 1926, $11,000,000; 1927, $20,000,000 and 1928 $20,000,000.

"Contracts awarded for hospitals and institutions," Secretary Lamont's report showed, "during the first three months of 1930 registered an increase of 74 per cent over the same period of 1929, and this type of work also established a record for the first three months of the last five years. Contracts awarded during 1929 were valued at approximately $22,000,000, compared with $29,000,000 in 1928, $25,000,000 in 1927, $27,000,000 in 1926, and $30,000,000 in 1925.

Education Building Lags.

"Awards for education building during the first quarter of 1930, and for social and recreational structures for the same period, both of which also involve public construction, were 1 per cent and 17 per cent, respectively, below the corresponding period of 1929.

"In the field of strictly private construction the three major types which represent that field were below the corresponding period of last year, with residential construction lagging far behind. Contracts awarded for commercial buildings were 15 per cent under the first quarter of 1929, those for industrial buildings 17 per cent below, and residential 48 per cent behind the first three months of last year."

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Radio yesterday was too big for any one listener. Headliners there were without number.

Among the important broadcasts in the forenoon were the organ recital from the University of Chicago chapel, through WMAQ, 10:30 to 11; St. Chrysostom's Easter service, through W-G-N, 11 to 12:15, and the mass from the Holy Name cathedral, through WGES, 11 to 12:45.

An outstanding event of the early afternoon was the Easter concert on the theater program from New York, through KYW, 1 to 2. Here a large orchestra, an efficient chorus, and a soprano soloist of ability presented the Handel "Largo," and the Hallelujah chorus from "The Messiah," and Bach's "Chorale and Fugue."

W-G-N'S orchestral musical melange, 4:45 to 5:30; Gaston du Moulin conducting, Ben Simon, violinist, and Olda Jirousek, cellist, was a splendid concert.

The concert by the Paulist Choristers, the Rev. E. F. O'Malley directing, W-G-N, 7:30 to 8, gave a sacred note to the early evening. Works by Palestrina, Rachmaninoff, Tschaikowsky, and Tretchaninow were sung; all without accompaniment.

Lucrezia Bori, soprano, was the soloist on the New York orchestral concert through W-G-N, 8:15 to 9:15. Miss Bori offered a large number of songs and arias.

Nurse Ends Life with Gas; Her Body Found by Sister

Miss Eleanor Booth, 23 years old, a registered nurse, committed suicide with gas yesterday in her two room apartment at 1039 North Dearborn street. The body was found by her sister, Miss Jane Booth, 4019 Clarendon avenue, when she called to give the nurse an Easter greeting. Miss Jane Booth told Chicago avenue police her sister had been discouraged because of her inability to find employment since her arrival here last October from her native town, Wyoming, Pa.

MYSTERIOUSLY SHOT; HELD.

Tony Yatkus, 48 years old, 4602 Laflin street, was locked up at the Boering avenue police station last night after he was found wandering along Emerald avenue between 39th and 31st streets with a bullet wound in the second finger of his left hand. Yatkus was unable to tell how he had been shot.

Aaron T. Pyfer, Wholesale Florist of Wilmette, Dies

Aaron T. Pyfer, 51 years old, 524 15th street, Wilmette, wholesale florist, died yesterday at the St. Francis hospital in Evanston of peritonitis following an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Pyfer was head of A. T. Pyfer & Co., florists at 1315 Randolph street, and was chairman of the tree commission of Wilmette. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Eva Pyfer, and two sons, Arthur and Harlow.

DANES PUT BAN ON PAVLOVA'S DOG; HE LEAVES BY AIR

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

COPENHAGEN, April 20.—A charming evidence of the bureaucratic mind of the Danish quarantine department helped Copenhageners through a sombre Easter today. When the famous Russian dancer Anna Pavlova, arrived in Denmark the health authorities forbade her to bring a tiny French bulldog called Duke into the country. The reason was Duke did not posses a passport.

The minister of agriculture appealed by telephone and telegraph and the chairman of the Union of Gregarious dogs did his utmost, but in vain. Duke had to go to a dog hospital for the rest of Mme. Pavlova's stay in Denmark.

The last part of Duke's visit also was of an unusual character as the Norwegian and Swedish authorities flatly refused to admit him so the only way seemed to be to transport Duke by air. This morning photographers, representatives of the police, veterinary and customs authorities met at an airdrome to witness Duke's departure for Hamburg.

Freighters Leave Duluth After Tieup All Winter

Duluth, Minn., April 20.—(AP)—Two freighters, held here during the winter months, sailed from the local harbor late today for Fort William, Ont., the first large lake vessels to leave the Duluth-Superior port this season.

The F. E. Taplin cleared first, and the H. P. McIntosh followed a few moments later. They will receive cargoes of coal at Fort William and return to Duluth.

Word was received here that three boats left Chicago Saturday for the head of the lakes, but they are not expected in Duluth before the end of the week because of ice conditions at the Soo locks.

Mary Louise Gage Funeral Rites Will Be Tomorrow

Burial will be at Mt. Greenwood cemetery. Mrs. Gage was the widow of Joseph Gage. She is survived by two sons, Frank of Jackson, and Reginald of Chicago, and one daughter, Mrs. Edith Bierer of Philadelphia.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, April 20.—(AP)—A demonstration in commemoration of the Easter week rising of 1915 brought about a clash between police and Irish Republicans today at the Milltown cemetery, near Belfast. The police charged a crowd with their batons and arrested four men alleged to be Republican leaders.

Allegan Unable to Agree on Location for Dam

Allegan, Mich., April 20.—[Special.]—Turning down the petition of the General Power corporation of Jackson by a vote of 19 to 9 Saturday, for a permit to build a dam over the Kalamazoo river in Manlius township, the board of supervisors voted 14 to 14 on the application of the city of Allegan for a dam in Valley township. The proposition will go over to the June session.

TRIBUNE OFFERS BOYS EXPERT GOLF INSTRUCTION

PROS TO TUTOR NOVICES, THEN MATCH THEM

Qualifiers Will Get Set of Clubs.

[Sports Editor.]

THE TRIBUNE 'Saturday opened a baseball school designed to teach lads of Chicagoland how the game is played in the big leagues. It now offers youngsters who never have played golf a chance to learn fundamentals of the sport under expert instructors without spending a cent.

This is the plan: Next Friday all boys 15 or 16 years old who want to avail themselves of the opportunity presented by THE TRIBUNE will meet at a designated place, probably Mid City daily fee course, on account of its central location. Four will be chosen by the lucky number system to enter the golf school.

Will Be "Farmed Out."

Each of the four will be "farmed out" to a professional for eight lessons, two a week for four weeks. At the end of the course they will meet in medal play competition to determine which has made the most rapid strides.

The professionals coöperating with THE TRIBUNE are James Weager of Edgewater, Frank Williams of Skokie, Alec Cunningham of North Shore, and George Knox of Calumet.

A reporter will be in attendance at each lesson and will write an article for the next day's TRIBUNE on what the young golfer was taught.

This contest is for novices. It takes a professional only a few minutes to decide whether a lad has had experience in handling clubs. If the pro detects any evidence of deceit, the entrant will be ruled out of the competition the first day and a substitute named.

Will Supply Clubs for Each.

THE TRIBUNE will supply each contestant with a new set of clubs purchased from the professional in charge of his instruction. It also will pay transportation expense to and from the golf course for lessons.

The purpose of the competition is not to develop champion golfers. It takes more than four weeks to make real progress on the links. But the contest will show whether it is possible to whittle down a score of, say 150 to 115 or 120, in that time. The stories of the instructions these boys receive also may prove beneficial to others planning to take up golf or who are recent converts to the game.

It is improbable that the material in a contest of this kind will be uniform. One boy may develop surprisingly fast, another may improve slowly, and perhaps one or two never will become golfers. The professionals chosen to assist THE TRIBUNE in the promotion of the event run the chance, of course, of drawing one of the latter group.

Harland Rohm, golf editor of THE TRIBUNE, will tell you more about the contest later. Watch for his articles.

WOMEN GOLFERS HOLD LAST DRILL BEFORE SAILING

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Most of the American women golfers who will sail Tuesday night to compete in the team match against the British women at Sunningdale on May 1, will hold a final practice over the Knollwood golf club links at White Plain, N. Y., tomorrow.

The club officials have arranged a luncheon in honor of the stars and most of them will take part in the Scotch foursome matches in the afternoon.

ARGENTINE BOXER ADDS ANOTHER TO LIST OF VICTIMS

BUENOS AIRES, April 20.—[Special.]—Argentina's undefeated lightweight, Justo Suarez, added another victory to his list by outpointing the Chilean, Luis Vincentini, in a 12 round bout to night. Although Suarez's victory was a fairly easy one as regards the margin by which he won the fight, a disappointing feature was that both men put on a good deal of wild swinging.

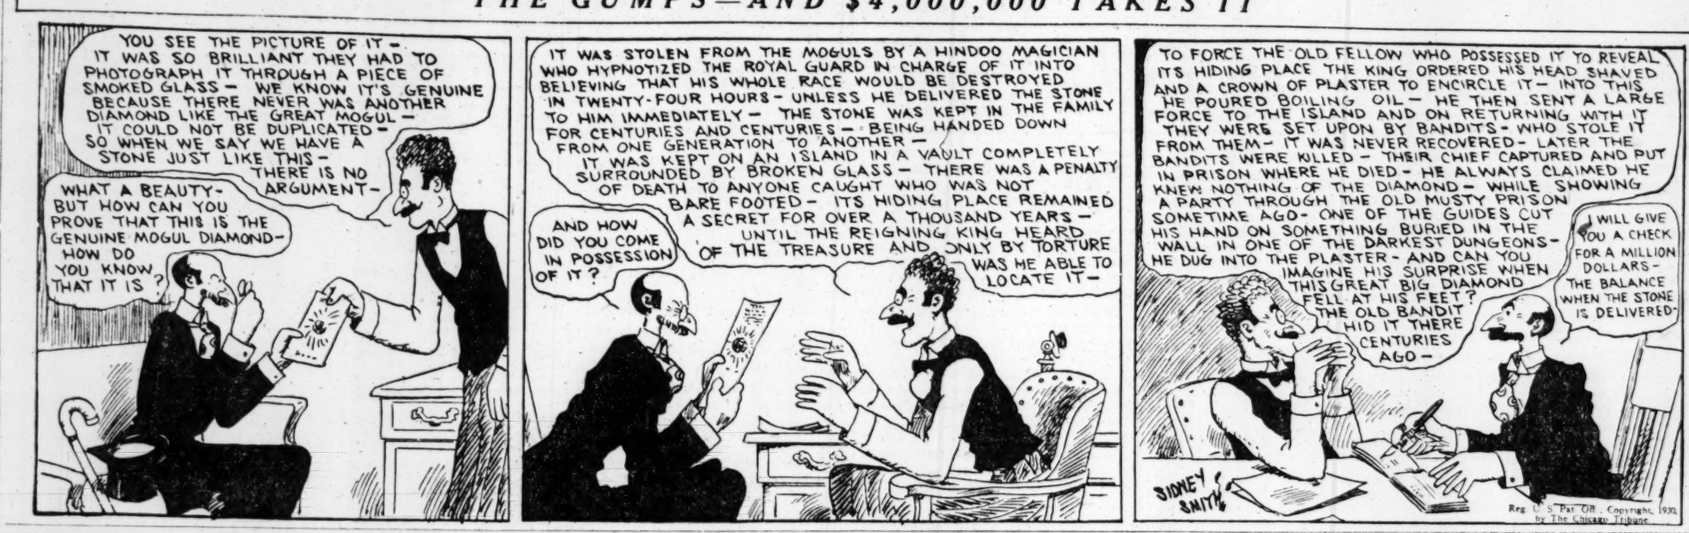
Northesk K. O.'d for 25 Minutes in Soccer Game

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 20.—Lord Northesk, who formerly was engaged to Peggy Joyce and recently was married in London to a Greek heiress, Mlle. Betty Vlasto, a cousin of Didi Vlasto the tennis player, was knocked out for 25 minutes today during a football game between the Scottish and French Racing club.

A French forward butted the noble lord in the stomach and he fell to the ground writhing in pain until the doctor was summoned.

THE GUMPS—AND $4,000,000 TAKES IT



YOU SEE THE PICTURE OF IT— IT WAS SO BRILLIANT THEY HAD TO PHOTOGRAPH IT THROUGH A PIECE OF SMOKED GLASS— WE KNOW IT'S GENUINE BECAUSE THERE NEVER WAS ANOTHER DIAMOND LIKE THE GREAT MOGUL— IT COULD NOT BE DUPLICATED— SO WHEN WE SAY WE HAVE A STONE JUST LIKE THIS— THERE IS NO ARGUMENT—
WHAT A BEAUTY— BUT HOW CAN YOU PROVE THAT THIS IS THE GENUINE MOGUL DIAMOND— HOW DO YOU KNOW THAT IT IS?
IT WAS STOLEN FROM THE MOGULS BY A HINDOO MAGICIAN WHO HYPNOTIZED THE ROYAL GUARD IN CHARGE OF IT INTO BELIEVING THAT HIS WHOLE RACE WOULD BE DESTROYED IN TWENTY-FOUR HOURS— UNLESS HE DELIVERED THE STONE TO HIM IMMEDIATELY— THE STONE WAS KEPT IN THE FAMILY FOR CENTURIES AND CENTURIES— BEING HANDED DOWN FROM ONE GENERATION TO ANOTHER— IT WAS KEPT ON AN ISLAND IN A VAULT COMPLETELY SURROUNDED BY BROKEN GLASS— THERE WAS A PENALTY OF DEATH TO ANYONE CAUGHT WHO WAS NOT BARE FOOTED— ITS HIDING PLACE REMAINED A SECRET FOR OVER A THOUSAND YEARS— UNTIL THE REIGNING KING HEARD OF THE TREASURE AND ONLY BY TORTURE WAS HE ABLE TO LOCATE IT—
AND HOW DID YOU COME IN POSSESSION OF IT?
TO FORCE THE OLD FELLOW WHO POSSESSED IT TO REVEAL ITS HIDING PLACE THE KING ORDERED HIS HEAD SHAVED AND A CROWN OF PLASTER TO ENCIRCLE IT— INTO THIS HE POURED BOILING OIL— HE THEN SENT A LARGE FORCE TO THE ISLAND AND ON RETURNING WITH IT THEY WERE SET UPON BY BANDITS— WHO STOLE IT FROM THEM— IT WAS NEVER RECOVERED— LATER THE BANDITS WERE KILLED— THEIR CHIEF CAPTURED AND PUT IN PRISON WHERE HE DIED— HE ALWAYS CLAIMED HE KNEW NOTHING OF THE DIAMOND— WHILE SHOWING A PARTY THROUGH THE OLD MUSTY PRISON SOMETIME AGO— ONE OF THE GUIDES CUT HIS HAND ON SOMETHING BURIED IN THE WALL IN ONE OF THE DARKEST DUNGEONS— HE DUG INTO THE PLASTER— AND CAN YOU IMAGINE HIS SURPRISE WHEN THIS GREAT BIG DIAMOND FELL AT HIS FEET? THE OLD BANDIT HID IT THERE CENTURIES AGO—
I WILL GIVE YOU A CHECK FOR A MILLION DOLLARS— THE BALANCE WHEN THE STONE IS DELIVERED

FEATHERWEIGHT CONTENDERS TO FIGHT TONIGHT

La Barba Faces Taylor in Coliseum Ring.

Tonight's Card

Bud Taylor vs. Fidel La Barba [10], 126 pounds.
Solly Schurman vs. Ernie North [6], 126 pounds.
Eddie Kopy vs. Carlos Garcia [6], 153 pounds.
Dan Gaspero vs. Al Wilkins [5], 168 pounds.
Paul Lebreto vs. Joey Bosak [5], 120 pounds.
Sammy Levine vs. Frankie Almarez [5], 115 pounds.
Prince Saunders vs. Joey Barth [5], 130 pounds.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Fidel La Barba will fight Bud Taylor tonight at the Coliseum.

Each is a ranking contender for the featherweight title Battling Battalino now holds. Each is in condition to go ten rounds at top speed. Veteran fighters, each possesses generalship born of many battles.

SAMMY LEVINE.

Records prove their courage. In all their fights each has given the best that was in him. These are the reasons why the promoter, Jack Dempsey, believes he will have his first financial success in Chicago.

Taylor and La Barba unlimbered a bit yesterday in the gymnasium. This morning, after a walk, they will be ready to weigh in.

Finish Drills Uninjured.

While little money has been wagered on tonight's fight, Taylor has been made a slight favorite. The margin of choice, however, is small. Where Fidel has an advantage of youth, Taylor may have an advantage in punching power. Bud's adherents continue to talk of a left to the body. That blow will win, they say.

La Barba's friends are equally positive. Taylor won't be able to reach Fidel's body often enough to slow him up. La Barba, they aver, will carry Bud at too fast a pace and he'll win easily in the closing rounds.

Each ended his ring drills Saturday and without injury. Neither changed his style of attack. At Kid Howard's gymnasium Fidel keep shooting his left to the body and face, ever carrying his right hand in a defensive position, but not forgetting to bring it over to the jaw when the opportunity presented.

Both Meet Chocolate.

Bud also was consistent in his work at Barry's gymnasium. He hammered away with his left to the body, thumping the ribs of his sparring mates until they had more than enough.

Win or lose, Bud and Fidel will have a chance to meet Kid Chocolate, undefeated Cuban negro, the best New York has to offer for Battalino's title. Fidel meets the Kid in Madison Square Garden May 16, while Bud probably will have his chance in June. If additional incentive is needed for extra effort tonight, this is it.

Solly Schuman, west side featherweight, will meet Ernie North of Minneapolis, in a six-round semi-windup. Ex-amateurs, many of them former Golden Gloves fighters, provide most of the supporting card. Carlos Garcia and Eddie Koppy are scheduled for six rounds. There are four other preliminaries, each of five rounds.

Paul Leberto, of the 1930 Golden Gloves team, fights Joey Bosak of the 1929 squad. Leberto recently turned professional. Sammy Levine, also a Golden Glover and one of the best bantamweights will go five rounds with Frankie Almarez.

STARTS LESSONS ON CATCHING

Want to Be a Catcher? Size Will Help You, Hartnett Says

This is the first lesson in the second course of The Tribune's baseball school, written by Catcher Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs. His lessons will appear throughout the week and he'll give a personal demonstration for boys interested in becoming catchers at 9 o'clock Saturday morning at Wrigley field. The only admission required will be a FREE TICKET appearing in The Tribune sports pages Saturday.

BY GABBY HARTNETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., April 20.—The lad with ambition to try the baseball climb that leads to the majors is advised to think twice before deciding to make catching his specialty. It is hard work. It requires a foundation of strength. Most of the other positions are far more spectacular.

The catcher is like the linesman in football. He is in there all the time, meaning that he never has a breathing spell, as do the outfielders and infielders. Thus the work is far more hazardous than that in other positions, and that is why natural strength and power should be the first considerations of the youngster who wants to make a career with the mask and pad.

Requires Big Build.

Power and strength naturally mean a big build. It is no work for the boy who doesn't give early promise of developing above the average physically. A small fellow can't withstand the constant pounding of thrown balls. Neither can he stand up under the terrific jolts received making plays at the plate.

That the size of a catcher means something, at least in the big leagues, is shown by the men now filling such positions. With one or two exceptions the active backstops all are big men, not easily disturbed by a runner charging into them at the plate. If you tell a major league manager you have a great catching prospect for him to look at his first reply will be "Is he a big fellow?"

Before the White Sox got Ray Schalk several scouts of other clubs reported unfavorably on him because he was small of stature. He proved an exception. He was born with all that a catcher needs. He overcame his lack of weight by a peculiar catlike agility that made it possible for him to handle himself against the biggest men that ever slid into him at the plate. Muddy Ruel is another exception.

Throwing Arm Next.

If the ambitious youth has the poundage that will assure him an even chance in the rough and tumble features of a catching job then he can look himself over to ascertain his other qualities.

Of these, the throwing arm naturally is of the greatest importance. Without the arm you cannot catch in any league. My case last season proved that. An arm is a thing that will show itself early. It isn't a thing that can be acquired. Work and practice will develop and perfect an arm, but if the ability to throw a hard ball isn't there at the start the catching candidate might as well change his plans. Given the arm, there are plenty of things worth knowing about throwing, but I will take these up later.

OFFER A LITTLE SYMPATHY TO MR. COMISKEY

He Has No Luck with His Ball Games.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Probably you think the weather yesterday was tough on your Easter raiment. But pause, please, and consider the purse of poor Mr. Comiskey.

Rained out of his opener for two days, frosted out of the year's first scheduled game with the St. Louis Browns on Friday and suffering a chill which scared away about 20,000 customers Saturday, the White Sox owner had a right to expect a harvest on Easter Sunday, the only Sunday the Sox were scheduled to play at home prior to May 18.

But nary a nickel did Mr. Comiskey take in yesterday. In fact, he had to go into the till to pay off the boys who had been retained to count and sort the money he thought he was going to get and didn't. It stopped raining right after the game had been called off, but it was just as well the cancellation had been decided upon, for it was much too cold for baseball business.

Hit the Road Tonight.

If the Sox play their farewell game with the Browns today it will be the third staged out of seven scheduled for the brief initial home stay. Tonight the club will hit the road for the longest championship season trip in several years. They will play seven cities in the following order: Cleveland, St. Louis, Detroit, New York, Boston, Washington, and Philadelphia.

While yesterday depressed all the White Sox outfit more or less, the day was especially sad to Grady Adkins, for Grady was sent away to Dallas.

Adkins came to the Sox from Shreveport at the start of 1928 and succeeded in winning ten games his first year in the majors and also beat the Cubs in one of the city series games. Some of his victories were especially impressive, due, perhaps, to a halting delivery and a pretty good curve ball. His earned run average was 3.72.

Last year, however, Grady was pretty much of a disappointment, though he was permitted to appear in 31 games and was given every opportunity to show something. He won but two games and lost eleven, and his earned run average was 4.95.

Sox Fulfill Obligation.

The shipping of Adkins to Dallas further thwarts the plan of the Dallas club to obtain the services of Vic Frasier, the homesick cowherd. In certain quarters there is a suspicion that the Dallas club, to whom the Sox were obligated in the matter of players, had been tampering with the Sox personnel and had sought to force the return of Frasier and George Connally to the Steers.

The Sox now have fulfilled their obligation to send Dallas a pitcher, Frasier is at his home in a sort of self-instigated state of banishment, and Connally has been indefinitely set down for challenging Secretary Lou Barbour to fisticuffs and for an alleged sketchy knowledge of what makes a personal check negotiable. It is said that under no circumstances will either Frasier or Connally go to Dallas unless they are obtained after the Sox have sent them to some other club.

In the event this afternoon's game is played, Ted Lyons will pitch for the Sox and either Gray or Collins will work for the Browns.

Playoffs for Hockey Title Commercial?

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 20.—Where the leading clubs of the major hockey league engage in their intricate series of play-offs, vaguely resembling the so-called world series in baseball, one hears remarks to the effect that this plan of isolating the champion at the end of the season was devised as a scheme to make money.

It would seem hardly necessary to deny this, but sport magnates have become so set in a pretense that commercialism is farthest from their thoughts that I suppose they would repudiate the idea instinctively, to insist that the public interest is their only guide. The colleges are the only sport magnates with the candor to admit that the public interest is the least of their considerations and the gate receipts one of the most important in football season.

Similar to Baseball.

The business arrangements of major league hockey have just about jelled now. The game has been established as a sort of winter equivalent of major league baseball and the plan of competition, the division of territorial rights and the relation between the players and the club owners are generally similar to those in baseball. In the cities south of the Canadian line time was necessary to familiarize the customers with the game and establish the reputations of the teams and individual players with people whose only conception of hockey was a blurry notion that here was a sport in which it was legal, under certain conditions, for one athlete to clout another with a bat as big as an oar.

The New York clientele was quick to respond. Although the New York Americans, the first club in town, were owned by an obscure bookmaker, Tex Rickard encouraged the suspicion that he was the real proprietor and certainly he must have had charge of the inaugural arrangements, including the selection of the club colors.

Rickard Invited Big Shots.

Most of the charter customers who saw the ceremonies were there by special invitation and, of course, they

DOEG DEFEATS MANGIN; WINS PINEHURST TITLE

Allison and Van Ryn Take Doubles Crown.

Pinehurst, N. C., April 20.—[Special.]—John Doeg of Santa Monica, Cal., third ranking player of the country, added the united north and south tennis championship to his list of conquests for the southern season today and in so doing further bolstered his claim to a place on the Davis cup team.

In a final round match that was completely lacking in sparkle or verve the young giant from the Pacific coast gained a victory over Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., allowing him only four games in three sets. The score was 6-0, 6-1, 6-3.

Mangin, conqueror of George Lott of Chicago, was unable to reproduce his brilliant form of the earlier rounds after a day of idleness occasioned by rain, and a bad ankle that had stiffened up further slowed up his game.

To recompense the concluding round of the doubles in the afternoon brought forth a stirring battle between the champions of Wimbledon and champions of America, in which John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison defeated Doeg and George Lott, 8-6, 6-4, 6-4.

MISS ANDERSON WINS.

Richmond, Va., April 20.—[Special.]—In the finals of the women's north and south tennis tournament, held here his morning, after the meet at Pinehurst had been rained out, Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond defeated Mrs. Marian Jessup, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3, in a match played at the Country Club of Virginia.

Jap Tennis Players Win Matches with Austrians

VIENNA, Austria, April 20.—(AP)—Japan won all three matches in its series with leading Austrian tennis players today. Ohta and Sato of Japan defeated Herbert Kinzel Jr. and Erwin Bolzano, 6-8, 6-0, 6-2, 3-6, 6-0, and Harada and Abe of Japan conquered Franz Matejka and Hermann Artens, 7-5, 6-2, 3-6, 5-7, 6-2.

In singles Sato defeated Hans Eisler, 7-5, 6-4, 6-3. Japan leads in the series so far, four victories to one.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Cincinnati, O., April 20.—After two days of base hit bankruptcy the Cubs resumed today on a profitable basis defeating Cincinnati 4 to 3.

They fielded and hit the ball when it meant something and they enjoyed choice pitching by Sheriff Blake. After being two runs in arrears the Cubs came with a rush to whip the Reds before some 25,000 and even the series.

The champions started their work in much the same fashion they had conducted themselves on the two previous days. They appeared impotent. But once the Reds had leaped into the fore because of a bad inning by Blake, the Chicagoans settled down to show the stuff of which title holders are made. They exploded extra base drives that tied the score against Pete Donohue, friend of Hack Wilson, in the sixth. Then they routed the big Texan with a run in the seventh and that tally proved sufficient to give Blake his second triumph of the campaign.

Blake Has Bad Inning.

Blake's one bad round was the fourth when he surrendered three runs, three hits and three passes, one of the latter forcing in a tally. Prior to that he hurled three perfect innings. After that he pitched three more that were perfect and also two that were not so perfect but in these two troublesome stands his hide was saved from a searing by tight defensive play.

One of these bad spots was the sixth, when Walker led off with a double to right center. The Cubs had just tied the score in their half. Walker, however, never went anywhere. On the next batter's blow to English he was cut down trying to reach third. Blake attended to the remainder of the round.

Gabby Saves Blake.

In the seventh it probably was well for Blake that he was supported by an arm like Gabby Hartnett's. Ford started the round with a single, and the ancient Heilmann, batting for the pitcher, did the same. It looked much as if Blake had plans for duplicating his bad third chapter. He changed his mind when Gabby, seeing Ford take a big lead off second in anticipation of a bunt, rifled the ball to English to nail the venturesome runner. Critz, for whose bunt Ford had taken his costly lead, then flied to center, and Allen was tossed out by Blake. There was no excitement after this.

Hartnett also had something to do with the attack. In the sixth he uncorked his second single to drive in the tying run. However, there were a few who excelled him. Young Blair, for instance, was the author of a single, double, and triple, the two latter blows leading to runs. Stephenson turned loose two singles and a double, two of the hits being run getters. Grimm broke in with a triple and Cuyler with a double, both of

Giant Rooters Give Banquet in McGraw's Honor

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Five hundred persons, including the entire membership of the New York Giants, Brooklyn Robins and Boston Braves, attended the annual testimonial dinner to Manager John J. McGraw and the Giants given by loyal Giant rooters at the Hotel Biltmore tonight.

All the players were seated at a long table which bore the label "The Dugout." Each guest found a regulation baseball cap at his place when he entered the dining room. Ushers, score cards, and peanut venders added to the baseball atmosphere and the menu was printed on regular baseball score cards.

Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen was the toastmaster.

which were profitable. The only assistance from Wilson was a scratch single.

Before getting down to business the Cubs passed up one excellent possibility. Stevie opened the second inning with a single past third. Grimm popped up and Hartnett singled on a hit and run, Stevie going to third. Beck's pass filled the corners with one out. Blake wasn't equal to the emergency. He bounced to Critz at second and the round ended profitless on a double play.

One run blossomed for the Cubs in the third after Blair had started it by doubling. He lined into the left field corner with one out. Cuyler was disposed of on a fly to left. Wilson punched a slow bounder back at Donohue who had been punched before by Hack. The thought of it made the big Texan jumpy and he failed to waylay the ball, Wilson getting a single and Blair going to third. Stevie's single between short and third sent Blair home after which Grimm grounded out the inning.

Blake's perfect bubble burst in the fourth when Critz opened with a single and continued to second on Hack's fumble. Allen slapped a single out to Hack and Critz scored. Sukeforth singled a bit too high for English's reach. Walker sacrificed and Meusel was purposely walked filling the bases. Kelly's long fly to Cuyler let Allen register. Then before he could halt the uprising Blake walked both Cuccinello and Ford thus forcing Sukeforth home with the third run.

Fans Jeer Wilson.

Something Wilson would have paid dearly to have avoided occurred in the fifth to prevent the Cubs from making a little headway. English opened with a single and Blair was safe on a fumble by Critz. Allen backed against the fence in center, a mere 403 feet away, to nab Cuyler's fly. English hiked to third after the catch. This brought up Mr. Hack who couldn't help hearing the remarks being passed by the citizens about his famed world series muff. Hack then played right into their hands. He bounced to Donohue for a double play and the traducers of the home run hero broke out with a new line of supposedly wise cracks.

There wasn't much more than silence from the stands in the sixth when the champions suddenly up and thumped Donohue for two runs and a 3 to 3 tie. This little disturbance started with a double by Stevie, his third hit. He ran home while Walker was racing to the fence to recover Grimm's triple. Capt. Charley lopped over the plate on Hartnett's single to center. Then the rally ceased as suddenly as it had started. Beck, Blake and English couldn't get the ball out of the infield.

Cubs Take Lead.

When the Cubs leaped out in front by 4 to 3 in the seventh only two blows were involved. But they were sufficiently powerful to cause Donohue's removal.

Blair enlarged on his previous hits by leading off with a triple to the left center wall. Cuyler lined one to the same spot for two bases, Blair walking home with the winning tally and Donohue walking to the bench. Johnson stepped in to face Wilson, and Hack sailed one to deep center but Allen grabbed it. Cuyler raced to third after the catch and died there when Stevie tapped to the pitcher and Grimm fanned.

Hal Carlson will be summoned to fling in the final of the Red series tomorrow. This will leave Pat Malone available for the homecoming struggle at Wrigley field Tuesday afternoon. Malone, however, won't have the services of Hornsby's bat that day, except as a possible pinch man. The Rajah still limps perceptibly because of his injured heel and his return is indefinite.

ANDERSON IS 7 TO 5 FAVORITE TO BEAT SANGOR

Milwaukee, Wis., April 20.—[Special.]—Eddie Anderson, Cody, Wyo., cowboy, today was installed a 7 to 5 favorite to beat Joey Sangor when the two fight at the Auditorium tomorrow night in a ten round headliner at 132 pounds. Anderson was preferred because of his consistent ring activity. Sangor has not fought for months.

Sangor and Anderson stamped finis on their workouts with brief drills today. The same was true of the procedure involving King Levinsky and Mitts Minikel, the light heavyweights, who clash in a ten round semi-windup. Levinsky, who arrived yesterday, worked out this afternoon at Tom Neary's gymnasium. Levinsky does not pack the clean punch Minikel shoots, but otherwise he has it over the domestic 175 pounder.

The preliminary actors in the show also ended their rehearsals. That part of the card lines up like this: Martin Franks, Milwaukee, vs. Mickey McFarland, Chicago, four rounds at 170 pounds; Billy Blake, Milwaukee, vs. Frankie Burne, Milwaukee, four rounds at 150 pounds, and Franklin Cheek, Milwaukee, vs. Wilbur Chevalier, Bay City, Mich., four rounds at 125 pounds.

Washington, D. C., April 20.—(AP)—The New York Yankees dropped their fourth straight game here this afternoon, losing to the Senators, 6 to 3. A two-bagger and a triple by Goose Goslin featured the batting. Though the Yankees tied the count at three-all in the eighth, the Senators came back with three runs in their half to win. Lloyd Brown went the distance for the Nationals, keeping the Yankees down to eight scattered hits.

Zachary, starting pitcher for New York, was treated roughly by Washington bats, and was retired for Sherid. He fared no better and Rhodes was called to finish the game. Score:

Matching of Levinsky and Keegan sets up the Stadium card as one of the best presented in Chicago. West side fans have rallied to the support of Keegan and Levinsky. Born a mile apart, these fellows will make it an all-west side affair. Keegan, a comparatively newcomer in professional ranks, made his last start on the Rosenbloom-Johnson card in Madison Square Garden, where he is said by eastern critics to have stolen the show when he flattened Gene McCue in eighteen seconds. It was Al's fifth knockout in eight fights as a professional. Keegan was a member of the Chicago Golden Gloves team taken to New York last year.

TILDEN ADDS 2 MORE TITLES TO HIS LONG STRING

BEAULIEU, France, April 20.—(AP)—Big Bill Tilden added two more Riviera tennis championships to his already long collection today.

Paired with Elizabeth Ryan of England, Tilden won the mixed doubles title, defeating Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal., and Wilbur Coen of Kansas City, 6-1, 6-3. In the men's doubles Tilden and Coen defeated Lesieur and Magaloff of France, 6-3, 6-3, 7-5.

In the women's doubles Miss Ryan and Miss Jacobs defeated Mrs. Satterthwaite of England and Mlle. Sigart of Belgium, 7-5, 5-7, 6-4.

Coen announced that he would not be able to play against Tilden in the singles finals tomorrow because of a leg injury.

Hubbell's Arm Stops Phils; Giants Win

New York, April 20.—(AP)—A capacity Sunday crowd of 45,000 watched the Giants defeat the Phillies again, 2 to 1.

Grover Cleveland Alexander made his 1930 start but was wild and, while Carl Hubbell, the Giants' left hander, let the Phillies down with four hits, two of which were made by Tommy Thevenow, short stop.

Travis Jackson's sacrifice fly sent in Leach with the first Giant run in the third, while Mel Ott's initial homer accounted for the winning run in the fifth inning. Thompson's double scored Thevenow with the only Phils' run in the seventh. Score:

MIKE GONZALES SEEKS CATCHING JOB IN MINORS

Señor Mike Gonzales, who last season shared the catching duties for the Chicago Cubs while Gabby Hartnett was incapacitated, and was made a free agent after the campaign closed, yesterday said he would talk to President William L. Veeck of the Cubs, this morning concerning a contract with the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league.

The veteran Cuban staf also said he was negotiating with Mike Kelley, manager of the Minneapolis American association club, and planned to go to Columbus, where the Millers are playing a series, to talk with Kelley.

Gonzales has been working out with the White Sox.

The first home contest will be played Tuesday against Bradley Tech of Peoria, Ill. The Badgers open their western conference campaign Saturday at the University of Chicago, which lost to Indiana yesterday, 7 to 1.

Intricate Hockey Playoffs Smack of Commercialism

included a quorum of Mr. Rickard's great big bankers, great big railroad presidents, great big society people, and so forth. So hockey began with prestige and the social quality has been maintained ever since. Unlike the prize fighting and six day bike racing promotions of the Garden firm, hockey had no low reputation to live down and a superior clientele attends the games now with no sense of being out slumming.

There will always be something ironic and funny about the spectacle of the nude feminine shoulder and the masculine hard boiled shirt in the ringside rows at the prize fights and bike races, but they were the background of the first hockey show in the new plant and hockey has gone ahead to develop a regular trade among people who the advertising managers would describe as the classy people.

A magnate is encouraged to maintain the drawing powers of his own team in his own town and to provide attractive accommodations for his customers. The Chicago club, based on the old Coliseum, suffered for both its surroundings and the meager capacity of the hall until this year, when the team moved into the new Chicago Stadium, where, on a recent evenings, the Blackhawks played to 17,000 patrons, an attendance record for this event. In Pittsburgh, though, the Pirates are still at home in an old arena of unattractive type, with room for only 2,800 customers.

New York Pays $3.85.

The Garden holds 15,300, the Detroit arena 12,000, the Boston arena 13,000, and the Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa plants 11,300, 8,000 and 7,000 respectively. The highest price is $3.85, in New York. Chicago and Detroit command a top price of $3, and the maximum in the other cities is $2.50.

The Ottawa club, with a population of only 125,000 from which to draw customers, has played to 100,000 paid admissions in a season and, counting paid admissions to amateur games there, the turnstiles have clicked more than once for each resident of the town. The New York, Chicago, and Boston promoters, naturally, regard this record with pleasant envy. I don't know where he would put them, but Col. John Hammond, the proprietor of the New York Rangers, has figured that at the same rate in New York his team would entertain almost five million customers in a home season of 22 games. This would cause the ushers quite serious embarrassment.

The attractions of the game as a professional career seem to me to be slightly less than those of baseball, for the jobs are fewer, the pay is smaller dollar for dollar, and when a man loses his speed there are fewer minor leagues to which he may turn for a job. A major league club carries about sixteen hands, and while I understand that the rate of pay, per month, in hockey is about the same as the average in major league baseball, the boys have a playing season of only four months.

Cost Stops Promoters.

The minor leagues seem to be developing, but, of course, the first cost of a modern indoor skating plant is so high that promoters are not going into the business with any impetuous rush.

I disrecall just how many miles of piping Tex Rickard laid beneath the floor of the new Garden. He told me the exact figures several times in the days when he was rooting around in the cement with his walking stick tripping over loose planks and standing from under hot bolts as the workmen built the place and the architects patiently pointed out things to him on their scrolls of blue paper. He used to predict that professional hockey would take the place of major league baseball in the winter, but, then he was always excited about some crazy plan or invention.

A GLANCE TELLS YOU HIGH FOOT IS GREAT HORSE

ppears Ready for Hard Race in Few Days.

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 20.—One glance at High Foot and you realize why the Kentucky turf troupers at Churchill Downs rank the colt as one of the outstanding 3 year olds in the west. High Foot is a good looker. If he has half the running ability as he has class the west is going to have something to say about this year's 3 year old championship.

When the son of Prince Pal-Belle stepped out on the Churchill Downs course this morning he gave every indication that he could be made ready for a hard race within a few days. High Foot raced in the south during the winter.

Chicago Owned Horse.

Dick and Pat Nash of Chicago own High Foot. Their nom de turf is the Valley Lake stable. They were holding an impromptu reception at stable gate today as scores of visitors at Churchill Downs dropped in to take a look at High Foot. During the last few days High Foot has been made the equal Kentucky Derby first choice over the Fair stable's Desert Light. The visitors found High Foot snugly quartered in a box stall, the walls of which are padded. On the floor was a deep mattress of clean white straw. Morning buns were crammed with the best alfalfa and the carrot bag was hanging just outside the stall door.

High Foot is a golden chestnut and stands about 16 hands high. He is lightly drawn because he was put in training early in New Orleans and has been hard at it ever since. Except now he looks like he will weigh 1,100 pounds, which was about Reigh Count's weight just before he began his 3 year old campaign. His coat of chestnut is nearly the same shade as Reigh Count's.

Speed Lines Accentuated.

The son of Prince Pal is of good conformation, although his speed lines are a little more accentuated than his staying qualities. This no doubt comes from his mother, which was a High Time mare. But the best of critics have little fault to find with High Foot. He has an easy manner of running, and when in motion his evenness of stride immediately impresses. High Foot is fit now as far as train is concerned. He no doubt needs a few races under his belt and will get these races before he is asked to go to the post in the Derby. His first appearance under colors will be in a three race on opening day at the downs. Then the following Tuesday he will go in the Derby trial at a mile. Trainer John Partridge believes these two tests will put him in shape to run the race of his life.

Like all trainers of a Derby favorite, Partridge finds that most everybody who inspects his charge immediately appoints himself an assistant trainer. Partridge has received enough voluntary information on how to proceed with High Foot to train 40 Derby candidates.

"Speed up his work and set him down in several long, hard drills," is the advice of many.

Somehow, High Foot gives you that "I can do it" feeling. He may be a fine deceiver. If he turns out to be one, the west is in a sad way for 3 year olds of championship possibilities.

RACE IN HONOR OF DOUMERGUE ATTRACTS 80,000

AUTEUIL, France, April 20.—(AP)—Eighty thousand spectators today saw Very Well, an eight year old, capture the Doumergue Stake, a steeplechase handicap named in honor of the president of the French republic. The winner comes from the rather modest stable of Gustave Beauvois and paid 13 to 1.

Becker Finds Surprises on April Jaunt

BY BOB BECKER.

April has many surprises for the city dweller who will leave the crowded places and the automobiles and strike off across country on a hike. There are flowers under foot in the swales and the woods and a number of bird friends, many of them just arrived from the south, are on the wing.

A few days ago while hiking along the bluff overlooking Lake Michigan, about 32 miles north of Chicago, we were handed a big surprise by a long necked bird that was loafing in a spot where you would least expect it. Jack, our springer spaniel, was romping ahead, keeping close to the edge of the high bluff which is pretty well covered with shrubs. Suddenly his head went up as he caught the body scent of some wild creature.

Then, as the dog stood, ears cocked and nose in the air, a gawky looking, long necked bird flushed from the slope. It was a bittern, the first one that we have seen this spring. It flew over the tops of the low trees in a hurry to get away, much to the amazement of the springer, who had never been able to flush any bird on previous walks in this particular spot.

One of the delightful pictures to be seen on this steep slope running to Lake Michigan is that made by thousands of blossoming hepatica plants. This typical spring flower which symbolizes April is a dainty thing varying in color from purple, lavender, and shades of blue to bluish white and pink. It is easily identified by its three lobed leaves and fuzzy stems.

RAINS REMOVE ARDOR OF GRAIN MARKET BULLS

Week's Closing Prices Off 5 1-8@5 3-8c.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Rains in the southwest and the American and Canadian northwest, while insufficient in some sections of Kansas and Oklahoma to permanently relieve droughty conditions, were heavy enough to remove bull ardor from a large percentage of speculative traders and carry prices down 11½c from the high of the previous week.

The close was at practically the inside prices of the week, with net losses of 5⅛@5⅜c and all other markets also suffered declines.

Trade sentiment was mostly bearish and more inclined to work on the selling side, as the forecast for this week is for unsettled weather over a large part of the southwest.

Failure of foreign buyers to follow the advancing tendency during the critical period of the crop scare, combined with only a moderate demand from abroad, forecasts another large carryover of the 1929 crop, unless there is a change in the attitude of traders abroad. There were indications at the close of the week of more uneasiness as regards future supplies by European importers, as Argentine offerings have decreased and shipments from that country so far have been only 43,168,000 bu, against 97,760,000 bu for the same time last year.

Reports to the United States department of agriculture suggest that there will be no bumper crop in Europe this year. In this case, should the North American crop be materially reduced, the carryover from the previous year might not be so burdensome.

To Help Cash Interests.

Indications are that cash interests, with wheat at other terminal markets and at different points of accumulation, will be allowed by the government to deliver their wheat at different points and exchange it for May, so that they can get in on their hedges without bringing the cash grain to Chicago for delivery, providing the wheat is in good milling condition and of a quality satisfactory to officials of the grain stabilization corporation. This is considered a favorable proposition for cash wheat interests.

For the immediate future wheat prices are dependent upon weather conditions. The long interest has been greatly reduced by the decline of 11½c from the previous week, and a liberal sized short interest created. Open interest at the close was 161,455,000 bu, of which 83,967,000 bu are in May, compared with 166,181,000 bu a week ago, the main reduction being in May.

May wheat finished at $1.05½@1.05⅝; July, $1.06⅞@1.07; September, $1.09¾@1.09⅞ and December, $1.13⅞@1.14. Some of the bears predict that unless serious accidents befall the wheat crop lower prices are inevitable. Prices for the week follow:

	May.	July.	September.
Mon.	1.07⅞-116	1.08⅝-1.11⅝	1.11¾-1.13¾

New Harvest within 60 Days.

New harvest is within 60 days and unless something drastic happens to the winter wheat crop, and spring wheat in the American and Canadian northwest fails to get sufficient rains to give it a good start after germination, a number of the large traders are inclined to the bear side and take advantage of bulges to put out short lines.

A feature of the week's trading in May was the apparent absence of support. The grain stabilization corporation, although credited with buying May wheat on a scale down early in the week, was not noticeable in supporting the market in the closing days. It is selling wheat for export and for milling and is evidently trying to have wheat supplies reduced through conversion into flour and the latter exported. This method, while reducing supplies of wheat, is increasing those of mill feed, which, if continued, will likely have a depressing influence on feed values in general, resulting in consumers getting them at lower prices.

It is only ten days to May 1 and the trade is uneasy as to the ability of hedgers to get in on their May and sell July at a profitable carrying charge. This, it is believed, will adjust itself. There was good buying of May by elevator interests and selling of July at the close and it is said that the spread is likely to go to 2½@3c, with May at a discount under July.

LIBBY, M'NEILL CAPITAL SETUP TO BE REVISED

To Clear Up Unpaid Dividends.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Plans for recapitalization of Libby, McNeill & Libby, one of the large factors in the canning industry, were announced last night. And in the formal announcement lies a little story of generosity on the part of officials and large stockholders for the benefit of the company and the common stockholders.

There now is $18,000,000 of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock outstanding, which is mostly held by officials and directors of company. No dividends were paid on this stock for the three years ended July 1, 1925, and so the holders are entitled to $1,780,000 before any dividends can be paid on the common stock.

Agree to Exchange.

Now these preferred stockholders have agreed to exchange $8,000,000 of their stock for new second preferred stock paying 6 per cent and also to accept additional stock in lieu of the back dividends to which they are entitled.

These exchanges will save the company $80,000 a year through reduction from 7 to 6 per cent in dividends on $8,000,000 of present preferred stock and will also leave outstanding only $10,000,000 of preferred stock carrying cumulative dividends. Liquidation of back dividends in second preferred stock also will save the company from taking $3,780,000 out of its cash resources. The second preferred stock will total $11,780,000.

In order to provide for future expansion, it is proposed to increase the authorized common stock from 675,000 shares of $10 par value to 2,175,000 shares. Of the $15,000,000 additional common stock, it is intended to reserve $1,500,000 for sale to employés and customers and to offer the balance, at such times as the directors may decide, to the common stockholders at par.

Will Meet May 22.

"The report for the fiscal year ended March 1, 1930, indicates that a point has been reached in the company's progress where the capital structure should be revised so as to take care of expansion and clear the way for the payment of dividends on the common stock when conditions justify," President Edward G. McDougall says in notifying stockholders of a special meeting to vote on the proposals. It will be held on May 22 in Portland, Me.

The Cities Service company and its subsidiaries joined the scanty ranks of billion dollar corporations last year. The organizations also enjoyed the most successful period in its history, according to the formal annual report issued last night.

Total assets of the organization on Dec. 31, 1929, amounted to $1,090,227,318, compared with $913,592,354 at the end of 1928. Gross earnings last year were $185,851,053, compared with $167,255,673 in 1928, and net earnings were $69,734,315, an increase of $5,680,000. Earnings of the public utility division increased 37 per cent over 1928, with electricity sales exceeding 1½ billion kilowatt hours and gas sales approaching 123 billion cubic feet. The oil subsidiaries in December were producing 69,400 barrels a day, compared with 52,000 a year before. Retail sales of gasolene last year exceeded 1928 by 31 per cent.

The Cities Service orgnization now has the third largest stockholders list. At the end of 1929 there were 750,000 security holders, compared with 450,000 at the end of 1928. The average number of shares per stockholder was less than 70, compared with 105 a year previously.

LAST MINUTE EASTER BUYING BOOSTS SALES IN CHICAGO MARKET

Last minute pre-Easter buying spurred the sales volume, especially in city business, of mercantile lines in the wholesale market district here last week. The ready to wear lines constituted a major portion of the merchandise moved as is usual during pre-Easter activity.

Buying demand is reported to be firm throughout the United States, according to the weekly review of the Chicago Association of Commerce, which also reports that both Chicago retail and wholesale stores enjoyed a brisk business in silk dress materials, cotton goods and women's gloves. The present pace of business in Chicago, while not ahead of last year, is continuing at a firm level, it was said.

The attention of the wholesale market district this week will center on the market program beginning today of Marshall Field & Co. [wholesale]. The expectations of company officials that from 3,000 to 5,000 buyers should attend today's opening was more or less confirmed Saturday by the plans of hotels and Chicago resident buying offices, who expect a rush into Chicago of their bargain hunting client stores located in all parts of the country.

Because several thousand out of town buyers and retailers will be in the city for the Marshall Field removal event, other wholesale houses naturally expect to share in the activity.

Street, Road Contracts Lead in Awards for Week

New York, April 20.—(AP)—Street and road contract lettings led all other classes of heavy construction and engineering awards announced throughout the country in the last week, according to the Engineering News-Record. Commercial and other building awards also showed a small gain over the preceding week, but industrial building contracts showed a marked dip in volume. All classes were valued at $61,685,000, comparing with $85,789,000 in the previous week, and $75,396,000 in the corresponding week of last year.

Missouri Fire Risk Holders to Get Refund

Refunds approximating $12,000,000 are to be paid to Missouri policy holders by 168 stock fire insurance companies, Paul W. Terry, manager of the Missouri inspection bureau, announced here yesterday. The payments will terminate one phase of litigation that has spanned nearly a decade and twice reached the United States Supreme court.

The legal dispute had its origin in a ruling by Supt. Hyde of the Missouri department of insurance in 1922 by which earnings on reserves were included in the net income of insurance companies for rate making purposes. The companies, arguing that reserves were liabilities and earnings on them could not properly be included, carried the case up to the United States Supreme court which refused to review it. The companies then filed individual suits in federal court, the state appealing an adverse ruling to the Supreme court which held a stipulation entered into should be observed. This stipulation, agreed upon during a previous rate hearing, provided for refunds in event the litigation was adverse to the company.

Decision to begin payments as soon as necessary clerical work can be completed was reached by members of the subscribers actuarial committee meeting here. Refunds represent approximately 10 per cent of the premiums collected from policy holders from Nov. 15, 1922, to Feb. 1, 1928. Refunds have already been made to a total of about $2,500,000 on business since February, 1928. Stock insurance firms writing storm, wind, lightning and hail policies will also make the refunds.

Terry explained that the Supreme court decided that the companies should carry out their part of the agreement before attempting to reenter the Supreme court with their fight against rate reductions. As soon as the refunds are adjusted, he said, the companies will press their application for 16 2-3 per cent increase in rates.

Meat Consumption Gains; Pork Is the Most Popular

Meat consumption in the United States was slightly greater in 1929 than in 1928, the Institute of American Meat Packers reported today on the basis of figures from the government bureau of agricultural economics. During 1929, the report said, 8,303,500 tons were consumed, as against 8,284,500 tons in 1928. Pork led in popularity, showing consumption of 4,218,000 tons, followed by beef, of which 3,123,000 tons was consumed. Per capita consumption decreased to 136.8 pounds from 138 pounds the previous year.

Du Pont First Quarter Earnings Drop Sharply

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 20.—The report of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. for the first quarter of this year shows a net income of $17,347,625, of which $15,854,647, or $1.52 a share, is applicable to 10,463,693 common shares outstanding during the period. This compares with $23,847,677, or $2.42 a share on an average of 9,838,675 shares outstanding during the first quarter of 1929. The earnings for the first quarter of last year included $9,981,220 in extra dividends, from the General Motors investment.

Expect Farmers' Group to Be Potent Marketing Force

BY SCRUTATOR.

A "unified national plan" for grain storage is now being worked out by the storage facilities department of the Farmers' National Grain corporation.

The National, with its regional subsidiaries, is destined to be one of the most important factors in grain marketing if, as has been predicted, its membership controls 200 million bushels of the wheat that will be harvested in 1930. That amount is a fourth or more of the anticipated production in the United States.

So far little of a definite nature has been announced about the proposed plan. It is certain that existing storage that is economical will be retained. Some of it possibly will be taken over by governmental agencies. In all probability some more will be built by coöperatives backed by government finances.

Laws Seen Obsolete.

At present it appears that little or none of it will be put up in Illinois. The laws on warehousing in this state are obsolete from the standpoint of good business practice. It is one of the ironies of market history that legislation designed to protect farmers from the machinations of elevator men is now found to operate as a deterrent to the establishment of warehouses by farmers themselves or by their appointed managers and advisers.

There is some sentiment in the grain trade to have the local warehouses declared component parts of the whole system of interstate commerce and to substitute some federal control over the regular warehouses for the state's. This would put Chicago in a better position to obtain part of any new elevator space to be built.

Private capital has been little engaged in the erection of additional warehouses anywhere on the North American continent recently. Railroads, municipalities and coöperatives have tried it as a matter of policy or as a necessary adjunct to attract business. Chicago has not maintained even the storage it had thirty years ago. Warehousemen say, and probably truthfully, that until the last two years they had not made any money for nearly a decade.

Axiom of Competition.

Where small profits are in prospect, business men refuse to step in, especially if the hazard is increased by the need to guess governmental policies. The axiom that when governments move into business they kill all private competition is so exactly true that the burden of carrying out any storage increase is directly a task of farm board agencies from now on.

Little agreement exists on the changes that would have to be made in Illinois law to encourage warehouse building in Chicago, but it would be regrettable if the obvious advantages of the shipping facilities of this terminal market were kept from farmers, in the fullest measure, by a failure to remove the legal disabilities in some way.

General Food Earnings in First Quarter Increase

New York, April 20.—(AP)—General Foods corporation reports first quarter net profits of $5,990,764, equivalent to $1.13 a share. The company, formerly known as Postum, earned $5,168,384, or $1.10 a share, in the first three months of 1929.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 20. — There were fairly distinct indications in last week's stock market that even professional Wall street is getting back to a mood in which it will look at things as they are, and not necessarily as it would like them to be.

AUTO INDUSTRY IS BULWARK OF STEEL TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 20.—The increasing activity in the Detroit automobile factories is now regarded as the bulwark of the iron and steel industry and is regarded in steel circles as the principal reason for the expanding activity of the mills during this week.

Up to the present in the current year steel activities have been greatly handicapped by the lessened activity in the motor car industry. The great reductions in the number of automobiles which practically all the manufacturers have seen fit to turn out, in comparison with the great first quarter activity in Detroit during the first quarter this year has made it impossible for the steel industry to approach the pace set last year.

It is generally admitted that 1929 was an abnormal year and that it would be very unlikely if many of the industrial levels reached in that year would be touched this year, especially in view of the stock market decline in the fall. But observers have noted that a year ago the automobile industry was at and very nearly past its peak of the year.

This year automotive production was sharply curtailed during the first quarter. Even before the stock market decline last year, manufacturers had noted impressive decreases in the number of cars sold and had begun to make plans for restricting factory operations.

Several companies, notably the Willys-Overland company, announced they would begin 1930 by restricting production to as nearly the consumer demand as possible, instead of manufacturing for an expected demand. This cut materially into the steel specifications necessary.

At present, however, indications are that consumer demand has increased sufficiently to risk the stepping up of automobile production.

McKesson & Robbins.

Will you kindly send me any information you may have relative to the McKesson & Robbins common stock. Would you consider it a sound investment?—C. H. F.

McKesson & Robbins, Inc., was formed in August, 1928, to consolidate McKesson & Robbins, Inc. (Conn.) and sixteen wholesale drug organizations to serve the retail drug trade and to distribute its own and other nationally advertised pharmaceutical supplies. It has rapidly expanded and as of May 15, 1929, included 56 wholesale distributing units. Manufacturing facilities are concentrated at the company's plant at Bridgeport, Conn.

Profits in 1929 were larger than the year before, but not enough to cover the increased number of shares outstanding. The president stated that results in 1929 did not indicate the true earning power of the corporation because of large expenditures of a preparatory and nonrecurring nature which had been incurred and written off in connection with the acquisition of additional companies and the coordination of other operations with those of the parent company.

Net sales in 1929 totaled more than $140,000,000. Net profit was $4,109,872. This was equal to 2.71 times dividend requirements on 425,780 7 per cent preferred shares (par $50) and was equal to $2.65 per share on 1,016,698 no par common shares, after deducting $70,000 subsidiary preferred dividends. These figures include the results of operations of newly acquired companies prior to acquisition. Net profit in 1928 was $3,741,281, equal to $3.70 per share on 682,114 common shares.

At the close of 1929 current assets were a little more than double current liabilities and there was left a net working capital of $29,597,175, against $19,397,331 a year before.

Dividends on the common are $2 per year. This stock is medium grade and somewhat speculative at present.

American Laundry Machinery.

Please send me any information you can regarding American Laundry Machinery stock, listed on Cincinnati stock exchange.—R. G. T.

American Laundry Machinery company, manufacturer of machinery for laundry, dyeing, and finishing purposes, reported net income of $3,542,141 for 1929. This was equal to $5.44 per share on 651,722 common shares (par $20), and compares with net income of $4,128,273, or $6.52 per share on 632,745 shares in 1928.

The balance sheet at the end of 1929 showed a strong financial position with current assets twenty-five times current liabilities.

The decline in earnings last year was attributed to heavy expenses incident to the development and marketing of new machinery.

The current dividend rate on the common stock is $4 per annum. This stock is regarded as high grade.

Texas Gulf Sulphur First Quarter Earnings Drop

The Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. reports net income for the quarter ended March 31 of $3,803,701, equal to $1.49 a share on no par 2,540,000 shares. This compared with $4,766,989, or $1.88 a share, in the preceding quarter and $3,880,260, or $1.53 a share, on the same number of shares, in the like quarter of last year.

RAISE DIVIDEND.

Directors of the British Type Investors, Inc. have increased the regular dividend on the class A stock to 54 cents annually.

Stockholders of the St. Joseph Lead company have approved an increase in common stock from 2,000,000 to 2,500,000 shares.

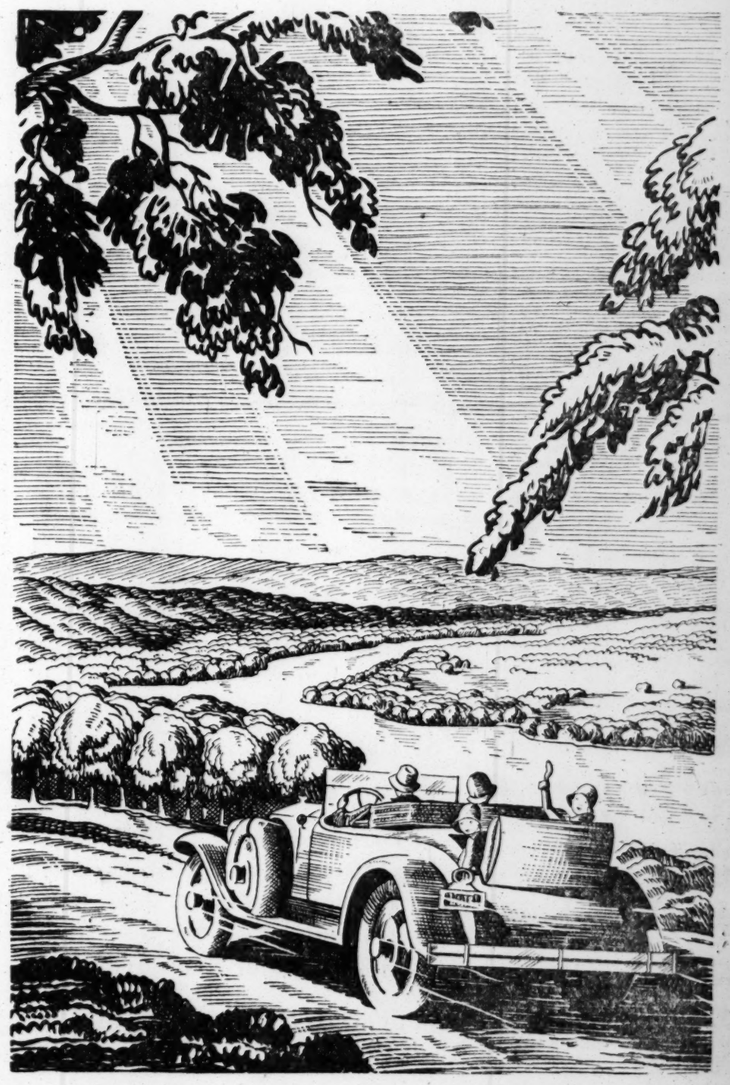
LUCKY is the family that has two cars. While the head of the house drives to his business in the morning and home in the evening, his wife and children can still enjoy the keen zest of motoring.

They need not confine their driving to evenings and week-ends. During the day they can ride quickly and comfortably to school, to the club, to a friend's home, or out into the country when Spring fills them with a desire to see what's on the other side of the next hill.

Living is more fun—more free. And the cost is low compared with the pleasure derived from it. Thousands of families have bought good utility cars—doubled their motoring enjoyment—by simply using the guide to low-priced used cars that the Tribune prints every day.



Here, in the Tribune Want Ads, is a chance to choose from among hundreds. Here you have wider choice and selection than in any other newspaper. The cars go for low prices. They've been driven, but they have thousands of miles of satisfactory operation left under the hoods. Many have been reconditioned until they cannot be distinguished from new cars. Among them you can find the extra car you need and want.

CHICAGO'S YEAR-ROUND USED AUTO SHOW

WALL STREET IS GETTING BACK TO HARD FACTS

Professional Attitude Is More Rational.

It was in that frame of mind; examining with care the actual returns of production, trade, and employment, and trying to discover from these tangible facts when the real turn for the better was likely to come. But the reckless "professional" wearied of that. He may have seriously thought that cheap money in Wall street would at once and automatically revive a business boom, irrespective of other influences.

He may actually have believed the stock market to be an independent industry, not concerned with trade vicissitudes. Possibly, although not himself in the least deluded on either supposition, he may have imagined that the outside public would not have sense enough to see the fallacy. At any rate, a bold pretense was put up of returning to last summer's speculation.

Attitude Changes.

The process naturally made necessary revision to last year's way of handling facts. Stock brokers' borrowings increased nearly half a billion dollars in a month; that, so speculative Wall street and its coadjutors in printed comment explained, meant that "the public" was buying as enthusiastically as it bought last August. More particularly, an attitude of hostility and dislike began again to show itself towards any one who cited unfavorable news.

It was something like disloyalty to point out reduced production, or prices, or employment, or freight loadings. People who believed in the United States would say as little as possible on such offensive topics, and stress the sure indications of easy money and rising stocks.

This attitude, regarded dispassionately, might seem to indicate curious inversion of purpose in the investment market, which for several centuries has been supposed to be the crucible in which the facts of a business situation, good or bad, will be ascertained, tested, appraised and placed in their proper relation to quoted values. It is true that this office of the stock exchange was largely discarded between the middle of 1927 and the middle of 1929. Yet somehow Wall street itself, in the larger classification, proceeded then and proceeds now with eager and intensive search for the actual truth in regard both to individual companies and to the general situation.

Meaning of Reaction.

Even speculative Wall street may be returning at least for a time to that intelligent frame of mind. It is safe to say that in no other way can it reach trustworthy conclusions as to what the real meaning of the present business reaction is, what measures should be taken to meet it, and when it is likely to be overcome. The past three months have shown quite indisputably that something else was wrong with the economic situation a year ago than a mere outburst of mania on the stock exchange.

Whether staple prices—even though not, except in one or two industries, pushed up like the price of stocks—had really become maladjusted to the actual position, or whether consumers had been indulging in illusions regarding their own purchasing power, in goods as well as share certificates, in either case we have been faced with an important economic revision. It would be singular exercise of judgment to ignore or reverse any statistical evidence which seemed to point to the nature of the problem, merely because it was not favorable.

MASSMEETING TO STUDY STATUS OF CO-OP ASSETS

Members of the Coöperative Society of America, all stock, bond and mortgage holders and depositors of the City State Bank of Chicago, which closed its doors some time ago, will hold a mass meeting next Saturday from 1 to 9 p. m. to devise a way to protect the interests of all those concerned in the foregoing organizations. The meeting is to be held on the seventeenth floor of the Peoples Life building, 130 North Wells street.

At 8 p. m. of the same day, April 26, there is to be a business meeting. Dr. C. A. Kirkwood, 4152 West North avenue, is chairman of a committee which will have charge.

Cream of Wheat Profits Running Ahead of 1929

The Cream of Wheat corporation reports net profits of $536,000 for the first quarter. This compares with $479,957 in the same period last year and is equivalent to 88 cents a share on the capital stock against 80 cents a year ago.
